ARE YOU A MONEY SLACKER?

Have you a son in the army or navy?

If not, it may be impossible for you to fully realize that we are actually in a life and death struggle with the most ruthless foe on earth.

The mothers and fathers who have given up their boys to go to the front realize the war is actually here and that they are part of it.

The family who has sent a son has given the nation what money cannot buy.

Such families need no urging to exert every effort to furnish the army and navy with all possible equipment and supplies. They are awake to the urgency of the situation. They are carrying a double load for they are giving their boys and they are giving their dollars.

Its to the person who is still sitting back and letting the other fellow do it, that attention should be directed.

Hardly a man in this country can truthfully claim he is too poor to buy a liberty bond and that is the only claim that should exempt a person from owning one.

Liberty bonds can be purchased on any kind of terms, the government takes time payments, banks advance money and practically all employers can arrange the matter so employees can take a bond and pay for it in such easy installments they will not notice it.

There is practically no excuse for you if you don't own a liberty bond. You are the worst kind of a slacker for you have failed to do the very easiest thing possible to help in this struggle.

Buying a liberty bond is just as safe as arranging to buy five ten dollar bills and it is a whole lot better for when you have paid for a $50 liberty bond you have something drawing 4 per cent interest which is just as good for money as the currency and just as safe.

Don't hesitate, now is the time. Don't force the government to resort to taxation when we are offered an opportunity to carry the loan as an investment drawing interest.

Remember your boy may be the next to go and you will want him fully equipped. Above everything else it is your patriotic duty to back your government to the extent of your ability at this time.

THE ONE CENT PIECE.

It is only within the last few years that we of the Pacific coast have been prevailed upon to take notice of the one cent piece. The little copper cent was unknown here forty years ago but it gradually worked its way into our financial transaction so that now we are using it in all our dealings. Thirty years ago it was hardly ever seen and at that time the banks never dealt in them. If you cashed a check with a teller of two or three cents—which was very rare, the banks either held out the two cents or gave you five cents in place of the three.

The first real introduction of the penny in trade in Portland was made by a department store. Those who got them gave them to the children or threw them into the river; but as they became more plentiful the banks began using them and the outraged person who received them took revenge by putting them off on the postoffice. Since then they became more popular and everybody has them.

But we are still learning to know their use. If the new revenue tax touches us to give just recognition to the cent instead of ignoring it when possible and scorning it when we cannot ignore, it will have accomplished something that it was not intended to do, but something of considerable importance.

Our dealings for the most part are in 5-cent units, and we reck so little of the value of the cent that we cheerfully enough pay 15 cents for one of two things that are sold for a quarter. Cents, as conditions have existed, were almost a burden to the pocket. Few things can be bought for a cent, and even if we accumulate five of them and offer them instead of a nickle in payment for something they are not kindly received. Most of us have been shriveled by the street car conductor's contumely under such circumstances. To be sure, in large dealings there are quotations in cents, and even in fractions of a cent, and odd cents are written into the value of bank checks, but the coin itself is seldom handled.

Now, however, that the new impost has caused retail quotations of 6, 12 and 18 cents, instead of 5, 10 and 15 cents, a new use has been found for our smallest coin, and there is a chance for it, by finding a more welcome place in our pocket, to live the life of usefulness for which it was designing. It may complicate our mental arithmetic somewhat to have to figure up items of what we call "odd" cents—as if 5 cents were not odd—but a greater flexibility of prices and a more accurate measurement of wares for our money should result.

There are even strong advocates of the coinage of a half cent, and there is much to be said for it. Down to a reasonable point—beyond which the division would be burdensome—the smaller our unit of monetary exchange the more finely can price quotations be made and the more exact is the bartering. A cent is none too small for the most dignified commerce, nor, small as we make the coin—too heavy for the most careless pocket. What we need is a realization of its value, convenience and importance. In other words what we need is the sense to use a cent in the right way.

