"The Linotype Way is the Way that Wins."

Official paper of the Town of Gresham Official paper of the Town of Fairview.

Entered as second-class matter March 3, 1911, at the Postoffice at Gresham, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

NOT OLD AT FORTY.

France has as its second line of defenders the very men who three years ago were exempt from military duty because they were forty years old.

But three years of war have changed many things. Among the changes to be noted is the difference in attitude of the war office toward the older soldiers of France.

Today these regiments of the second line have become the bulwark of the first line—and every day they are adding new lustre to the annals of the bravest men whom France has ever sent to battle for her liberty.

There is a lesson in this for the men of 40 in the ranks of business and of labor—those men who have become discouraged in the battle of life and are allowing an adverse fate to keep them from the work that should rightly be theirs.

If ever there was need for mature thinkers and doers in the world, they are needed now. Especially does the United States realize this need as never before—and the man of 40 who allows his age to prevent active participation in the deeds of today will be forced to brand himself as a slacker, even though the world may never know it.

CONCENTRATING POWER.

The president has won and Hoover is going to be in charge of the food distribution of the country during the war. Hoover was opposed by some who pretended to fear a continuing despotism in this country as a result of giving him such absolute power.

A despotism is the last thing that we in this country should fear. Our governmental organization and the principles that underlie it are intensely opposed to any such tendency. More important yet, the very genius of our civilization is against it.

Now we are engaged in another struggle, and men are again fearful lest American liberty be supplemented by Prussian autocracy. But now, as then, the people realize that there must be an extraordinary concentration of power in the executive if we are to win this war.

Congress had already conferred large powers on the president and he was entirely right in demanding that one man have control of the food situation. And as time passes there may have to be a still greater strengthening of the executive.

The president thinks that the business of food administration should be in the hands of one man, rather than to be intrusted to a committee of three. Certainly under one man we should get much more efficient action, with none of the risks of such a disagreement as tore the shipping board to pieces.

The only wise policy is to give them the powers that are needed for a successful carrying through of the giant undertaking in which we are engaged, and then hold them to a very strict accountability. There is no danger of despotism. But there is danger of falling into the system of government by town-meeting. Without the possibility of prompt and decided action it will be impossible to prosecute the war effectively.

FRENCH ORGANIZATION.

The war department has decided to send the American forces to the relief of the French in the west front fighting. This is said to mean the reorganization of the American army on the French plan; and the French idea, as explained by General Pershing, has been developed to meet the demands of German fighting.

The new system calls for a captain to a regiment of 3000 men, and four lieutenants to every 250 men in a company. This will mean much shifting and a considerable decrease in the number of captains, with some increase in the number of lieutenants. The captain becomes a more important person in that he is responsible for more men. But there need be no confusion incident to making the change in the army, for the army organization is in the process of being expanded to war strength.

Now that Detroit banks are again charging a discount on Canadian currency, it is cheaper for the possessor of Canadian money in any large amounts to pay his fare on the ferryboats, lose several hours en route to Windsor and exchange his money at a Canadian bank.

Seventeen thousand acres of beans are now growing in the San Fernando valley, California. Every man and team in the valley has been at work every hour of the day preparing soil. Ten sacks of beans an acre is a conservative estimate, which will give a total crop of 3,000,000 lbs.

Hoover is sole boss of the food situation now and again reminds the country that food prices have advanced a whole lot during the past three years. If he thinks he is enlightening us any we desire him to know that we have had a scoop on such news for three years past.

The highly civilized eastern people will be getting a hundred trainloads of apples from Oregon in a few months. And yet in spite of this evidence of ineffable tenderness those same easterners still think there are wild Indians with tommy-hawks behind every tree.

Germany has stopped coal exports to Holland. We suspect Holland is beginning to wish she were an Oregon county "somewhere in the Cascade mountains," where wood is plenty.

The way they are talking about the clean plate nowadays reminds us of the times we used to get in bad with mother for sopping up the gravy with a piece of bread.

Nobody loves a bootlegger. He is an object of universal contempt wherever known, but it seems that there is a lingering affection for the bootlegger's baggage.

The French are thrilled by our soldiers' baseball games. But suppose they could see the Beavers in the cellar at the lower end of the toboggan once?

The savings banks of the state of California contain deposits amounting to $601,133,378, which gives every one in the state, man, woman and child, $210.33.

It is somewhat amusing now to look back upon those simple days when we had bicycle speeders and only a billion dollar congress.

Cholera is reported in Germany, but after having acute Kaiseritis for many years, the Germans will probably never notice it.

That talk of eggs at one dollar a dozen next winter sounds a good deal like fried mush for breakfast.

It is said the Russian troops are retreating. Well, Russia affords great facilities for retreating.

The fellow who started the no-vacation movement seems to have taken one himself.

Just the Thing for Diarrhoea.

"About two years ago I had a severe attack of diarrhoea which lasted over a week," writes W. C. Jones, Buford, N. D. "I became so weak that I could not stand upright. A druggist recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. The first dose relieved me and within two days I was as well as ever." Many druggists recommend this remedy because they know that it is reliable. Obtainable everywhere.
