PASTOR WHO WAS PIONEER AGAIN HERE

One of the pioneer Methodist ministers of the Pacific Coast, who was at one time pastor of the M. E. church at Gresham, has been visiting here for the past week. Although a pioneer of 1852, his first work in this vicinity was in 1870, when he was junior preacher under Rev. W. I. Casper, who was in charge of a circuit covering 400 square miles and extending from East Portland to Bull Run and from the Columbia river to the Clackamas river. They had twelve regular Sunday meeting places in that territory besides several on week nights, and covered them with astonishing regularity despite the fearful condition of every road at that period. All travel was done on horseback.

It was in 1883 that he was appointed in charge of the pastorate here with Powell Valley as the center. Besides preaching in what is now Gresham he had a circuit that comprised Damascus, Boring, Fairview, Pleasant Home and at two places down the Sandy road west of Fairview. Some of those places were not named then, neither was Gresham, but he held services where they now flourish. He had a large part in making such places community centers which afterward grew to the dignity they have attained.

His first preaching here was in the old "White Schoolhouse" which was situated a few blocks west of where the present Gresham schoolhouse now stands. It was also occupied by the Baptists, Free Methodists and Dunkards. When the old schoolhouse burned in the fall of 1883, Mr. Chapman invited the other denominations to meet in the second story of the old Methodist parsonage, which stood just south of the present M. E. church, and which was also burned sixteen years ago.

It was while he was yet the resident pastor that the second schoolhouse was built. It is now the Gresham "grange hall." He also had the first Methodist church built on the site of the fine edifice now known as the Linnemann Memorial church. It was built facing what is now Roberts avenue but was later turned around so as to face the Powell Valley road. Afterward, when Dr. Thompson built the newer church it was moved further over on the lot and was finally sold to another congregation. It is now doing duty as the German Evangelical church and is just as good as it ever was.

When Mr. Chapman came here in 1833 all that there was of the town was the old parsonage, a Good Templar's hall that is now a dwelling house on Second street—it stood just at the rear of the Metzger building then—and Ben Rollins' store just south of the fountain. These were the only public buildings. Mr. Chapman was one of the petitioners to have the town made a postoffice with Ben Rollins as the first postmaster, and to have the then Postmaster General, Walter Q. Gresham allow the use of his last name as a name for the village. Mr. Chapman built the parsonage, just mentioned. It was occupied by Rev. John Naugle and family when it was destroyed.

When the first church was built it cost $700, all of which but $18 was paid off before it was dedicated by Bishop Warren, under the pastorate of Rev. B. J. Sharpe, the next pastor. Mr. Chapman continued in this conference until 1887 when he transferred to Baker City. In 1892 he went to Salem as agent of the Willamette University and from there to New England in 1893 where he settled down. He is here now on business for the American Tract Society of New York, with the whole state of Oregon as his territory. His youngest son, Dwight Otis Chapman, now 32 years of age, was born in the old parsonage here. He is now at the Plattsburg, New York, officers' reserve training camp, in training for a lieutenant in the United States army. Two other sons are also in the army.

Mr. Chapman is a rare conversationalist and has a large fund of reminiscences of early days. He came here when only six years old and saw Portland grow up from one street to a metropolis before he went to New England. He is enjoying his visit and meets with many old-time acquaintances and is making a host of new ones.

PROGRAM OF FIELD DAY AND SPORTS

A large number of granges have been working at the fair grounds today building the speakers' and musicians' stand. The platform will be 16x32 feet in size and will hold a hundred people. It is to be the property of the fair association and will be used for the evening concerts during fair week.

Following is the literary program to be given next Saturday under the auspices of the Field Day committees:

Program 10:30 A. M.
1 Music, Beyer's Concert Band.
2 Song, "America," Grange Chorus
3 Address of Welcome, Mayor George W. Stapleton.
4 Address, Hon. B. F. Mulkey, of Portland.

5 Music, Beyer's Concert Band.
6 Address, Hon. D. G. O'Shea, president of the Federal Land Bank, of Spokane.
7 Song, "Old Glory," Grange Chorus.

Basket Dinner.
Program 2:00 P. M.
1 Music, Beyer's Concert Band.
2 Song, "Star Spangled Banner," Grange Chorus.
3 Patriotic and Comic stunts by the several granges.

Program 3:00 P. M.
After the other exercises are over the remainder of the day will be devoted to field sports of all kinds and possibly horse racing. There will be dancing in the evening.

