"The Linotype Way is the Way that Wins"

Official paper of the Town of Gresham, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1917.

Entered as second-class matter March 2, 1911, at the Postoffice at Gresham, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

MORE UNITED SUPPORT

More united support is needed for the Chautauqua, which is to be held here in one week more. The guarantors are facing the prospect of making good a deficit again this year, a circumstance which will not be conducive to the return of the Chautauqua entertainers. They feel, and justly so that the general public should take up enough of the burden to make everyone share alike with each other. Unless this is done there will be no entertainments next year. Those who signed for season tickets are also requested to leave the money at the bank of Gresham this week and get their tickets.

BUY A BOND.

No one who can spare $50—and a good many persons can spare $50 now—a-days, especially on the installment plan—can make a safer or more profitable investment of it than to buy a liberty bond. In addition to the safety and profit, there is the element of patriotism for everyone of these bonds helps the country just so much in a just war. There are millions of people who can and should buy one or more of the smaller bonds—the $50 or $100 denominations—and their investments in the aggregate will add enormously to the total. Not one of them should get the idea that his mite is of no consequence. Every bond bought is of consequence, and the wider the distribution of the bonds the better it will be both for the bondholders and the country.

A liberty bond at 3 1/2 per cent interest is a profitable investment. As no tax, not even the income tax, can be imposed on it, the $3.50 a year paid on each $100 is a net return. In Oregon where taxes amount to about 2 1/2 per cent, this would mean a 6 per cent investment, and in many other states where taxes are higher, the return would be greater. Furthermore, money so placed causes no worry about its safety, and no annoyance in collecting the income from it.

PLENTY OF GRAIN.

There are cheering indications that the grain supply of the United States this year can be made to fill all home demands with something left over. Federal control is necessary to bring this about and at this time the only thing that stands in the way of such an influence is the lack of congressional action which will enable the government to go ahead.

Only ten days ago the subject was discussed in Washington by Herbert C. Hoover and a special committee of the council of grain exchanges and a committee from the Western Grain Exchanges. President Wilson favors control. Mr. Hoover, who probably knows as much about the subject as any one in the world, is known to favor it. And at this conference the grain trade favored the principle and agreed to a suitable method of carrying it out.

It was brought out at this conference that if the people will exercise the most stringent economy, if the raiser will do his best to bring all he can to market, and if the government will take steps to break up food corners and fix prices that will allow normal economic laws to operate within safe limits, there will be enough wheat to supply the needs of this country and enough left over to take care of much of the foreign demand. This conclusion, coming as it does from a reliable and representative source, places upon the shoulders of congress a pretty plain duty. No congressman, we believe, who dodges this issue will dare face his constituents.

But at the mention of government prices fixing the farmer winces. He argues that he has planted wheat in the expectation of profiting by the war, and that he is entitled to his profit. So he is. And the government will see that he gets it.

But the government will also see that what the consumers pays is a fair price to the farmer, plus a fair price for handling, milling, etc., and not a price which includes tribute to the clever manipulators who operate on grain exchanges, in imaginary wheat. The government is not going to do anything which will cause the farmer to plant less wheat next year, and this consideration alone should set at rest whatever price-fixing fears are abroad in the grain belt.

A FUND FOR MORALITY.

Oregon's campaign to raise its share of the $3,000,000 Y. M. C. A. war fund for welfare work among Americans with the armed forces has gone on encouragingly with a total subscription to date of about $50,000. The churches of the state did well in bringing the subject before the people, and information regarding the nature and importance of the work has been distributed through other channels, so that all who can afford to give anything are acquainted with the need for money. And it is difficult to see how anyone who knows what the Y. M. C. A. is doing for the armies in Europe can conscientiously refuse to support the work planned for the American forces.

The government is going to protect the morals of its boys by every means within its power, but aside from providing chaplains, it does little beyond enforcing measures prohibiting the preying upon soldiers by persons of questionable character. On the Y. M. C. A. depends the essential work of providing means for the men to spend their spare hours with profit. This is enough to occupy the entire attention of the best men the Y. M. C. A. can get, and since there is already need for welfare work, it is desirable that the money be subscribed at once so that the workers can carry out their program.

