The Linotype Way is the Way that Wins.

Entered as second-class matter March 3, 1911, at the Postoffice at Gresham, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

BUYING HOMES.

Indications point to a revival in the real estate business. Owing to the war activities the houses for rent in Portland have dropped from more than 20,000 to about 1200 in a year, and only the very poor ones or very high-priced ones are left, while there is an insistent demand for the medium kind.

Local activities reveal that there is a filling up of vacant houses in all the smaller towns, including Gresham. An increasing number are buying homes of their own, or buying land with the intention of building. Some may not be as well off as they were before the war, but others, especially skilled and unskilled laborers, are much better off.

Before the war the extra money earned by the latter was often expended in foolish luxuries or wasted, but within the past six months there has been a change and they are beginning to save.

No better method of investing savings, from a personal or civic standpoint, is offered than in the purchase of a home. The citizen who owns his home has a monetary interest in maintaining a city morally and physically clean; in beautifying it, in seeing it well governed.

The question as to whether it is cheaper to pay rent or own a home is still discussed, and answered in different ways by different people. The Jew who makes his per cent in trade thinks renting is the cheapest because he doesn't care to spend his capital for land and a house. But there can be no question that home-owning is the more profitable in the large sense. It tends to make better, thrifter, more responsible and more comfortable citizens even though it requires the outlay of a larger expenditure to keep up a home than to pay rent—a premise which is a long way from being proved.

The development of extended payment plans in home buying in these days is such that almost any family can buy a home. This modern arrangement is a boon that would have been deeply appreciated by thrifty persons of former generations who had to wait possession of considerable money before buying. Nowadays anybody earning a regular income can buy a home. The personal and civic interest will usually be served by taking advantage of the opportunity.

The sugar shortage is fierce in some localities, more so than on the Pacific coast. It shows how the "American Standard of Living" has advanced. The pioneers who laid the foundations of the northwest rarely tasted sugar, but they who are alive have come to see a generation which nearly has a cat fit if it doesn't get its sweet tooth plugged eleven or eight times a day.

BONDS AT A PREMIUM.

Press dispatches from Washington indicate that the government will offer another issue of liberty loan bonds within three months. It is quite certain that it will not by any means be the last time the people of the United States will be called upon to lend to their government in order that the war be prosecuted to success.

The last liberty loan offering was handled to much better advantage than the first, which effect was due to experience. No doubt the methods of selling bonds will improve as the people become more familiar with the idea.

These bonds are quoted at a slight premium on the markets and the people, themselves, are able to do much to make their bonds of still greater value in the work and still more attractive to owners.

Several merchants in Portland are advertising that they will accept liberty bonds at five per cent above their face value on accounts or for merchandise. Some of them will pay a cash difference.

No better argument in favor of buying government bonds could be offered than these merchants give.

And that is the kind of advertising that is going to sell the next liberty loan issue and the next and every succeeding one.

The Salvation Army now wants a million-dollar war fund. And here's Christmas almost upon us while some people failed to heed our C. S. e. warning. Then will come the city, state, county and school taxes, and Easter bonnets with a liberty loan sandwiched in between. Well, there just isn't anything left for joy rides, bacon and cigars.

It ought to be tolerably plain to "every beast of the earth, and every fowl of the air and everything that creepeth upon the earth" that Christmas is just about ready to appear "over the top."

Nat Goodwin's latest divorce suit isn't disturbing the country at all; but Nat might save time and money by establishing his legal residence at Seaside with a mileage ticket handy to Vancouver.

Those questionnaires make no distinction in favor of married men. The war department now begins to see that this is a war in which it will need fighters who have had experience.

Those of our young friends who contemplate a course in the school of journalism should remember that the Remington factory turns out something more deadly than a typewriter.

The liquor forces made a strategic retreat from Washington last Tuesday, and will attempt to make stands at previously prepared positions in the remaining wet states.

They say 10,000 Georgians have hit the Billy Sunday trail in Atlanta. With conversions going on at this rate we suppose there will be an end to the Georgia lynchings.

When the cold storage eggs are finally unloaded on the public those who don't keep hens may get those the hen laid on Noah's ark. Their only value would be historical.

That "great American desert" or some other large open place may have to be commandeered as a detention camp for all those alien enemies.

The national plan to cut out the liquor business of the United States in one deal indicates a far reaching sweep of the dry pendulum.

Christmas Gifts.

THE joy that's born of Christmas gifts is not within themselves Or you or I could pick our joys from any merchant's shelves. And you could buy more costly things than ever I could give. And though no friend should come your way contented you could live. Yet some poor trinket rich becomes and treasure to the end Because it is the symbol of a true and loyal friend.

The thing is nothing as it lies upon a merchant's shelf. And scarce a thought you'd give to it for what it is itself. There may be thousands like it round about you everywhere. But let a friend bring it to you and straightway it is rare. For something of that friend into his simple gift is wrought And it becomes a precious thing—a token of a thought.

We are a sentimental clan, we fight and strive for gold. Yet treasures which we closest guard are never bought or sold; The things we value most are not the gems our money buys. But all those sweet and lovely things that memory bids us prize. The faded slippers of a babe not in themselves are dear. But in the thoughts they bring to us of one no longer here.

And so it is with Christmas gifts, 'tis friends who make them rare. The trifle that with love is rich has worth beyond compare; The moment that it passes from some friendly hand to you It has assumed a value that before it never knew. And what was common in itself is now beyond all price Because it represents to you some good friend's sacrifice.

Stomach Trouble and Constipation. Those who are afflicted with stomach trouble and constipation should read the following: "I have never found anything so good for stomach trouble and constipation as Chamberlain's Tablets. I have used them off and on now for the past two years. They not only regulate the action of the bowels but stimulate the liver and keep one's body in a healthy condition," writes Mrs. Benjamin Hooper, Auburn, N. Y.—Adv.

HOLIDAY EXCHANGES.

Among the holiday editions so far received at the Outlook exchange desk is the Oregon Labor Press. It contains timely articles upon the patriotic stand taken by labor and endorses the policy of President Wilson upon the many questions involved in the present war. The Press has also a remarkable advertising patronage, showing that its own policies are appreciated by the business men of Portland, who are in accord with the problems of the laboring men.

When the Oregon City Courier starts out to get up a holiday paper it is usually one of the kind that is full of interest. The one that came to the Outlook last week was what its publishers claim it to be—the largest weekly in the state. It shows a remarkable patronage from local advertisers and a lot more from other places, all of which proves that the patronage of Clackamas county is worth catering to. The Courier's 24 pages tell it all.

A splendid Christmas edition was issued by the Clackamas County News, published at Canby. It contained twelve pages of good holiday matter and a liberal display of advertising, much of the latter from Oregon City, showing that the business men of the county seat appreciate the standing of the News in its own locality. Several good features appeared in the paper, among them a brief history of Canby which is an important city on the S. P. railway. The News has a good field and is filling it in a creditable manner.

ADVERTISING VALUE OF PATRIOTIC ISSUE

The Gresham Outlook is to be congratulated upon its handsome Christmas Patriotic number, issued last week. This is not only a fine specimen of the printer's art, but should be of big advertising value to that portion of Multnomah county. It also contained many fine pictures of enlisted men from that community.—Estacada News.