WILD FLOWER GARDEN AT HIS RUSTIC HOME

One of the most carefully kept and most beautiful flower gardens in this section is that of R. H. Cayzer, on the Sandy Boulevard, about one and one-fourth miles west of Fairview. Mr. Cayzer's place is named "The Lodge" and he has spent four years setting out the garden, which consists mostly of wild flowers and plants, and building his house, a one-room rustic dwelling, in which very little mill lumber is in evidence. All of the work was done by Mr. Cayzer himself.

The garden contains many plants of both the wild and tame varieties. He has, however, very few of the so-called tame plants, a few poppies, some baby breath, violets, etc. Every plant in the garden represents some friend, the donor, or has meant a trip to the woods by Mr. Cayzer to get it. When he wants to add a touch of "forest" to the garden he gets a snag from the woods and transplants it, or he makes a very good flower-clad stump by wiring up a few pieces of bark and filling it with soil. There are paths all through the place, and Mr. Cayzer always spends his Sundays at home, showing the garden to his friends and other interested callers.

Mr. Cayzer is, besides being a landscape gardener, an artist of considerable skill and his house contains a large number of the works of his brush, among them, a portrait of Miss Lillie Luscher, which was started before her death.

MISS EFFIE STANLEY NOW MRS. McCARTER

Sherman McCarter and Miss Effie Stanley, two well known young people, were the principals in a wedding at the M. E. parsonage on Sunday afternoon last, Rev. A. C. Brackenbury officiating at their nuptials.

Excepting the bridesmaid, Miss Hester Thorpe, and the best man, Elmer Deetz, only the immediate relatives of the couple attended the ceremony. A reception was held that evening at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. McCarter have taken up their residence in Whitehead addition where they are at home to their many friends and acquaintances.

Poultry Farm for Sale.

Ten-acre poultry farm, five miles east of Gresham. Houses to accommodate 1300 hens, brooding capacity for 6000 chicks; 2744 square foot brooder capacity floor space. Land all in cultivation and family orchard. For further particulars call H. W. Cooley, phone 434, Gresham.

"What name are you calling?" asked the telephone girl over the wire.

"McCohen," the customer answered.

"I beg pardon?" asked the girl. "The wire was silent for a moment, then the girl said: 'Wait a moment, please. I think the wires are crossed.'"

MEN WHO WERE CALLED TO ARMY FROM GRESHAM AND VICINITY

Draft Call Order Sets Forth Duty of Every Man Selected Official Notice to Drafted Men

Seventy-one young men of eastern Multnomah and Northeastern Clackamas counties, all living within ten miles of Gresham and many of them accredited to this vicinity, were drawn as possible soldiers in the selective draft last Friday. All but three of them are exempt from the first call, because Multnomah county has already furnished her full quota of volunteers. The three who will be called on the first draft are William J. Teevin, of Gresham; Joseph Walch, of Gresham, and Roy Funk of Boring. They will have to go because Clackamas county, in which they live, must furnish more men.

A few more names were drawn of young men who live just outside of the city of Portland, but their names could not be secured, as Portland is their postoffice address. Sixty-three are known to be residents of eastern Multnomah, and eight of Clackamas county, some of whom get their mail from Gresham, as in the cases of Teevin and Walch who live only a few miles south of here.

Portland's list was heavier in proportion to population than the country. Probably there are fewer young men in the country than in the city, proportionately, who are subject to the call. One peculiar circumstance in the drawing throughout the state is the fact that every agricultural agent or assistant, of draft age, was drawn. Perhaps enough of them will be exempted to continue the work they are now doing.

Of the entire list twenty-four are credited to Gresham, fifteen to Troutdale and five to Fairview. But many of them are on farms and get their mail on the rural routes. The others are scattered through different localities.

Following is the list from eastern Multnomah and Clackamas county in this vicinity:

- Garbarino Amedeo, Fairview.
- Hjalmer A. Staffenson, Gresham.
- Charles Dahlquist, Gresham.
- Howard F. Fish, Bridal Veil.
- William T. Ledbury, Fairview.
- Verne F. Statter, Troutdale.
- Dixon Jones, Gresham.
- Claude S. Pierce, Capital Hill.
- Lawrence T. Evans, Troutdale.
- Fredrick J. Morgan, Troutdale.
- Tenville F. Collins, Gresham.
- Walter E. Lundberg, Montavilla.
- John Arthur Woods, Bonneville.
- Gottlieb Schwab, Fairview.
- Vern S. Lucas, Troutdale.
- Ralph W. Gholson, Gresham.
- John Keating, Troutdale.
- Thomas McMahon, Bridal Veil.
- Manuel Garcia, Bull Run.
- Sylvander Simms, Troutdale.
- R. H. Kaser, Gresham.
- Richard Werner, Gresham.
- James A. Hobbs, Bull Run.
- Guillo Garbarino, Fairview.
- Ransford W. Thorpe, Gresham.
- Taylor Thomas, Gresham.
- James Udy, Corbett.
- Gerald G. Girard, Corbett.
- John Hares, Corbett.
- Stewart Thompson, Troutdale.
- George Williams, Clarine.
- Fred Hick, Corbett.
- Cecil E. Metzger, Gresham.
- Guy T. Levisse, Fairview.
- James Gaydon, Palmer.
- John Nageli, Troutdale.
- John Barker, Latourelle.
- O. E. Berke, Gresham.
- J. F. Jones, Gresham.
- John C. Strebin, Troutdale.
- Domnick Cunningham, Gresham.
- A. J. E. Watter, Fairview.

