SPENCE'S MISTAKE.

C. E. Spence, master of the Oregon state grange, is still defending the non-partisan league. He refers to the North Dakota state grange and says that its master, Ray McKalg, has resigned that position in order to devote all his time to league work.

Portland is the best market for farm produce in Oregon. Portland is a better market this year than last. Next year Portland will present advantages to the seller of farm produce which are absent now.

Mr. Spence calls the opposers of the league "the mud-slingers union," and says the intention is to work on the prejudices of the people and discredit the officials of the league before they get to work in this state.

Should Mr. Spence continue his blatant championship of the non-partisan league he will soon lay himself open to the suspicion of being disloyal and a sympathizer of the I. W. W. and other seditious organizations.

Those Chinese farmers are giving up their homes in California to go to Wisconsin—for the benefit of a market and other convenient conditions. That is one of the several reasons for the success of the Chinese farmer and it merits the attention of Americans in the same business.

There is another threat that the Portland poolrooms are to be closed up. Portland should hesitate. If the poolrooms are closed and the scores of young men who infest them are scattered where will the police look for the slackers and I. W. W.s?

Gresham has thousands of inducements to offer the homeseekers, to say nothing of the fact that every garden will grow onions this year. Even the horrors of war cannot submerge the ineffable perfume that is to breathe upon Gresham this spring.

Now is the accepted time for the "urged-by-their-friends" fellows to put themselves down efficiently as candidates for public jobs, even though, as frequently happens, the friends that are doing the urging are largely imaginary.

Loyal Americans do not often ask for reprisals, but every soul of them is ardently wishing to hear that American airplanes have taken vengeance on Germany for its killing of defenceless persons in England and France.

The victory will not be complete if it leaves unhung every he Hoenzolern and all the swash-buckling brutes who are responsible for what has happened to the world.

We hate to be a kiljoy, but we have to ask: How can anyone properly enjoy April Fool Day on the Monday following Easter Sunday?

It is encouraging to know that the third liberty loan is going to be a whole lot nearer making liberty safe than the first one was.

Patriotic talk is commendable, but to be really useful it's got to be backed up by patriotic actions.

The Russian idea seems to be to burn the bridges before anybody crosses them.

task of training the minds of one's children worth no more than the work of some untutored, unskilled ignoramus whose task is to do merely menial work?

Expressed in the necessities, or the diminishing purchasing power of their money, it is safe to say that the teachers of America have suffered since the war began a reduction of compensation amounting to more than 50 per cent.

Let it be said that the people of this state and all others are responsible. The school boards will be just to the teachers if the people will pay the necessary taxes. But, unless all signs fail, the teachers throughout the state and country are going to obtain higher salaries next year or there will be many schools closed.

The teachers seem to be out to make a living in private employment if public employment seems unable to afford their services at present. You can't blame them.

HUNTING A MARKET.

There is an interesting story going the rounds that a colony of Chinese farmers are going from California to Wisconsin. The vanguard of the colony, so the story goes, consists of twelve farmers who will "try out" their new home and see if it is all that the land men say that it is.

If the venture shall prove successful it is said that practically every Chinese farmer in California will seek a home in Wisconsin. The object is to get closer to a ready market for the production of their labors. And there is in that a lesson to the American farmer which he would do well to heed.

Portland is the best market for farm produce in Oregon. Portland is a better market this year than last.

Next year Portland will present advantages to the seller of farm produce which are absent now. Within five years Portland will have a population exceeding half a million; and if the present may indicate the future it may be assumed that fully one-half the food consumed by these people will of necessity be shipped into Portland from the four or five surrounding counties and will always be in demand.

The striking feature of the matter is that in these few counties are nearly 10,000 acres of land capable of producing great crops of food and feed which have never yet been tilled.

And while this land is lying idle around Portland, some of it within walking distance of the Willamette river, many are seeking land in other places which have no near market and where there are bad roads and other inconveniences to contend with.

Those Chinese farmers are giving up their homes in California to go to Wisconsin—for the benefit of a market and other convenient conditions. That is one of the several reasons for the success of the Chinese farmer and it merits the attention of Americans in the same business.

There is another threat that the Portland poolrooms are to be closed up. Portland should hesitate. If the poolrooms are closed and the scores of young men who infest them are scattered where will the police look for the slackers and I. W. W.s?

THE BURDEN.

Almost daily now comes the news of the killing of a man from one of the states, and the wounding of others on the French front. We are just beginning to take up our burden. Ahead of us, in all likelihood, are days of sorrow that will touch many homes, days of sacrifice and suffering of a kind we have hardly begun to dream of.

Things have come easy for us in this land of peace and plenty. We are not used to suffering, or sacrifice, or war. We have none of the bitter racial feeling of other nations to stir us to give and give, to bear bitter suffering silently in order that a traditional enemy be vanquished. Those who know America know that despite these things she will bear her trials nobly. No more can be asked than that she bear them as France has borne hers.

BOOKS NEEDED BY OUR SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

This war must not be a war of destruction only. It must be carried on constructively as well. The result must be a net gain to humanity. Our fighting men must have good reading for their leisure hours. Several hundred thousand books have been supplied. Two million more are needed.

Look over your shelves and pick out the books you are going to send to the men in khaki.

Select the books you enjoyed, but will never read again.

Choose some you would like to keep. Others will like them, too.

Men like Adventure, Western Stories, Biography, Travel, History, and Poetry of all kinds.

War Books, Military Manuals and up-to-date technical books are in great demand.

Wrap them up and label the package "Library War Service, American Library Association."

Send the package to the Public Library or telephone 14 and they will be called for.

SCHOOLS TO HAVE PATRIOTIC MEETINGS

Plans are being made by County Superintendent Alderson to hold patriotic meetings in each school district of the county between now and the first of May, according to an announcement made at the recent meeting of the Multnomah County Teachers' League. The teachers of the county will do all in their power to make these meetings of the greatest benefit to their schools and communities.

Resolutions of condolence were presented by Mrs. Janet Grant of the Troutdale school on behalf of the teachers of the county, on the tragic death of Miss Alderson.

Room 270 of the courthouse was made the permanent place of meeting by a vote of the league.

GRESHAM BANKS SHOW OVER HALF A MILLION

The official report of the First State Bank of Gresham, which has been in the last two issues of the Outlook, reveals that its resources have passed the mark of $351,000. It is a growing institution in a growing community and one that more than any other factor, shows the prosperity of this section.

A similar report of the Bank of Gresham shows resources above $161,000, the two combined making a showing of more than half a million dollars. Taking the two reports together the close observer can see that the finances of eastern Multnomah, as revealed in them, are at high tide and constantly increasing.