Events will come crowding along pretty fast next week, and keep on coming for two weeks at one stretch. Next Monday will be election day; Tuesday registration day; Wednesday the opening of Chautauqua which will last seven days. Then, after but one day of rest, the rose festival will commence and run for three days. We haven't doped out the remainder of the month but we feel that it is lucky for us that Memorial Day and the Fourth of July don't come in June.

Some persons we know of are beginning to wonder why the Oregon iron ore fields are not in operation in a time like this! There is plenty of capital here but it looks as if we need some eastern brains to pry it loose from those who have it.

The more we hear about such things the more we are convinced that the law of supply and demand has been amended to suit the convenience and profit of some of the food speculators.

Somebody tells us that the high cost of silk is the fault of the Japanese. It is mean of the Japanese to take advantage of the war to force up the price of the necessities of life that way.

Billy Sunday says he would like to go to Europe with Colonel Roosevelt just to shine Roosevelt's boots. Why does he want to nose some poor Greek out of a job over there?

A person who plants his whole farm to onions this year is on the scent to riches. Besides, the onion breath is very fashionable, as it makes a strong impression.

Those who do not happen to have enough money to buy a liberty bond may be consoled by the fact that they will be permitted to help pay interest on them.

Constable Squire says that the dog days will begin next Friday. We always said that Friday was an unlucky day for some people and some dogs.

Oregon editors will begin to assemble in a few weeks. Then the kaiser will begin to see his finish loom high upon the horizon of fate.

If it wasn't for prohibition a stein of suds would now be selling for ten cents in Oregon. The composure of the ants is remarkable just now.

There is more money in raising hogs at $16 a hundred live weight than in paying 30 cents a pound for salt slabs dead weight.

Germany is scornfully saying "Ach, the Americans." After awhile they will say "Ouch, the Americans."

Every day is fly-swatting day, including holidays.

MONEY TO COME BACK.

We are all vitally interested in Portland, being almost a part of it. And for that reason we are proud to say that Portland is a city in a peculiar situation. In a score of ways Portland people have the advantage of almost any other city.

In the matter of the liberty loan bonds, Portland will get back more of the money loaned for those bonds than will perhaps any other city of its size in the United States. In pay for lumber alone the bond money will return in a steady flow. This is made possible by the building of wooden ships which will soon be going on in nineteen shipyards.

Of any investment made in Portland a greater per cent of money stays there than can be claimed for any other. Let a man build a home there, and 90 per cent of the money stays in Portland. The lumber money and the labor money. It all stays except the hardware and glass.

It is going to be the same way with the money which Portland capitalists and many others are going to invest in the liberty loan. That money, or a large portion of it, will never leave Portland banks. And what does leave will return. The building of ships alone will bring it back. The sale of lumber will bring it back. The produce shipped to the allies and to our own soldiers will return it. It will come back with doubled interest.

HORSES TO BE HIGHER.

Horse meat is being sold in Portland for ten cents a pound. The animals are killed just a few miles west of Gresham at the rate of fifteen a day and their meat is finding a ready market. As the government will want 250,000 horses and mules during the next few months, between the two it seems that the horse is to become scarcer than ever, but there will be some compensation in the thought that what is saved in stock grain consumption because of fewer horses will go to lessen the cost of food for human beings.

It is expected that the government will pay $100,000,000 for horses this year, as they are more scarce than ever before in the history of this country. The European war has already drained the bulk of good animals from the United States and those who now have suitable horses and mules that will meet requirements are in luck. They will get the highest prices ever paid in this country.

Among the instruments of the band which played before Nebuchadnezzar's golden image on the plains of Dura was the psalter, a stringed instrument (Daniel III, 5, 10, 15.)

The girl who says "I can" and goes to it, will be helping some in the great struggle.
