OUR ALIEN ENEMIES.

The recent exclusion of those who are considered enemies of the nation from certain districts, including river fronts, transportation depots, and other places, including the entire District of Columbia, may and undoubtedly does work a great hardship upon many who have homes or work in the districts affected. They are all subjects of the kaiser, natives of Germany and, presumably enemies of the United States.

The order made against them is for the protection of this country. They may not all be enemies in the sense that they would commit any overt act, but they are under that suspicion. Some of them have been in the United States for years yet have failed to become citizens of it. They have failed to swear allegiance to the nation in which they are making a living under the flag that has protected them—and nearly every one of them has intended to stay here through life, never intending to return to Germany. If they are now subjected to an inconvenience or later to internment it is their own fault and no one need be sorry for them.

They probably realize by this time, or will later, that actual citizenship of the United States would be for their own good, for if there is, or may be, in man a power for good, it is manifestly very wrong to fail to employ it to the utmost because of negligence. It cannot be used effectively by any one who thinks more of his native land than the land and customs of his adoption. Its defeat crowns a brave effort, there is no humiliation so bad as to be pointed at as the man who would allow himself to remain an alien; if the man remains an alien he is defeated in his intention to remain steadfast to the land of his birth and yet be a parasite upon another nation.

It is never difficult to find a reason for not doing what we do not wish to do, what is hard to do. Perhaps it is this reluctance rather than for any other reason that keep men from applying for naturalization papers while the chance is theirs. But whether this be so or not, it certainly was a great mistake to have overlooked the opportunity.

There never is any reason for failing to meet responsibility. And the greatest responsibility that rests on a man is that of doing the best he can under all circumstances, and contributing, as far as is within his own interests. What is done or said or thought is a mere flowering of the innermost nature. If there is no fruit of this sort, the nature must be poor indeed.

Those of our alien enemies, now under scrutiny, who are to be dependent might do well to draw inspiration and take matters coolly—and wait. It men could sometimes change places with those whose power they fear, they might find—probably would find—that the greater power was the side that they had failed to affiliate with. That is very often the case in other things than allegiance to their adopted country.

GREATER ACREAGE.

Reports of an increased acreage are coming from every direction for the 1918 crop. We still have large areas of fertile land that has not been used for productive purposes. It is unlikely that all of it will be used next year, in fact, it is unlikely that all of it will be used for many years, whether we have war or peace. But whether we have war or peace there will be an immense demand for our production for some years to come, and an immense demand naturally means good prices.

The fate of the nation is in the hands of the farmer, but we need to gather no apprehension from the situation. The farmer will do his part next year as he did it this year. When last spring there was a national call for an increase in the products of the soil there was an immediate response in the way of plans for larger areas of cultivated land. Next year these areas of cultivated land must be still larger.

Systematic provision for this is now being made all over the country. Oregon and Washington are to increase their wheat crops 25 per cent, and other states will act similarly. But there is no plunging blindfold into this business of increasing the more important grain crops. The system of crop rotation, which is the life of the soil, is to be kept in mind. Arrangements will be made for the placing of farm labor where it will do the most good. The spur of good returns in the form of adequate prices is certain to have its effect, and no doubt can be felt of the outcome. This country has hardly touched its possibilities as a producer of foodstuffs.

No one can absolutely forecast the future, but if ever a future appeared clear, it is such a one as here outlined. We shall not fail our allies in the agricultural field any more than we shall fail them in the military field. We have taken up a serious business of world-wide effect with our native determination to carry it through successfully, and we will do so.

In about five years there will be an election in Oregon in which the candidate who said farewell to a leg in France will run ahead of the fellows who remained in America and bought a "Home, Sweet Home" motto to adorn the wallscapes of his house.

It was noticed that some men discarded their belts for suspenders the day after Thanksgiving. But after the turkey and other "fixens" had digested they went back to their belts again and drew them up a little tighter than before.

Are you saving your one-third of sugar? Every American is asked to cut down his use of sugar one-third, so that there may be plenty for the men at the front and for the stricken people of Europe.

A man who scratches an auto may be fined $49.99, more or less. But the auto that runs a man down, breaks his ribs and damages his anatomy goes right along unbothered by the law.

David Starr Jordan now says, "Press the war, with full speed ahead." He was rather late in reaching that conclusion but LaFollette and a few others are several laps behind.

Whether our Baptist friends provoked that rain on Thanksgiving day, or whether they didn't it evoked a hearty amen from the rest of us because it wasn't a blizzard.