Frank L. Christensen, Gresham.
George M. Pleasant, Bridal Veil.

PORTLAND, Or., July 23.—Within serial numbers, showing the order serial numbers, showing the order in which they were drawn in the lottery at Washington, will reach the various county exemption boards. Following receipt of these lists, the boards will notify the men called up on the first draft.

Until then it will not be necessary for those subject to call on the first draft to report. But as soon as they receive notification from their boards, they must report promptly on the day designated.

The first step taken by each board will be to post in a conspicuous place a list containing the names of all the men registered in its county or district, in the exact order in which they will be called on the first and all succeeding drafts. A copy of this list will also be given the press for publication.

Let it be emphasized again that this list will have not only the names of the men to be called out on the first draft, but of every man registered, in the order in which he must be called. No person whatsoever has any authority to change this order.

Having posted this list and given a copy to the press, the board will then notify by letter every man called up on the first draft. Each man will be directed to appear before the board for physical examination on a specified date, which will be within seven days of the mailing of the notice.

Failure to receive this notice will not be accepted as an excuse for not appearing on the day set. The burden of appearing when he is called is on the man himself; there is a heavy penalty for failure to answer the call.

Remember, that regardless of whether a man intends to apply for exemption or discharge, he must appear for physical examination on the day set. He has seven days from the posting of the list and the mailing of the notice to him by the board in which to file application for exemption, and 10 more days in which to file proof.

And remember again, that no claims for exemption because of employment in necessary industries, including agriculture, can be considered by your county exemption board. Such a claim must be made to one of the three district appeal boards, at Portland, Eugene, or LaGrande. It can only be made then after the man has passed his physical examination and been certified by the county board as called for military service and not exempt.

After you have appeared before your county exemption board and passed the physical examination, it will still be some time before you will actually be called out to join the army. You will be notified when it is time for you to report for service.

Up to His Tricks.

Lord Rosslyn at a dinner in New York once said of a notorious London spendthrift:

"When he was at Oxford he wired once to his uncle, whose heir he was: 'If you don't send me a hundred by Saturday I'll blow my brains out.'"

His uncle wired back: "You telegraphed me that before, and when I forwarded you my best revolver you went and pawned it."

LESSONS IN DRYING OF VEGETABLES

Demonstrations in the art of preserving vegetables by evaporation are being made in numerous places and one such lesson will be given in Gresham. It is a good thing to know how certain vegetables may be preserved, especially in a time like the present when cans and glass jars are at a premium and there is a need for conserving all food products for use during the season when nothing grows.

Economy may be effected by drying vegetables by artificial heat. The simplicity of the method and equipment and the ease with which the dried product is kept makes drying a very practical substitute for canning. Demonstrations to be made here will give but a vague idea unless fortified by printed instructions, as only those who are keen observers or have long memories could hope to realize the best results from a course of instructions lasting less than an hour. Realizing this the Outlook has secured the following plain directions, which, however, may not be strictly in accord with the ideas to be advanced by the instructor who will be here. Yet they are just as good. They are from the Missouri College of Agriculture:

"When drying string beans or peas a good green color may be preserved by blanching them before placing in the dryer. (Vegetables may be blanched by placing them in boiling water for a few minutes and then plunging them into cold water.) Prepare the peas and beans as for cooking. Blanch from two to five minutes and place in the dryer at a temperature of 140 degrees to 160 degrees Fahrenheit.

"Corn should be cooked in boiling water from eight to fifteen minutes or just long enough to set the milk. It is then cut from the cob with the thin, sharp knife and placed in the dryer at a temperature of 140 degrees to 160 degrees Fahrenheit.

"Vegetables such as carrots and sweet potatoes may be dried. Vegetables of this type dry better when cut in small pieces.

