Any Man Fails.

When he has no confidence in himself nor his fellow men.
When he values success more than character and self-respect.
When he does not try to make his work a little better each day.
When he becomes so absorbed in his work that he cannot say that life is greater than work.
When he lets a day go by without making some one happier and more comfortable.
When he tries to rule others by bullying instead of by example.
When he tries to get ahead in the world by climbing over the shoulders of others.
When he values wealth above health, self-respect and the good opinion of his fellows.
When he is so burdened by his business that he finds no time for rest and recreation.
When he loves his own plans and interests more than humanity.
When his friends like him for what he has more than for what he is.
When he knows that he is in the wrong, but afraid to admit it.
When he envies others because they have more ability, talent or wealth than he has.
When he does not care what happens to his neighbor or to his friend so long as he is prosperous.
When he is so busy that he has no time for smiles and cheering words.

There are a million small farms in Roumania and only a few thousand large ones; but the few big landowners have more land than the many small ones. The average size of the million small farms is eight acres, while that of 4,471 large ones is 2,299 acres, says the National Geographic Magazine. In times of peace the Wallachians go into Hungary by the tens of thousands to help with the sowing and reaping.

A worn-out shoe saved the life of James Cassidy, who lost his hold as he was riding on a freight through Pittsburg. His foot caught in a step, and he was being dragged along the ballast, when his shoe gave way and he rolled free.

Mrs. Smith Recommends Chamberlain's Tablets.

"I have had more or less stomach trouble for eight or ten years," writes Mrs. G. H. Smith, Brewerton, N. Y. "When suffering from attacks of indigestion and heaviness after eating, one or two of Chamberlain's Tablets have always relieved me. I have also found them a pleasant laxative." These tablets tone up the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. If you are troubled with indigestion give them a trial, get well and stay well.—Adv.

Mr. Ran Bailey, assisted by Mrs. Jay Bailey and Mrs. C. I. Raker, gave her daughter Marguerite a surprise party in honor of her fourteenth birthday last Tuesday week. Such a good time was had that it was a late hour before the young folks could get away. Mrs. Bailey served cake and punch. Besides the hostess and her assistants and their families those present were: Elizabeth Low, Merle and Opal Monahan, Marie and Florence Bramhall, Olive Wilson, Mary Bell McGinnis, Gladys Goin, of Portland; Evelyn and Marjorie Kendall, Lewis Skirvin, James and Tab Sidel, Jack and Sam Harlow, Wilford and Leland Delaney, Clyde Monahan, Lynn Richardson, Clarence Parsons, Otto Weller, and Mrs. A. ### THE WORLD WILL HEAR FROM THE VOLUNTEER

"Volunteer" is the Navy slogan. Only the patriotic spirit of the American citizen is responsible for the efficiency of Uncle Sam's Navy. It is the desire to serve and defend his country that has induced the American sailor to join the colors and no other man-of-war's-man of any nation outclasses him for efficiency.

The Navy has not asked that the selective draft apply to its quota of men, and its enlistment quota is being filled only by volunteers. The burden of past wars in which this country has engaged, fell on the shoulders of the volunteers. The pages of history are full of the deeds of bravery and heroism of the American Volunteers and Uncle Sam's Navy today is adding new pages to that illustrious record.

Within a fortnight the commanding officer of a German submarine took the trouble to call the American gun crew from a merchant ship aboard his boat after sinking the merchantman, and congratulate them on the plucky and heroic fight they "put up." The "volunteer" and the Navy are yet to be heard from.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Most Reliable.

After many years' experience in the use of it and other cough medicines, there are many who prefer Chamberlain's to any other. Mrs. A. C. Kirstein, Greenville, Ill., writes, "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been used in my mother's home and mine for years, and we always found it a quick cure for colds and bronchial troubles. We find it to be the most reliable cough medicine we have used."—Adv.

MANY WANT TO KNOW IF TAX WILL BE REPAID

Since the dog license law, passed by the last legislature, has been declared unconstitutional several of the counties in which the license was collected have instructed their treasurers to refund the collections made upon satisfactory proof that the money is being returned to the proper owners.

Several inquiries have been made in this county as to the refunding of the tax, but so far there is nothing definite to announce. It is probable that such an order will be made by the county commissioners soon, and that dog owners who have paid will get their money back less the cost of collections which will be but a trifling sum.

The Outlook will endeavor to let its readers know more about the matter as soon as possible.

HOW DID YOU DIE?

Did you tackle that trouble that came your way

With resolute heart, and cheerful;
Or hide your face from the light of day

With a craven soul and fearful.
Oh! a trouble's a ton or a trouble's an ounce

Or trouble is what you make it;
And it isn't the fact that you're hurt that counts

But only how did you take it.

You were beaten to earth? Well, well, what's that?

Come up with a smiling face.
It's nothing against you to fall down flat.

But to lie there—that's disgrace.
The harder you're thrown why the higher you bounce.

Be proud of your blackened eye.
It isn't the fact that you're licked that counts.

It's how did you fight, and why?

Although you be done to the death, what then?

If you battled the best you could;
If you played your part in the world of men,

Why the critic will call it good.
Death comes with a crawl or comes with a pounce.

And whether he's slow or spry,
It isn't the fact that you're dead that counts.

But only how did you die.

BORING PIONEER DEAD AT PATTON HOME

Fritz Timmerman, for many years a resident of the Boring neighborhood, passed away at the Patton Home in Portland, where he had been living for the last year. Mr. Timmerman was born near Hamburg in Germany, September 2, 1838. Shortly after the Prussian war he came to the United States and settled in St. Louis, Missouri, where he married Miss Mary Herz. Mr. and Mrs. Timmerman, with their two little sons, came to Oregon by ship about 1877, settling near what is now Boring station. Later they bought 80 acres of land from the Government, where they lived a life of toil and privation, such as was the lot of every pioneer of those days.

Mr. Timmerman is survived by his two sons, Julius, whose home near Vancouver, Washington and Carl, who lives on the home farm, also by five grandchildren. Mr. Timmerman was buried in the family plot in the Pleasant Home cemetery on Saturday, October 6, near his wife, who died about a year ago.

In Answer to Haywood's Threats.

As secretary of the I. W. W., W. D. Haywood of Chicago complains that he has received no answer to the telegram sent by him to President Wilson threatening that "a general strike will be called in the Middle West" unless the I. W. W. men deported from Bisbee, Ariz., "are brought back to their families."

The answer to Haywood should be framed by a grand jury. An indictment for conspiracy would be the proper reply. The I. W. W. agitator boasts that the strike that he plans would cause immense losses to the farmers by stopping harvest work, and by shutting down the mines in the West impede the work of munitions manufacturers. He has in mind a gigantic plot against the United States in time of war.

Apparently Haywood thinks that by threats of a strike he and his confederates among the leaders of the I. W. W. can force the United States government into acceding to any conditions that they may see fit to dictate. It is not so helpless as he seems to imagine. If ordinary criminal proceedings take more summary measures against him and his accomplices in the conspiracy to tie the nation's hands in the prosecution of the war.

There can be no parleying with men of Haywood's class. They challenge the United States. The effective way to deal with them is to teach them promptly that, whether inspired by disloyalty or lawlessness, they will be held to a strict accountability. It is much better that government should deal with these cases immediately and with a firm hand. Otherwise it will have to deal with general disorder and with the kind of private vengeance that resulted in the lynching of an I. W. W. leader in Montana.—New York World.