When the women get to operating the munition plants not many of them will be blown up. But we suspect a few husbands will make ascensions occasionally.

In the United States armies, November 7, there were 7,815,000 men, in the navy 271,571. Of the total of 2,087,391, approximately 1,400,000 voluntarily enlisted.

It is said that they are using fennel and lavender as a substitute for tobacco in Germany. We haven't analyzed our substitute yet to find out what we are using.

The United States supreme court has decided that alimony is not income and is therefore not taxable. Quite right. Alimony is more outgo than income.

The lady cocktail vote of Los Angeles was off the job at the last election, and the city of Angels will close all its saloons on next April Fool Day.

We have personal reasons for hoping the Scotch fashions will never be forced upon men who are around fifty years old and upward.

Express companies are concentrating their efforts to insure prompt and safe handling of all food products of a perishable nature.

We would suggest to the city of Portland that it try internment in its bootliners, seeing that they escape conviction in the courts.

Those Portland evening papers make thundering reports in their first street editions. They run them off on lighting presses.

The first intimation that the kaiser is a prohibitionist is in his statement to Russia that he is not going to treat just yet.

Hawaii bought $9,000,000 worth of Liberty bonds. So, it seems, the money spent for ukuleles was not altogether wasted.

Those Portland prohibition evaders are not likely to ask for a change of venue from Judge Jones' court.

Perhaps Russia is out of the war but she is in something a great deal worse.

It's not the rareness of meat that people complain of now—it's the rarity.

Whatever day is today? We can't keep track of them any longer.

SAVINGS CERTIFICATES.

A national campaign for the sale of war savings certificates opened yesterday. Frank A. Vanderlip, one of the greatest of American financiers, devised the plan and is chairman of the committee that is working it out.

Very little attention has been given this matter by the general public, especially here. H. D. Marshall, representing the committee is here from New York and will assist in the work for awhile. It is planned to raise $2,000,000,000 in this manner as soon as possible, the quota of Oregon being $17,000,000. C. S. Jackson is the state director who will appoint a chairman for each county. Every bank and postoffice is authorized to sell the certificates. There will be a nation-wide campaign of education on this subject, which is primarily for the smallest investor.

It is not alone the considerable sum that the government hopes to obtain through this plan, but the lesson in economy and thrift it presents to a nation inclined to be spendthrift. The idea must be got to our people that the idle dollar is a slacker and that the uselessly spent dollar is an ally of the Germans.

The very hardest lesson for the people to learn is that we cannot continue a spendthrift nation and continue doing the things we have been doing and still have the man power we will need in the struggle.

There has been some curtailing of luxury and indulgence, but not approximately what is necessary to the success of the war. Ultimately we shall have to awake to the necessity of utilizing all our energy, our time, our money to the purpose of war.

The savings certificate plan is not designed especially for labor, for labor is by long odds the most economical element of our population and, of course, the least wasteful, but for those who waste money in idle pleasures and others who here and there fritter away a dollar or two needlessly that might better be saved.

The plan literally affords the wasters and spendthrifts an opportunity to save nickles and dimes for their country and for themselves, for since these certificates are redeemable in cash at the end of five years the net result will be not only material aid to the government in its war plans, but at the end of the period a nest egg that will prove an incentive to many a person to continue his habits of thrift until complete independence has been achieved.

Such habits of thrift will be of incalculable importance in the years to follow peace, when the world must undergo a long and painful process of reconstruction. The thrifty person is the person who works best and who accomplishes most.

Therefore, the ethical value of the savings certificate plan is quite as great—even greater—than its war value, because it will tend to make thrifty people of thriftless and wasteful people.

The $17,000,000 which Oregon is expected to furnish for this fund can easily be gathered out of the utterly wasted earnings of a single year, and without imposing upon any considerable number one privation that will be hard to endure.

POPULAR WAR BOOKS NOW AT THE LIBRARY

The library will have a special exhibit of books and aids for church workers and club leaders on Wednesday evening and Thursday afternoon of this week. This exhibit will include books on live subjects of religion, social and economical problems; books, pictures and maps for the Sunday school teacher; books, maps and magazines for the Missionary society; and books of Bible stories for the children.

There will also be an exhibit of attractive editions of Christmas books for children. This collection includes the best books for children of all ages, books which may be found in the book stores of Portland.

