Sour Stomach.

Eat slowly, masticate your food thoroughly, abstain from meat for a few days and in most cases the sour stomach will disappear. If it does not, take one of Chamberlain's Tablets immediately after supper. Red meats are most likely to cause sour stomach and you may find it best to cut them out.—Adv.

Mrs. Smith Recommends Chamberlain's Tablets.

"I have had more or less stomach trouble for eight or ten years," writes Mrs. G. H. Smith, Brewerton, N. Y. "When suffering from attacks of indigestion and heaviness after eating, one or two of Chamberlain's Tablets have always relieved me. I have also found them a pleasant laxative." These tablets tone up the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. If you are troubled with indigestion give them a trial, get well and stay well.—Adv.

HOME CANNING ADVICE FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

H. C. Seymour, state leader of Boys' and Girls' club work, at Corvallis, has sent the following article to the Outlook for publication. It was written by O. H. Benson, in charge of the same work at Washington, D. C.

1. In beginning home canning work take time to study fully the instructions in Farmers' Bulletin 839, Home Canning by the One-Period Cold-Pack Method. Club members should use NR circulars on home canning work, or the special instructions in home canning sent out by the state colleges of agriculture. Follow but one set of instructions. If you combine two it will lead you into difficulties and cause the loss of food products.

2. The instructions in Farmers' Bulletin 839 are based on the use of fresh, firm, sound, ripe products. When canning vegetables which have stood in the market place over 24 hours increase the time of sterilization as given in this bulletin about 20 per cent.

3. Do not begin canning large amounts. First, try out a few packs thoroughly and determine for yourself whether you understand the instructions and can follow them.

4. Use good rubbers. Most of the rubbers which are furnished with glass jars will not stand the boiling required for the sterilization of vegetables in hot water, steam, or steam under pressure, and might better be discarded and good rubbers procured.

Description of Good Rubber Rings. Rubber rings for the average standard pint and quart jars, etc., should be 5-16 of an inch wide. They should be cut 12 to the inch, that is, 12 rubber rings placed one upon the other will measure one inch in thickness. They should stand up under sterilization in boiling water or in steam under pressure for at least three hours without injury to the rubber. Good rubbers will stretch and return promptly to place without changing the inside diameter. They should be reasonably firm and able to stand abrupt bending without breakage. This description does not apply to rings for the special types of jars on the market.

5. Reports during the past five years indicate that 75 per cent of the spoilage of food products in home canning is due to the use of poor rubbers, old Mason tops, and defective joints, springs, and caps.

6. Success in home canning by the one-period cold-pack method depends upon a full understanding of the entire process. Observe especially that green vegetables should be blanched in live steam, tubers in hot water for not less than 5 minutes. Then dip them quickly in cold water. Pack at once in hot sterile jars and add boiling water. All greens, pod vegetables, green peppers, etc., should be blanched in live steam rather than water. Take time to pack all food products well into hot glass jars. A little salt or sugar should be added immediately, rubbers and tops put in place, and the jars partially sealed. These steps, if properly and quickly taken, have largely to do with the success of the method. The final success rests, of course, with the sterilization. Food products should be sterilized for the period given in Farmers' Bulletin 839. Read carefully all instructions with reference to the handling of pressure canners to avoid exhausting of liquids, syrups, etc. When canning in territory with an altitude of over 1000 feet increase the time given in the tables from 5 to 10 per cent for each additional 500 feet in altitude. Do this without fail or some of the products will be lost.

7. In canning fruit the syrup should be prepared in a separate vessel and poured over the fresh fruit, in the hot jar. Some food products with high acid content, like cherries and plums, shrivel and shrink too much if a heavy syrup is used.

8. The flavor of sweet corn and peas canned for home use is greatly improved by the addition of sugar instead of salt.

9. In canning tomatoes be sure to scald until the skins crack, dip in cold water, then cut the cores out, remove skins, and pack at once into hot glass jars. Use a wooden spoon for packing purposes and pack carefully. A well-ripened tomato may be placed at the top and pressed down to fill all crevices. Allow a level teaspoonful of salt to the quart. Wipe off the joints before the rubber rings are placed in position. Then place the rubber rings and caps in position, partially tighten the tops, and sterilize.

10. "Flat sour," which develops in canned vegetables, especially with greens, asparagus, peas, and sweet corn, is caused by insufficient sterilization, by canning old, deteriorated food products, or by improper blanching and cold-dipping.

11. Blanching and cold dipping all vegetables before packing, if properly done, will not in any way injure the character and quality of the product. On the other hand, it will remove dirt and bacteria and materially aid the sterilizing process. These preliminary steps will also make it unnecessary in tin canning, to exhaust the products.
