Official paper of the Town of Gresham
Official paper of the Town of Fairview.

Entered as second-class matter March 3, 1911, at the Postoffice at Gresham, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

E. C. LINDSEY.

E. C. Lindsey was a man of pronounced convictions, but ever straightforward in his ideas of integrity, honesty and patriotism. His worth was inestimable to the community from which he will be missed. As a progressive business man, his work in helping to build up Gresham is apparent enough to set the seal of industry upon his memory. His legion of friends will regret his untimely death and mourn his absence from among them.

The Outlook, occupying as it does a portion of the Lindsey building, would add its tribute to the memory of one with whom it has had close business relations for the past three years; it ever found him strictly fair in all his dealings and ready to do everything in reason for the comfort and convenience of his tenants. Socially he was always interesting and entertaining but never meddling or too familiar. Yet he knew how to express himself and his feelings and was never backward in doing so. The lack of his presence is felt already in the places where he was most often to be found.

COMMODITY PRICES.

People in every state have for years been robbed by food and other monopolies or combinations of dealers. Farmers everywhere, even here at home, were fooled by the buyers of their produce, and it is doubtful whether the people who bought—the ultimate consumers—derived any benefit. The profits went to the man who fooled the farmer and sold at greatly enlarged prices. Yet there are those, among them certain members of congress, who insist that there is no need for any action on the part of this government to protect the American producer.

We should think that the people would see, and we believe the most of them do see, the necessity for curbing this shameless greed that is trying to take a profit from the sufferings and miseries of mankind. There is not a public service corporation in this state, or any other state, that is not controlled by the public in its ratemaking. Why should not other dealers in the necessities of life be subject in war time to some regulation? The heat and light companies, the street car lines, the water and gas companies are under the strictest control. Yet the men who sell to them—and to the rest of us—are free to make whatever prices their shameless greed may suggest.

This nation is at the present time under the most solemn obligations to its allies, and is bound to see to it that they get what food they need at prices that are fair and reasonable. It is bound also to care for its own people, who are to be called on to pay taxes such as they have never before known. Yet there are senators, most of the democrats, who pretend to be frightened at the prospect of "despotism." The problem is not a mere war problem.

This plundering of the people has been going on for years. We have been cursed by a despotism as odious as any people ever knew. It is time to end it. We do not say that the pending bill is all that it should be—perhaps it is not. But we do say that any congress fairly representing the American people, and responsive to their needs, will be interested in trying to get through as promptly as possible some measure which will protect the people from as wicked an exhortation as any people ever knew.

DRAWING RECRUITS.

Within a few weeks at most the government will be taking at least 500,000 young men as recruits for the United States army. To a great many people it has seemed as if the government was going to a great deal of trouble with its plans for drafting these men and exempting others, the argument being that with an excellent recruiting machine in good working order, it would be wise to simplify the plan by sending recruiting officers to every county and large city and allowing them to choose suitable men. This scheme has the merit of simplicity, but it embodies the idea of the military seizing the men, an undemocratic and hence an un-American procedure.

The war department's problem has been to keep the drawing of recruits free from local influences, and at the same time to make it plain to every community that its young men are not being dragged into military service, but are being sent out as the community's contribution to the nation's fighting strength. The conscription project is not a war department recruiting campaign, but the country's regularly accepted plan of exerting its strength to the best advantage. Thus the community really gives its men.

The local exemption boards must therefore be men of conspicuous wisdom and patriotism, and although there are many such men in every community it can be seen that the government, in order to preserve the fine spirit of the conscription law, must exercise every possible precaution. Hampered by the efforts of politicians to obtain places on the board for friends, and pressed for time, some mistakes will doubtless be made, but on the whole the delay will be worth while, and when the personnel of each board is announced there should be very little dissent from the people. If there is, then the government's failure will in part be due to the selfishness of petty politicians, and the work will be unsatisfactory, for the conscription must, above all else, be absolutely fair.

A FARM PEST.