Among the popular books to be had at the library are "Over the Top" and "The Hilltop on the Marne," both being recent war stories.

Books which are not in when asked for will be reserved if desired and the person notified when books are available. Books which are not in the Gresham library may be requested from central. The library messenger comes every Wednesday afternoon. Requests should be sent to the local library not later than Monday afternoon if desired for the following delivery.

Death of John H. Carroll.

John H. Carroll, editor of the Evening Telegram, died at his home in Portland last night after an illness of several months. He was 62 years of age and had been identified with newspaper work in Portland for about twelve or fifteen years.

LOST—An Ayredale dog without collar. Long tail. Answers to name of Tom. Call Gresham 133.

AWAY FROM HOME STUDENTS RETURNED

More than a dozen students who are attending the different institutions of learning in other cities spent the Thanksgiving holidays in Gresham and vicinity. They arrived here on Wednesday and returned to their respective schools on Sunday. The list is as follows:

Sate Normal—Margaret Burke, Gladys-Michel, Marian Robertson, Hester Thorpe and Ethel Calkins.

O. A. C.—Florence Towle, accompanied by Ruth Brown as guest; Eckford Cameron, accompanied by Margaret Shelley, of Everett, Wash., as guest; Anna Brugger, accompanied by Ruth Barrows of Marshfield as guest; Pearl Ruegg, Viola Dinger.

U. of W.—Andrew Brugger, Reed College—Martha Hagberg. Miss Bessie Osburn spent her vacation at Carlton.

PORTLAND YOUNG MAN ARMY INTERPRETER

Among the young men who have lately joined Uncle Sam's forces, and who will probably soon see service in France, is John F. Muttaray of Portland, who has been a frequent visitor in Gresham, and who has many friends and acquaintances here. Mr. Muttaray was already actively employed in war service, being connected with the Supple-Ballin Shipbuilding Corporation of Shipbuilders & Engineers, which firm has been for some time engaged in the construction of steamers for the emergency fleet.

Mr. Muttaray left his position to go as interpreter for the 23d Highway Engineers. He has lived in France for six years and is well acquainted with that part of the country now known as the western battle front.

F. M. KIGER STOCK SALE YESTERDAY A SUCCESS

The sale of about sixty dairy cows by F. M. Kiger at the Bowman farm yesterday was largely attended and was successful in that all the cows were sold and all but a few of the heifers and bulls.

The highest-priced cow brought $96, the lowest, a heifer, $10. The average price was $50. Young heifers about to become fresh went for an average of $27. E. J. Graden of Gresham was a buyer; also Ward Stamme of the Ruby ranch. J. W. Hughes was the auctioneer; Homer Gossett, clerk. Cash was paid in nearly every instance, but few notes being given in payment.

FARMER IS KILLED BY FALL FROM LOAD OF HAY

John Olson, living near Haley, died on Friday from injuries received when he fell from a load of hay. He lived but a short time after the accident. He was about 62 years of age and is survived by five children all grown. They are Herbert, Kanute, Ruth, Alice and Mrs. Esther Bergstrom, the latter married and living in Minnesota.

The funeral took place today at 1 o'clock with interment in Pleasant Home cemetery. Services were held at the Haley Baptist church and were largely attended.

LOCAL DRAFT BOARD IS BEING APPOINTED

Two more names have been added to the local selective draft board in addition to those of George W. Stapleton, C. G. Schneider and K. A. Miller previously named. They are O. A. Eastman and H. L. St. Clair. Two or three others will probably be named.

Meetings of the board will be held at some central point in the county, where the business of examining the applicants will be most convenient for all.

FIREMAN'S ORCHESTRA DANCE TO BE REPEATED

The dance in Regner's hall, given by the Portland Firemen's orchestra on Wednesday evening was such a successful affair and the music so popular that there was a call for another. It will be given on Saturday night, December 8, with the same fine music. Everyone is invited. Tickets will be 75 cents for gentlemen, ladies free.—Adv.

Lynch Parent-Teachers to Meet.

Lynch Parent-Teachers association will meet in regular session on Friday afternoon, December 7, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. A good attendance is desired, as business of importance is to come up for consideration.

Pacific Coast States: Frequent rains north of central California; no decided temperature changes.

Serve your country by saving food.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

This is not only one of the best and most efficient medicine for coughs, colds and croup, but is also pleasant and safe to take, which is important when medicine must be given to children. Many mothers have given it their unqualified endorsement.—Adv.
