"The Linotype Way is the Way that Wins."

Official paper of the Town of Gresham Official paper of the Town of Fairview.

Entered as second-class matter March 3, 1911, at the Postoffice at Gresham, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

BUYING LIBERTY BONDS.

The sales of liberty bonds to the people is so encouraging that it is now practically certain that the entire issue will be taken up by the 15th of this month, the date when all are expected to be sold.

Practically every financial institution in the country is selling liberty bonds, and most of them have arranged partial payment plans by means of which the purchaser can buy a $50 bond for as little as one dollar a week.

In arranging for sales on this basis, the treasury department has done well, for it has taken the war straight home to the people. Had the appeal been made directly to the bankers, no doubt this first loan would have been oversubscribed in a week, and at less expense to the government.

And in going straight to the people the government has indicated confidence in the ability of the people to pay the bill. The growing popularity of liberty bonds is evidence that the government has not erred.

ABOUT VACATIONS.

With the vacation months approaching the average person who can get away for a week or a month is thinking seriously of making a visit to the seaside or mountain for a season's rest from work or boredom, according to his vocation of work or idle dawdling about the town.

The only question in the mind of such a man can be whether his job is in any way related to the life of the nation. If not, it matters little whether he works at it or not—and there should be precious few such persons this year.

We make a great mistake in sometimes thinking that the only work of importance is that performed by those who are incorporated in the armies of the nation. In one sense, their task is of secondary importance. They could do little or nothing if they did not have behind them all the forces of the nation—industrial, commercial, moral and spiritual.

how weary in muscle or brain—to its performance. There will be no vacation for the nation. There should be none for any of its citizens except those who are broken in body, mind or spirit so as to be of no social value.

What we have is not a war between armies, but a war between nations, as the president has very clearly shown. It is the duty of all to labor to make the nation as efficient as possible during the approaching summer, which ought to be regarded, not as a respite, but as a time of preparation for the tremendous work to be done in the fall and winter.

The summer of 1917 is in truth to be the great harvest time. The fruits will be gathered later. What they shall be depends wholly on the faithfulness of those who are charged with any responsibility. We are all—and we should so regard ourselves—as soldiers in this war. What demands will be made on us we cannot know, but we surely must feel that, whatever they are, we should be prepared to respond to them instantaneously and wholeheartedly.

The United States senate committee has recommended that guns be furnished Home Guard companies in order that they may learn the manual of arms while drilling. It is up to the Gresham company to increase its numbers at drill in order to get a big lot of guns.

Someone has suggested a "Bureau of Ideas" for the war department, which will investigate and report on all suggestions bearing on the conduct of the war. We second the motion for it would enable all the busy-bodies to get busy.

Oregon is not included among the states which Secretary McAdoo will visit or his second liberty loan tour, leading one to suspect that the government expects Oregon to take its share of bonds without any prodding from Washington.

The food survey bill carries an appropriation of $5,800,000 for seeds, and it is to be hoped good seeds will be bought, instead of the congressional chicken feed that our statesmen have been pestering us with.

If it be true that some Oregonians are fleeing into Canada to avoid military service, what ought to be done to them when they come back? Put them on the roof with a piece of rope and take the ladder away.

National Grab Boss Hoover is taking up a whole lot of front space in the big papers. He evidently doesn't intend ever to give any political enemy a chance to accuse him of shying at the spotlight.

Some of the slackers accuse us old married men of hiding behind petticoats. Well, hardly. Quite a few old wives would be willing to send their lopsided old men to the defense of the flag.

The American army uniform is becoming a familiar sight in London, and it is expected that in a year or two it will be more conspicuous in Berlin.

Nevada was the first state to enlist its quota of volunteers, but that was to be expected. Who wouldn't get out of Nevada at the first chance?

Some of the recent Portland candidates seem to be of the kind that must always blow down a gun barrel to see if it is loaded.

The government will probably impose a stamp tax. In that way the slackers will get accustomed to licking something.

War fashions demand that the waste line shall be very low. This is not a fashion note, but an axiom.

Agricultural production this year does not demand a bumper crop of wild oats.

LAUGH MAKERS AT CHAUTAUQUA

The Wassser Company Presents Two Programs Full of Laughter and Happiness.

The Wassser Company in programs of music, sketches, readings and original stunts present one of the delightful entertainments of the Chautauqua.

Mr. and Mrs. Wassser were formerly prominent entertainers at Northwestern University and later graduated from one of the leading Boston training schools. For several years they have been attracting unusual attention on the Chautauqua platform.

Mrs. Wassser has specialized on child impersonations and is strikingly realistic in her portrayals of youthful eccentricities. Mr. Wassser in his readings and songs introduces clever and laughable stunts all his own.

Visitors to Portland Rose Festival, don't fail to visit the new store of Chapin & Welch, 79 6th street, now open with a complete line of automobile supplies, tires, tubes, gasoline, oils and vulcanizing. Bargains in tires. More miles for your money.—Adv.

Bowel Complaints in India.

In a lecture at one of the Des Moines, Iowa, churches a missionary from India told of going into the interior of India, where he was taken sick, that he had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with him and believed that it saved his life. This remedy is used successfully in India both as a preventive and cure for cholera. You may know from this that it can be depended upon for the milder forms of bowel complaint that occur in this country. Obtainable everywhere.
