TWO COMMUNITIES TO JOIN IN CELEBRATING FOURTH OF JULY

The Home Guard companies of Gresham and Pleasant Home have joined together in a plan for celebrating the Fourth of July. The committees of the two places met here on Tuesday evening and made partial arrangements, each agreeing to do its bit toward making the affair a success. Credit is due the Pleasant Home boys for taking the initiative in the matter and the matter of choosing the locations for the celebration was left to them. They decided on the county fair grounds as being the most central and best suited for their purpose, and everybody in Gresham will help the affair along.

W. R. Burke was appointed general chairman for Gresham. He, in turn, appointed seven committees to work in conjunction with the Pleasant Home guard, both endeavoring to do their utmost to make the affair a success. Following are Chairman Burke's appointments:

Finance—C. J. Lundquist, Joe Pateneau, L. L. Kidder.
Advertising—George W. Page, Chase St. Clair, J. Cannon.
Concessions—Frank C. Jones, B. F. Bauer, B. L. Walrad.
Sports—E. W. Stratton, Richard Werner, Bert Metzger, Ed. Aylsworth.

FIRST STATE BANK NEWS

Now you might look for some excitement among a congregation of men at three o'clock in the morning if they were at 42d and Broadway, New York, or at North Third and Burnside, Portland, but not at Main and Powell streets, Gresham. Nevertheless on the morning of June 20, about three a. m. there had congregated near the fountain in Gresham a group of men that were somewhat perturbed.

A few minutes before Joe Alpine who faithfully guards the Portland pipe line, passing through Gresham during the wee small hours of the night and has always had a keen eye and a loyal feeling for the welfare of the First State Bank, noticed an automobile pass through town. Now an automobile passing through Gresham does not usually arouse the suspicion of Mr. Alpine but on this particular night he scented trouble and when, a few minutes after the automobile passed, he discovered a pedestrian dressed in black with a tight fitting cap pulled well down over his head and wearing rubber soled shoes walk briskly but quietly down Main street without even greeting him and turn the corner at the First State Bank his instinct told him something was doing and when he heard a sidewalk door slam he could already feel in his trouser pocket the weight of $100 the standing offer of the insurance company for the arrest of any one attempting to rob the bank, so he stole cautiously around to the south side of the building to see that the intruder did not escape. There was no question about the man having gained entrance to the building for the sidewalk door had been used the day before for taking wood into the basement. Just then a chair was overturned in the bank. The intruder had already begun work. He must act quick. He had no authority to make the arrest alone. He must have the assistance of the town marshal and perhaps the deputy sheriff.

Haste was made to the telephone office just across the street and the telephone operator notified to summon both the marshal and deputy sheriff. Alex Wilkinson, the town marshal with his Colts, and Squires, the deputy sheriff with his Winchester, hastened to the scene of the robbery to assist in capturing the prize. There was commotion within the building and it was thought best to have an entrance on the ground floor rather than fight their way from the basement so President Meyers was called but not without great caution for fear of disturbing the burglar. He must not be called on telephone in usual way for that would ring the bell in the bank and give the burglar notice of impending danger. So his neighbor Mr. Cameron was aroused from his peaceful slumbers and asked to notify Meyers of the dastardly work that was going on at the bank.

When Meyers had been aroused sufficiently to realize what had been told him and had secured sufficient clothing to venture outside he drove the old Ford like it had never been driven before. When the bank was reached Deputy Sheriff Squires ordered the front door of the bank unlocked and with cocked rifle drawn to his shoulder boldly entered, followed by Mr. Alpine and Mr. Meyers, while Marshal Wilkinson was left outside with drawn revolver to see that the prisoner did not escape through the sidewalk door.

That some one had been in the room could not be disputed for the stenographer's chair had been overturned. There were no indications of murder so they must cling to the first clue that of robbery; but where had the prisoner gone? Meyers found that the door leading to the basement was securely locked but the men with the guns insisted on the basement being searched. While thus engaged Wilkinson announced from without that the prisoner had escaped, not through the front entrance and gained admission to Latourelle's garage.

