THREE MORE HAPPY, SNAPPY DAYS AHEAD FOR LOVERS OF MUSIC, ORATORY AND FUN

The peak of Chautauqua musical feature attractions for 1917 assemblies will be the Royal Venetian Band, personally directed by the famous Italian Conductor, Signor Joseph LoZito. The undisputed American, as well as European prestige, enjoyed by the Royal Venetians is due to two things. Not only is it one of the really great globe touring musical organizations, but it includes perhaps the finest brass sextette of band soloists in the world.

At Newport Beach, R. I., last season, the most exclusive place in America, the Royal Venetian Band played daily to the largest crowds in the history of that famous resort. The rousing enthusiasm and ecstatic fervor which greeted every appearance of the Royal Venetians, repeatedly rose to a pitch of frenzied delight.

Appearing as soloist in joint concert with the Royal Venetian Band comes Mary Adel Hays, prima donna soprano of New York. The astonishing celerity with which Miss Hays sings the most difficult coloratura passages, is reflected in a voice of velvety smoothness, sustained warmth and power. The Royal Venetian-Hays concert comes tomorrow—Saturday.

One of the most stimulating and effective personalities in the national movement for civic betterment now sweeping the country is Mrs. Lorene Wiswell Wilson, of the Federated Woman's Clubs of America. Because of her achievement, both from her pen and from the platform, in the social, civic, educational and administrative standardizing of towns, Mrs. Wilson is aptly known as "The Community Engineer." This assembly will hear her in her most comprehensive lecture concerning women in civic affairs, "The Adventures of Being Human." She will be here tomorrow forenoon.

Sunday Program

The Wasser Company are joyful entertainers. They are happy themselves and it is their mission to make others happy. They will give two programs on the fifth day and both will be crammed with laughter and pleasure.

Their programs consist of songs, readings, sketches and impersonations. Mrs. Wasser has specialized in child impersonations and you forget her own personality and see only the youthful character she is portraying.

Mr. Wasser in his readings introduces clever and laughable stunts, while his songs and ukelele-playing are a feature of every program. The greatest tonic known is a good laugh—hear the Wasser Company to keep in good health.

One of the entertainers of last year was W. L. Mellinger who spoke on "Mexico." He comes again direct from Mexico, where the Eagle of our sister Republic lies prone and bleeding, pierced by a thousand darts of disension. He is a noted lecturer and authority on Mexican affairs. Mr. Mellinger reveals the truth about Mexico in a gripping lecture-treatise. This lecture is "Misunderstood Mexico" trenchantly emphasized by intimate stories of Villa, Carranza, Madera, Huerta, and other leaders with whom he came in personal contact.

Unusual Attractions.

Sunday evening's greatest attraction will be the motion pictures of Mawson's Antarctic Expedition.

The Boston Transcript says these pictures are the most wonderful travel pictures ever taken, for the following reasons: "They were secured 10,000 miles from America, 2,000 miles from the nearest human habitation; Birds and animals photographed that cannot be seen in any zoo in the world; Deep-sea creatures, previously unknown to science, brought from depth of 3 miles below the surface of roaring blizzard at windiest spot on earth—Adelle Land, Antarctic—when wind attained velocity of 216 miles per hour, and where average velocity for 27 months was 50 miles per hour; The tragic story of the 1,000 mile sledging journey is unsurpassed in the history of exploration; The Penguin, originator of the Charlie Chaplin walk, is more humorous than the monkey—and millions of these were photographed in one Rookery; Pictures show monster Sea Elephants, thousands of seals, sea lions, sea leopards, petrels, cormorants, skua gulls, albatross—in every variety and stage of growth."

Sir Ernest Shackleton, the famous explorer says: "I consider these pictures the best ever taken."

The Sir Douglas Mawson motion pictures cost $300,000 and for real movie thrills they hold first place in motion picture photography.

The story of the Expedition will be told by the lecturer in charge of the pictures, exactly as told by Sir Douglas Mawson.

Monday—Last Day.

The closing day of Chautauqua will be marked by a program of rare merit. Wood Briggs, the Kentucky story teller will hold the afternoon audience in connection with the Junior pageant.

Not since the memorable days of Bob Taylor has the American platform witnessed a master of Southern dialect, drollery and lore of the plantations, comparable to Wood Briggs. "Glorious Bob" had played so well on the emotional strings of the human heart that when at last his voice was still, it was honestly believed that his like would never be heard again. But Wood Briggs, the inimitable Kentuckian, now wears the mantle and upholds the highest traditions of his illustrious predecessor.

Tyrolean Alpine Yodlers.

Chautauqua closes with a grand concert, "An Evening in the Alps," produced by Graus' Company of Tyrolean Alpine Yodlers. This is the famous company which the New York Hippodrome featured for the Alpine scene in the forty weeks' run of the Hipp's monster Spectacle, "A Trip Around the World."

The Tyroleans are the most unique voice ensemble to the stage and concert platform, scoring in their trills, calls and ventriloque echo illusions, the most astonishing feats in vocalization possible with the human voice.

but she has warmth and sympathy of interpretation, as well as that butterfly lightness in the execution of coloratura passages. The large audience at Children's Day services last Sunday evening showed their fine appreciation by making a generous offering of $6.50. Shackleton Lauds Mawson

Sir Ernest Shackleton Says Mawson's Antarctic Pictures Best Ever Taken

SIR ERNEST SHACKLETON in an article on Sir Douglas Mawson in the London Daily Mail, says: "Science has everything to be grateful for in Mawson's achievement and nothing in which to find disappointment. I consider his pictures of the Antarctic the best ever taken."

Sir Douglas Mawson headed the Antarctic Expedition which secured the wonderful pictures which are to be shown at Chautauqua. These films are among the most costly ever taken, representing the expenditure of about $300,000 and the loss of several lives in securing them. They are the most thrilling and most unusual pictures ever thrown on the screen. With the pictures at Chautauqua, the story will also be told of the Expedition just as it was told by Sir Douglas Mawson himself.
