DESTRUCTIVE INSECTS AND HOW TO KILL THEM

Plant lice, or aphids, comprise one of the most important groups of destructive insects. Everyone is familiar with the soft bodied, sometimes winged but generally wingless, plant lice which gather so abundantly upon roses, cabbages, beans, cherries, apples and various other crops so common to this locality. Some species live beneath the ground but generally they thrive upon the trees. For this reason only the latter will be discussed here. Further information regarding either type may be had from the county agriculturist's office, phone 47 Gresham.

Are your rose bushes inhabited by a light green or yellow insect which is quite small? Or are they covered with a larger body of bright green color (sometimes pinkish) about one-eighth inch in length? If so you can be almost sure it is the aphid.

Are your cherry trees infested with a black or dark brown, shiny six-legged insect with two antenna (feelers) sticking out from their heads? Then you have aphids on your cherry trees.

Later on, as the days get warmer and the plants larger, the cabbage plant is liable to an attack from a dark green or yellowish insect with narrow, somewhat broken transverse brown lines across the body. The insect is almost entirely covered with a white powder. This aphid collects in large, dense colonies on the plants and is very destructive to them.

The bean is susceptible to a dark aphid which is often covered with a fine, white powder, which gives them a whitish or grayish appearance.

The sprays used in controlling the insects which attack the bark, fruit, or foliage may be arranged in two classes, viz: (1) Summer sprays and (2) winter sprays.

Summer Spray—During the summer when the trees are in foliage, the sprays should be rather weak to avoid burning. Various formulae of nicotine and tobacco sprays seem to be the most satisfactory. The two following formulae are especially recommended:

Black leaf 40..... ½ ounce
Soap..... 4 ounces
Water..... 4 gallons

Dissolve the soap in hot or boiling water; add the "black leaf 40" and boil for a few minutes, after which add enough water to make four gallons of the material.

Black leaf 40..... 1 pound
Cresol soap (liquid)..... 1 gallon
Water..... 200 gallons

The latter mixture is the most convenient and effective for larger mixtures. The mixtures are sprayed in the usual manner.

IN MEMORY OF LILLIE LUSCHER.

Well, she's gone, Lillie's gone.
Her life passed out without a struggle
Into the infinite night. Alone she passed
Into the silence of the Great Beyond.
And even now her soul has flown
On wings of peace through the Unknown
Land.
To those bright and shining gates
That stand ajar. We know she's gone,
And that her soul is resting, yet our ears
Are ever listening for that kind and gentle voice.
And our eyes are ever watching, and expect to see
Her smiling face before us in the room.
Her place is vacant and the home forlorn,
And yet we long, and half expect to hear,
Her joyful, cheery laughter, as she works.
We long to hear that sweet and tuneful
voice,
Singing as she plays.
Lillie's gone—Yes, we know she's gone,
Yet her memory will ever remind us
Of a noble life sublime. A FRIEND.

Forethought.

People are learning that a little forethought often saves them a big expense. Here is an instance: E. W.