ELECTION INCIDENT ARGUMENT CLOSED

BORING, June 21.—Editor Outlook:—In regard to the item in the Outlook about the Boring election board being wrong, signed by H. P. Larsen, we wish to remind Mr. Larsen that there were six of us present—five members of the board and a deputy sheriff, and they are all sworn officers. And they will have to write many columns to convince them that they are guilty of some things he is accusing them of. They have admitted the only question at point of issue in this argument, and we see no use of prolonging it, as his article of June 15th comes far from the facts.

C. M. LAKE, H. L. BALL.

Bernhart Bauer suffered a painful injury a few days ago when the sidewalk door, through which he was throwing wood into the basement of the First State Bank, fell on his hand. Although very badly bruised, it is believed that no bones were broken.

Gold Brooch Lost.

Mrs. E. Davidson lost an old-fashioned gold brooch somewhere between Cleveland avenue and the Gresham Baptist church on Powell street, last Wednesday evening. Reward, phone 509.

Dance at Sorensen's hall Saturday night, June 23, from 9 o'clock to 1:30, five miles west of Gresham on the Section Line road. Gents 50c.

ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS IS GRESHAM RED CROSS GOAL

The Red Cross drive hit this locality in dead earnest last night when a few of the Portland solicitors came out and explained the needs and methods of the great subscription campaign now in progress over the whole country and helped to organize the local solicitors for effective work.

It was explained incidentally that this part of Multnomah county, outside of Portland, had been overlooked by the general state committee, supposing it would be included in the Portland drive. But the Portland committee had confined its work to that city.

The meeting was presided over by Judge Stapleton who introduced the speakers and himself gave an earnest and impressive appeal which did much to deepen the interest already felt in the worthy cause.

Among the speakers were Milton Kohn, Percy Smith and Walter Coss, all of Portland. These explained the work of the Red Cross, presented the present urgent needs of this paramount organization in connection with the part of the United States in the war for liberty and appealed for adequate funds with which to prepare for their work of saving the human wrecks rescued from the battlefields of strife. Touching incidents in connection with the work of the committees in Portland and in the state were related. Some were of heroic efforts and gifts of real sacrifice, others of miserly response on the part of the well-to-dos which called forth the cry of shame.

It was explained that the work of the American Red Cross was entirely neutral. While its opportunity was found chiefly among the American soldiers it helped friend and foe alike as occasion required and funds allowed. Its object was to alleviate suffering, care for wounded and dying soldiers and extend such help as possible to those made destitute by war's devastating toll. Its work was purely humanitarian and purely voluntary. Its management and expenditure had been wisely and carefully administered and never charged with taint of graft. Only two organizations, the speaker said, were recognized by the government and allowed on the battlefields—the Red Cross and Y. M. C. A.

And as we love our country, our patriots and our fellowmen, it is up to all, especially the men and women who are left at home in the enjoyment of life, liberty and plenty, to make real sacrifices for those who fight our battles and preserve our liberties.

The response for funds should be immediate, generous, patriotic and self-sacrificing.

It may be your boy, it may be mine who will be in need of care. What wouldn't we do to try to save them? In a larger sense all of them are your boys and my boys. We have said our legions of liberty must help to liberate mankind and every bruised, bleeding and dying boy on the battlefields of Europe must be attended with loving care—and will be—if we do our duty generously.

The various committees appointed by Chairman Meyers are now at work. The Gresham committee was increased by the addition of B. F. Bauer, E. W. Aylsworth and D. M. Roberts. The goal for Gresham has been placed at $1000.

John Honey is assisting with auto in Troutdale, Charles Latourelle with auto in Fairview and Mr. Rich with auto in Pleasant Home. They, with the local committees, are taking in the entire districts surrounding those places.

It is thought best for those subscribing to hand their subscriptions to those in charge for their districts. However, those that find it inconvenient to pay their district committees may remit direct to Mr. Meyers at the First State Bank, stating in which district they desire to be credited.

