PATRIOTISM IN THE PULPIT.

In his response to the words of welcome from the other clergymen of Gresham and those of his parishioners and friends, last Friday evening, Rev. J. Montcalm Brown, pastor of the Gresham M. E. church, proclaimed his loyalty to democracy and said that the destruction of German autocracy was necessary to the peace of the world.

And why should not a minister of the gospel say such a thing, even in a house of worship? True Americanism and democracy are the handmaidens of the gospel, for without them there would be chaos and revolution even in the religion of a republic such as this.

Such a mind is often found in those who have sought universal peace in the service of God. They are of a quiet mind and there is in them no sense of entire dependence on "the eternal power, not ourselves, but rather an added sense of dependence on valor and courage in the face of a foe, even though it is a clash of arms that may be resorted to in order to win the victory.

There have been people all through this war who have felt that every German victory foreshadowed their final triumph, and it has been impossible to make them see that unless God were dead Germany was doomed.

But many like to think of themselves as rational beings, but they can have faith only in as far as they can be given free play to their intellectual faculties, and this sometimes leads them in the wrong direction.

We feel bitterly toward Germany, but when the bands strike up "The Star Spangled Banner" on the battle line in France and Flanders, really the Lord ought to pity the Germans.

We hope to hear soon that the machinery of the coast telephone system is running as smoothly again as it was before someone threw the monkey wrench into it.

Mr. Hoover said two weeks ago that food prices will begin to drop. The consumer should be very careful lest a falling price may strike him on the bean.

Main street's calf exhibit is sometimes so striking that Gresham visitors readily assume there will be some large entries next month at the fat stock show.

From preliminary maneuvers in the market, we gather that the people will not gobble the gobbler until the gobblers have been gobbled by the poultry gobblers.

Mexico's bandit with the camouflage moustache seems to be the only man who can make a fizzle of a revolution and get away with it.

Adam's apple has many ups and downs in a life time, but up to date we haven't heard of anybody swallowing one.

A person don't find a love story in a trade journal, but there are a lot of proposals.

DOING AND GETTING.

From all the indications, as observed in the news dispatches and a knowledge of affairs nearer at home, the fear of a good many people, ranging in degree all the way from laborers to capitalists, that they will not get their share of what is called war prosperity is probably causing as much trouble and disturbance as any single factor now operating.

In the present war the vicious profiteers are undoubtedly busy and are undoubtedly making money out of the blood of their fellows; but they are fewer in number and under better control, proportionately speaking, both in this country and among the allies, than ever before.

Right thinking people do not feel that this is the time to get all they can out of their fellow-men and out of their country, but that it is a time to do all they can for their fellow-men and for their country.

These are the good citizens, patriots, the decent people. The others who are boosting prices, either for wares or for services, for fear someone else will profit more than they do, are not good citizens, are not patriots, are not, in a word, decent people.

It is reported that many of the Oregon soldiers in the cantonments discuss Cicero, Horace, Homer, Marcus Aurelius, Pliny and Juvenal so bitterly that friends have to intervene occasionally to prevent fist fights.

Germany wins on the eastern border fighting Italians, but Britain wins at sea. It was an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.

We have no doubt as to whether the alien spies should be kept in confinement until the end of the war. Unless their offense is sufficient to justify immediate execution, they ought to be given a temporary jail sentence of 237 years and then released on ninety-nine billion dollars cash bail.

Let us get back to this precious vision of life, this autumn sense of living that defies tragedy and accepts the creature comforts and the beautiful which are more nearly divine than we dream.

Some fellows in Buffalo camouflaged 10,000,000 pounds of sugar by sprinkling flour over the piles and adding a few sacks of flour to the outside tiers.

President Wilson's confession, following that of Roosevelt, that he has only one eye, should not be taken as a bid for sympathy or popularity.

If the American people would conserve to the extent of cutting out breakfast it would frighten the cold storage food sharks to death and the eggs trust would be the first one to crack.

It is reported that some people in Gresham saw two rainbows in the sky last Saturday afternoon, but being on a strictly prohibition diet we failed to lamp the phenomenon.

THE REGAL MONTH.

October, with its beautiful autumn days with their mingled idleness and garnering, have left us and the dreary days of November are upon us. Those dreary days will be growing more dreary soon, with the Oregon mist flinging its mantle over the coast, and here, upon its threshold we should pause for a retrospective view of the regal month that has gone.

It had been a beautiful month and the wayside bloom was never so entrancing. We took a long, long tramp the other Sunday afternoon, but we were wise not to see the snares of life that lurk in the company of the reckless auto drivers. We are wise these days about the beaten track—we keep off of it on Sundays as much as possible. There are many lovely roads that are unknown to the reckless caravan. We found some of them and reveled in their seclusion and charm.

We came upon a wooded mountain side that Sunday afternoon which was robed in a rainbow mantle of purple and gold, crimson and brown and yellow. It was a combination strongly suggestive of ermine and purple in the vestments of a king. We know that kings are dreadfully unpopular just now and about to be swept off the face of the earth, at least the autocratic kings, but we are glad we got our conception of royalty before it reached such a bad eminence.

But we are forgetting our theme. Let us get back to this precious vision of life, this autumn sense of living that defies tragedy and accepts the creature comforts and the beautiful which are more nearly divine than we dream.

Some fellows in Buffalo camouflaged 10,000,000 pounds of sugar by sprinkling flour over the piles and adding a few sacks of flour to the outside tiers. They will have a sweet time explaining about it to Uncle Sam.

President Wilson's confession, following that of Roosevelt, that he has only one eye, should not be taken as a bid for sympathy or popularity.

If the American people would conserve to the extent of cutting out breakfast it would frighten the cold storage food sharks to death and the eggs trust would be the first one to crack.
