"The Linotype Way is the Way that Wins"

Official paper of the Town of Gresham. Official paper of the Town of Fairview.

Entered as second-class matter March 2, 1911, at the Postoffice at Gresham, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

FARM VACATIONS.

When the subject of vacations was mentioned in the last issue of the Outlook one of our readers suggested that we had not struck quite the right key.

But it has been suggested that a change of labor might be better than the treadmill work of a steady job.

Our reader just mentioned believes that much of the scarcity of labor in the fields may be overcome if every business man who feels equal to the task should take his vacation on the farm.

Now, what would be more sensible than a vacation on the farm, helping some discouraged and hardworking farmer save his crops.

On the whole we believe our reader is right. The able bodied business man who contemplates a vacation could scarcely do better than take two weeks on a farm.

DUAL ELECTIONS.

Last Sunday's Oregonian mourned the fact that a majority of the voters of the state imposed a condition upon us that will require all state, county and city elections to be held on the same day.

In 1920, it is not an exaggerated probability, we shall have the names of 150 candidates on the ballot and the titles of fifty measures of all kinds.

It is to be regretted that the papers of Oregon never raised a protest against the measure. The Outlook pleads guilty to a sin of omission in this respect, but its space was mostly taken up in other matters of more importance.

But there may be a way to avoid a horse blanket ballot. So far as we can find out there is nothing to prevent separate elections by the cities on the same day.

To hold a city election in three precincts can't be done, because in that case, all the judges and clerks would have to be taken from inside the city limits, and each precinct embraces a large territory outside the city boundaries.

It is to be hoped that the state supreme court may find some way to set aside the amendment. It may be a part of the constitution but it might well be found "unconstitutional."

THE COMING CRISIS.

The lagging that has marked recruiting in many states—not Oregon—for the various branches of the military service of the United States is much nearer the end since registration day than many anticipate.

The war department announces that the regular army and national guard must be recruited up to full strength by June 30, and that such units as are not filled by that time will be built up from men drafted under the selective draft law.

Throughout the land, in every community—in this community—the government will be active. It will call the citizen to the colors and he must respond.

The remainder of this month and the month of July will be a time of more than usual interest all over the nation, because it will mean the withdrawal from their customary occupations of hundreds of thousands of young men.

The readjustment in the customary activities here and elsewhere caused by this shifting of men from private to military service will inevitably bring us to a deeper realization of the crisis which confronts the country.

The rather indifferent attitude of many communities toward the liberty bonds will gradually give way as the processes of war readjustment are set in motion.

But what we started to say is that the next six weeks will bring everywhere far greater activity than we have seen thus far, and from this time on it will be a constant stream of men to the front and a constant call for government loans.

The hour of fate has struck the United States and the people must face the situation as it comes.

The inquisitive subscriber at Troutdale asks us what is meant by the quotation "The mind is the garment of the soul." It means that a good many souls are going very thinly clad even for summertime.

Seattle bootblacks have, it is said, agreed not to shine shoes after 9 p. m. Now if their customers agree not to have their footwear polished before that hour, the Greek crisis will have arrived.

That 10,000,000 list of conscriptive selected young men would indicate that conscription is praiseworthy and that they preferred to be conscripted rather than to volunteer.

This growing weather makes it quite clear that there is a demand for lawn mower chauffeurs after the regular day's work has been done.

Some of the fellows who are going to California for a trip are probably trying to find a wet and dry map of the Pacific states.

It is getting to be almost unanimous. Brazil is in the game on the side of the allies, and China has a civil war on hand.

Our country prosperous can pay the war costs as they come, and have enough left over to aid our allies.

JUNE BRIDES.

This is the month of June and June brides. And just a parting word for the bride: Unlike the poet, a husband has to be made for they are not born, therefore the June bride should be fully cognizant of the fact that if she's to have a husband she'll have to take a man in his wild, crude, unrefined state and fashion him into one.

Unless she's fortunate in selecting tractable material, she might just as well try to bridle a zebra—a real Barbary, North Africa zebra. A sensible bride will ask herself these questions before her wedding day: "Could I love him if he chewed tobacco in the house? Could I be proud of him if he had a heavy, damp moustache? Would I sigh for his freedom if he ate his dinner in his shirtsleeves? Could I trust him if he shaved every day? If he appeared on the porch in his bare feet would it shatter my romance? Have I the personal and physical charms to hold a husband and spur him on to making a living?"

If a girl's married life is going to measure up to her dreams she's got to do some tall training. No bride, however, should assume that she's the one that's taking all the chances at a wedding. In these days when even carrots are a luxury, a man is some plunger that assumes the extra added burden of a wife. The fellow that's coming out even while single, has everything to lose and nothing to gain.

When he takes in a full partner without experience he's simply giving up his freedom, all his income except tobacco money, his gang—he's just held himself up and been robbed, that's all.

But there's a way of making him like it if the girl who hooks him understands the art of husband making. "The first-class husband maker," some writer has said, "should have faith, hope and lots of charity." Some men or readily turned into good husbands, but more often the work is as slow and tedious as the building of the Portland postoffice.

Making a wife, too, out of a girl, is some undertaking, but most girls are naturally wifey if they've got any chance at all. But the high cost of everything that goes to sustain a wife will have the effect of producing a far better grade of weddings this June than we've known in any previous June since the year of the great comet.

No doubt the amateur gardeners wouldn't mind cultivating the ground after a rain if they had any way of telling when the rain had stopped.

Now that the government has passed up all men over 31, there is nothing to interfere with their constitutional right to save up enough money for a liberty bond.

Even if that anti-hoarding bill passes it won't prevent you from getting in your winter's supply of fuel and other necessities while the getting is good.

The Texas cavalry wants twenty-five men who know how to cuss mules. If cussing can help win the war why not turn it loose against the kaiser.

From recent activities on the Mexican border, it is pretty safe to say that Villa has read about the arrival of General Pershing in England.

If you must go on a vacation, despite the economy plan to eliminate vacations, you can go to Europe at the cheapest rates ever known.

In a word: The natural life of the country must proceed as though we were not at war, in order that we may have the necessary prosperity to promote the war to a quick and successful conclusion.

From the way some of the rich men of Portland are subscribing to the liberty bonds they must regard it as a movement designed to raise a fund to buy some nursing bottles for the baby home.

The billions to be expended in war preparation will be put in circulation in our own country, and this in itself will create new wealth for use in the world-struggle for humanity.

"Preserve or Perish" is respectfully recommended to every housewife as a slogan for this year of 1917.

Keep business going for our country's sake.