The editor records with pleasure the visit on Monday to Gresham of an old friend and former Greshamite, Timothy Brownhill, who is now proprietor of the Kent Journal, at Kent, Wash. Although leaving here about eight years ago, Mr. Brownhill has many warm friends in this locality for when here he made his influence felt. He established the Beaver State Herald and made it well known throughout the state. Mr. Brownhill has tried to reform but he can't keep out of the newspaper game and we predict his wisdom, energy and devotion in the publishing field will win him an ever widening field of usefulness.

The Portland divorce court wrestled with five divorce cases one day last week, all of the couples having been married in Vancouver. When Vancouver indicates the time for Portland to hand over the championship medal, Portland will hand it over.

We are just itching to make a bet on the next race between an automobile and the express train for the crossing. Everything being equal we are willing to back the express train and the undertaker.

Camouflage would be an admirable symbol for some of the patriots who are going to run for office next year. It means to fool 'em, and that is what many of the candidates will try to do.

Seven thousand striking shipyard laborers lost $600,000 in Portland within the past 30 days. The arithmetic class will now tell us how many liberty bonds could have been bought with such a sum.

Vice President Marshall will be in Portland on November 7. If he didn't have to go back to help open congress we think our climate would keep him here for the winter, at least.

More of the horrors of war! The tobaccoists admit that they make more profit on cigarettes, now that the prices have been increased on account of the war tax.

Prosperity must always rank high in this country, because it is the natural reward of industry. But patriotism admonishes prosperity to buy a liberty bond.

They tell us that the American soldiers in France are better shots than the French. And they are passing laws here to prevent a man from owning a gun!

The British and French on the western front have furnished the material for a hundred epics—but it seems that the poets have all been left at home.

It costs somewhere about $150 to fully equip a soldier at the present time. Have you helped to equip yours by the liberty bond way?

We rather like the idea of a whirlwind campaign for liberty bonds provided the results are not all wind.

If the worst comes to the worst we might form a battalion of death from among the husband plunkers.

Three killing frosts last week were the signals for beginning work on next year's garden.

If you are not going to help the liberty loan along, don't go camouflaging as a patriot.

OUT OF A JOB.

The acceptance of Allen Eaton's resignation as one of the faculty of the University of Oregon was a wholesome move in more than one respect. Mr. Eaton had attended a meeting in Chicago as a delegate to a society convention which has been endeavoring to discredit the part being taken in the war. Upon his return to Eugene he was assailed on all sides and requested in no uncertain manner to resign. He did so, hoping that his offer to quit would be refused. But he was mistaken. First off, the university owed it to herself. To retain as a member of the faculty a person known to have been in active opposition to the government's war policy, after that policy had been definitely adopted, would have been to invite the interpretation that the university approved, or at least winked at, that opposition. What an anomaly that would have been for an institution bearing the name of University of Oregon, if American sentiment in Oregon is at all what Oregon first in everything pertaining to patriotism is what we believe it to be. Professor Eaton will be a long time obtaining such a comfortable position as he has just been relieved of.

And then there is the broader view—that the instructors of American youth must be loyal Americans, imbued with the spirit of American patriotism and actively disposed to impart that spirit to their pupils and foster and encourage it in them. As a very general rule that is the kind of college professors we have in this country. Unless we are mistaken, Allen Eaton will discover to his embarrassment that he is alone in his pacifist—to use a mild word—attitude in Oregon. The University does well to purge herself of a disloyalist, whether he be in the student body or on the faculty. No American college can retain such men and at the same time retain its self-respect.

The shipyard strikers are going to work again. By hard work they will be able to make up their losses of the past month and have enough left for a Thanksgiving dinner. Perhaps they have learned that steady work at good wages is just as profitable in an "open shop" as in the union.

Shall we let the rich furnish the money to carry on the war when it concerns every individual alike?

There are some people who will regret that Wisconsin's dead senator was not the other one.

Some have bought their liberty, and our liberty, by the shedding of blood. Shall we withhold the money needed right now to help perpetuate and extend that priceless liberty?

When the war is won by the Allies with the help of the United States will you be able to say, "I helped by contributing to the sinews of war?"

Much of the money to be raised by the second liberty loan, as with the first, will be loaned to the Allies and spent right at home for supplies, etc.