"It requires about three hours to dry vegetables by artificial heat in a simple drying apparatus, which can be made at home." Such a dryer may consist of a series of wooden trays, two inches deep, with screen wire bottoms. The trays should be placed one upon the other and elevated above the stove or other source of heat, by a box ten inches deep, from which the top and bottom have been removed, and which should rest on four bricks to permit air circulation under the dryer.

IRRIGATION PERMITS IN MULTNOMAH COUNTY

State Engineer Lewis issued 104 permits to appropriate water and four permits to construct reservoirs during the second quarter of the year 1917, covering the irrigation of 5,395 acres of land and the development of 161 horsepower, with an estimated cost of construction totaling $86,529. Permits were issued covering water supply for the city of Amity, Yamhill county, water works to cost $15,000, and for supplementary supply for the city of Forest Grove, the cost of additional construction being estimated at $1,000.

During this period three permits were issued in Multnomah county, as follows: to Lorens Lund, of Portland, for domestic supply and running a ram, works to cost $1,500; to Henry R. Dabney of Portland, for domestic use and irrigation of two acres, at a cost of $4,000; also to Henry R. Dabney for domestic use and irrigation of 51 acres with works costing $4,500; all three permits covering water from unnamed springs.

CHRISTIANS MOST USEFUL.

The world has many noble men and women. Their lives are a constant blessing. It is worthy of note that those who do the most good for the world are those who acknowledge Christ as their Saviour and teacher. The hope of the world's improvement lies in obedience to our Lord's teachings. Every one should resolve early in life to be governed by the truths revealed in the Gospel of Jesus Christ.—Exchange.

NEW STORE OPENED TO BIG CROWD

Somewhere around one thousand persons were seen at the formal opening of A. W. Metzger's new store on Saturday evening. The spacious building was thronged from seven o'clock until after ten, each person making a tour of the store that is all on one floor and expressing wonder and delight at the finished appointments and offering words of praise to Mr. Metzger for the enterprise that has given Gresham the most complete establishment of its kind in Multnomah county outside of Portland.

Erected solely as a general merchandising store to accommodate a rapidly-growing trade that has been built up by enterprise, fair dealing with every customer and quality goods, the new edifice has been newly stocked with everything demanded by a discriminating public. And it was thronged for three solid hours with people from not only Gresham but for many miles around who not only wanted to show their appreciation and good will, but to assure the owner that he had anticipated their needs and conveniences and made another substantial increase to the business spirit of the town.

People just wandered around and around, meeting acquaintances and exchanging all the common-places of the evening, and everyone stopped at the central counter to drink a glass of grapejuice to the success of the new store and its proprietor. On a side counter were cigars for those who smoked. Those who neither drank nor smoked were regaled with dainty pastries—and sometimes the more venturesome got all three. But nothing was sold. To Miss Mamie Hoss was given the task of being hostess, assisted by half a dozen of volunteers, and no one was forgotten.

Half a block away the old store had its crowd, too. To celebrate the event Mr. Metzger had announced a bargain rush, leaving the people to find out just what the discount would be. There was a rush when they found that they could save twenty cents on every dollar by making their purchases then and half a dozen clerks never worked harder at taking orders. Everything went at a 20 per cent discount, but it was Mr. Metzger's way of avoiding the job of moving the goods. And so great was the rush that many people went away without a chance to buy after waiting an hour or more.

The new store is situated on the corner of Powell street and Roberts avenue. It is 50x60 feet with a full basement. But for the office and a spacious storehouse on the south side it is all one floor devoted to the sale of goods in groceries and other merchandise for household use. Everything was new on Saturday evening, and only the best of the stock from the old store has been transferred. The building is of brick with a pressed terra-cotta and marble front with plate glass windows. It is superbly finished, finely lighted, and convenient. The various goods on sale have been arranged in departments. There will be no waste space although there will be plenty of room. Added help will be found to wait on the increasing number of customers and there will be the same courtesy, the same high standard of goods and prompt delivery at all times.

The new store is being rapidly filled up with a full assortment of goods suitable for its customers. Bert Thomas and Mrs. C. Humason are assisting in the arrangements, while Floyed Metzger is driving the extra delivery car. Miss Helen Hoss is helping on the books.

THREE RUNAWAY GIRLS RETURNED TO THE HOME

Three girls, inmates of the Louise Rescue Home, were reported missing yesterday evening, having run away. They appeared at the home of Mrs. Sam Strebin about 11 o'clock last night and were given shelter and food.

After they had gone Mrs. Strebin called up Constable Squire who overtook them on the Highway and brought them to Gresham where Justice Rollins ordered them returned to the Home.

The girls' names are Amy Keister, aged 16; May Askins, aged 16, and Mamie Davis, aged 15. They are from Medford, Ashland and Klamath Falls.