T. Yoshizawa is collecting from the Japanese of this section, and yesterday reported the sum of $15. He expects to raise a considerable sum from that source.

POMONA ENTERTAINMENT

Pomona grange meeting last Wednesday was just a big, overflowing indoor picnic. And it was an ideal meeting place for such a gathering—the large, roomy hall of Evening Star grange.

It was something unusual for Pomona to give over the whole afternoon and half of the evening to the public with open doors, and listen to a program of oratory, music and other entertaining features.

Pomona's new lecturer, Mrs. E. D. Palmer, seemed to sense the fact that there would be no real business for the grange to transact and had provided a greater feast of reason and flow of soul than had ever before been known at such a gathering. There was no legislation to suggest, no resolutions were read to be debated, no thought of worldly cares—nothing but to visit, eat two grange dinners and have a good time for the greater part of the day.

Among the interesting features of the program was a real patriotic oration by "Farmer" Smith on "Soldiers of the Soil." Those who thought Mr. Smith was only an expert on corn culture were wonderfully disappointed. He can talk and say something. The theme of his address was embodied in the statement that a soldier can't fight with an empty stomach, and he urged the greater production of food and the conservation of that which has been produced.

COUNTY ASKS FOR MILES OF PAVING

Clackamas county, which lately voted almost two to one against the $6,000,000 road bond issue, with 4179 votes against and 2273 for the measure, has now asked the State Highway commissioners for eight miles of paving during 1917, on the Pacific highway between Oswego and Barlow.

This request was made by the county court and furthermore asks that the entire highway through this county be paved as soon as possible.

done by Pomona was when the matter of a grange field day came up. It was decided to hold the gathering at the county fair grounds on the last Saturday in July. All the granges of the county have appointed committees on arrangement and they are to meet here on Sunday afternoon, July 1, at 2 o'clock to begin the making up of a suitable program. Divisions of labor will be made and every other detail of the day will be discussed and settled upon.

The field day is not for members of the grange alone. It will be for everybody who cares to come, and all are invited. While the ten granges of the county, represented by Pomona, will make complete arrangements and bear all the expense as well as do all work it is to be a public affair. Some noted public speakers of the state will be here, and if the weather is propitious it is expected that there will be a large attendance. And a large attendance is what the grangers want.

The short secret session of the evening was taken up with the initiation of five members in the fifth degree. Then followed another program under the direction of Mrs. Palmer, assisted by the lecturer of Evening Star grange. It was open to the public and fully half of the audience were from outside the grange. It was another successful entertainment. The next meeting of Pomona will be held in Gresham on the third Wednesday in September.

GRESHAM COMING BERRYING CENTER

Gresham in the near future will be more advertised by the fine quality of berries grown on the surrounding farms than any other one industry. A. Heiney, on the Phoenix farm, is specializing in strawberries of a standard quality packed so that they sell to the extra fancy trade.

His berry crop this year justifies him in buying a new Studebaker delivery car. With it he can handle about 100 crates a day, which will take care of his crop this year.

DAUGHTERS OF THE REVOLUTION MEET

The Willamette Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution held their annual picnic, Wednesday, June 20, at Gresham Heights farm. Mrs. R. F. Walters was hostess, assisted by Mesdames King, Knight, Lamont, Manville, Olds, Ordway. The members and guests with basket lunches came to Gresham on the electric or in their own machines. Some of the members enjoyed the walk up the hill to the farm through the woods. After the dinner, a meeting of the chapter was held and it was voted to pay for the maintenance of an orphan in France. The adoption of a badge signifying by its bars, the number of relatives the wearer has in the present war was also formed. Some of the members were industriously plying their needles in Red Cross work during the afternoon. Plans were also made to further assist in the war relief work. Those present were:

Mrs. Edward Beals, regent; Mrs. Esther A. Jones, Mrs. John J. Read, Mrs. A. M. Gray, Mrs. S. B. Dickenson, Mrs. Caroline Reckert, Mrs. Samuel C. Olds, Mrs. Rachel F. Walker, Mrs. Carrie R.