Now is the time to rid your fence lines and corners from the Canadian thistle. Various parts of the county are going to be seriously seeded to this pest if proper action is not taken now.

The Canadian thistle is one of our most difficult weeds to get rid of and one of the most ravenous in its spread. It will choke out practically every farm crop and make farming an impossibility. The state has recognized this fact and has enacted laws to prevent its spreading. If you have Canada thistle near your place, on the public highway or any private property protect yourself by reporting that fact to the road supervisor at the county court house in Portland and he will see to its eradication.

Methods of eradication will be furnished free upon application to the county agriculturist at Gresham, either by letter or by personal, or phone call.

ONE AMERICAN STATE.

Oregon has furnished more men to the regular army since April 6, the outbreak of the war, than any other state, with a single exception in proportion to population.

Oregon has furnished more than its quota to the navy, and leads the western department in enlistments.

Oregon has provided for the marine corps far more than its share.

Oregon subscribed $12,200,000 to the liberty loan, with an allotment of $8,500,000—the heaviest over-subscription among the Pacific states.

Oregon gave $1,000,000 and more, to the Red Cross, with an allotment of $600,000. Portland, to which was assigned $200,000, gave $400,000, and thus takes rank among the most liberal of givers among American cities.

The Oregon National Guard was first in all the states to be recruited to war strength.

It is a proud record of militant and efficient patriotism. Oregon will not only do its bit—no little bit, as some may do—but more than its part.

Good old Oregon! Loyal Oregon! Noble Oregon! True Oregon! Your fathers founded here a state—the first American state in the Far West—conceived in liberty, dedicated to freedom, consecrated to human rights. Your sons will keep the fires of equality, opportunity and fraternity burning, the flag of democracy forever waving.—Oregonian.

A new student of the Kansas State Agricultural college, Miss Emilie Peristano, is one of the six girls sent by the queen of Greece to prepare themselves to teach in a school of housekeeping, to be established soon in Athens.

After eleven years of married life and one month as an elevator boy at the Baltimore in New York, Charlie Phillips turned up his nose at his wife's pork chops, and was left a grass widower in consequence.

With prices soaring everywhere, Middletown, Del., has the distinction of being a town where a price has come down, dealers having reduced milk from 8 to 6 cents a quart.

The hardest luck in America today is the lot of that well and immemorably known individual who is "looking for work and doesn't want to find it."

Those who write Christmas "Xmas" haven't anything on certain headline artisans who write Red Cross "Red X."

APPRECIATES HELP GIVEN BY OUTLOOK

PORTLAND, June 29.—Editor Outlook:—This letter will convey to you the personal thanks of Governor Withycombe, and of myself, for the patriotic co-operation of the Gresham Outlook in giving publicity to War Census news sent out by this office for the information of the public. Thanks are especially due for the generous space and prominent headings given in your issue of May 22, "War Census Day is Set for June 5," in issue of May 25 to "Registration of Absentees is Imperative;" in issue of May 29 to "War Census Day to be a Holiday;" in issue of June 5 to "Registration Day is Made New Holiday," and in issue of June 12 to "Prosecution Will Follow All Slackers."

Very truly yours,
GEORGE A. WHITE,
Adjutant General.

RURAL LETTER CARRIERS HONOR GRESHAM MEN

At the state rural letter carriers' convention, held in Albany on Saturday, Louis D. Howard, rural carrier number one out of Portland, was elected president for the coming year. Mr. Howard was formerly a resident of Gresham, where he was a substitute carrier on route three. He is a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Manning.

At the same convention E. E. Chipman, carrier number one of the Gresham force, was elected national delegate to the annual convention next fall.

We can see where Friends Carranza and Villa are about to get in bad with the kaiser for not keeping General Pershing tied to the border.

Another evidence of the progress of things in the right direction is Harvard's first "bone dry" commencement.

"Two bites to your cherry" will be a good plan to follow this year, as the reports show a short crop.
