TO "THEM."

We are gladly sorrowful; we are bravely fearful; we are proudly humble.

We are sorry our boys are required to offer themselves as sacrifices; to interrupt careers to stop the career of a horrible menace; to leave homes, occupations, studies; to leave fathers, mothers, brothers, sisters, wives and sweethearts. But we are glad, glad, glad that they are so cheerfully willing to place their all in the balance against the all which we know is grudgingly sacrificed by our enemies.

How brave it is for mothers to strangle their fears for their boys, and smilingly bid them God-speed in their errand of stern justice. True courage lies not in being fearless, but in overpowering fear with the cheerful doing of duty.

And then we are proud. What brave boys, what fearless boys they are. As we think of them, we are humbled in our pride. We look up with profound love and respect to our boys, the backbone of the nation.

May the dark clouds be riven asunder by the rays of a new sun, which shall rise on a world filled with peace and good will toward all men. And if possible, may this come to pass soon. Soon enough that our boys may come home, not as memories or heroes, but as strong men proud and happy in the knowledge of a splendid cause well won.

KEEPING GOOD PROPERTY.

It is encouraging to hear reports that the small number of partial payment subscribers to the liberty loans is not so great as was anticipated at an earlier time in the year. Relatively few are surrendering their rights to the bonds by discontinuing payments. It is true that the public is not altogether to blame for the rumors that are afloat to the effect that some 25 per cent of these small subscribers are not completing payments, for officials of the loan have made these statements in public, and the bearish disposition of Wall street has had its effect.

Very likely, as is common, fragmentary and occasional information led to the forming of this conclusion. But the subject has been looked into systematically at last, and an examination of many corporations that are assisting their employees to buy bonds by maintaining a partial payment plan show that but little over five per cent of the workers are losing their hold on this valuable property through non-payment. That is, these are the figures for the second loan. Nineteen per cent of these partial payment subscribers forfeited their first liberty loan bonds.

This showing on the second liberty loan is first rate. It is about as good as could be expected of anything conducted on the installment basis. It would be interesting to compare it with insurance figures.

It would be too bad if a considerable number of the workers should let the bonds slip away from them. One of the very best features of our liberty sales has been the general distribution of the bonds among all classes of subscribers. The workers have taken them in impressive numbers. This means, of course, that as these workers are taxed to pay interest on and the principle of the bonds, they will tax themselves to pay themselves, instead of taxing themselves to pay the wealthy holders of property they permitted the wealthy to monopolize.

The first liberties will soon be paid for by the installment subscribers. The war is costing these people a good deal in one way or another, but the man who took a $50 or $100 bond in the first campaign is, most likely, just that much ahead of where he would have been if he hadn't subscribed. As a rule that money would have gone—been swallowed up in advancing living expenses. It is heartening to know that such a large number and proportion of the workers is keeping this property, that so many are securing to themselves and their families the payments that will eventually be made.

Nor will the significance of these figures for the next loan be missed. If the first and second issues were surrendered in large numbers, there would be something to all the talk we are hearing about the "hard time" we are to have in selling the new bonds. Frankly we do not believe we are to have such a "hard time." A liberty loan bond is good property. There is a growing understanding of this fact.

The smaller second loan buyers are holding on much better than did the first loan purchasers. Our people are becoming accustomed to the idea of owning government securities, and many of them have tidy sums thus secured that they would not otherwise have owned. They will want to get in on the third loan. Of course, only a small part of a loan is taken up by the smaller subscribers, but the tenacity with which these are holding their bonds is significant nevertheless.

KILLING DEVELOPMENT.

The professional eastern highbrow conservationists have killed all water power development for ten years and still keep it up.

We are burning millions of tons of coal and letting millions of water power run to waste to gratify socialistic idealists.

The bill before congress drafted by Pinchot et al admits the need of enlisting private capital in developing the wasting water powers.

Still it expects private capital to develop water power enterprises for a limited period of years, the promoters to receive their pay from a restricted income for that period, at the end of which they have to turn the property over to the government. No private capital will be invested on any such plan and the consequence will be that water power development will languish.

Under this bill, the government would be required to say to the prospective investor: "Go ahead and spend your money. You must limit your profit to six or seven per cent, pay heavy taxes, meet all repairs and improvements at your own cost. After taking six per cent out of the investment for fifty years, you will have to give the property to us."

That is not business in any country in the world and the consequence of allowing such a system to become law would be to prevent the utilization of the wasting water power.

Just put this in one of your brain cells and keep it there: Gresham is the largest city in area, population, wealth, health and republican majority in eastern Multnomah. She is the Hoover of happiness, the daughter of destiny, the lallapalooah of liberty, the elysium of education, the betenoir of the bootleggers, the place where Cupid never loafs on the job and where the soft flutter of the stork's wings stirs the jasmine-scented breezes of the springtime.

When strawberry time arrives we want consumers of the home variety to know that when they find the knotty, pimply and ugly little strawberries in the bottom of the box our people merely put them in to keep faith with custom and tradition. Personally they would prefer to sell honest berries in boxes that never cheat.

If the dairying situation gets too acute and the farmer can't get value received from his herd we would advise him to cross his cows with a freight engine. In that way he can add about $60 to the value of an old cow before she gets half way across the track.

If the Non-Partisan league puts over its socialistic program for principal lines of industry except farming, how long will it be before the masses demand public ownership of the land. The farmers are playing with dynamite, but don't know it.

Making the world safe for democracy means the killing of every prince or potentate in Europe who believes in the divine right of kings and forces that kind of stuff on oppressed people by military force.

Spring house cleaning is about to begin—over here with the broom, suds and wallpaper dough; over there with the machine gun and its brothers.

The war is making some fellows so rich that they'll want to get poor again some day and be living upstairs over a vacant storeroom.

Even if you haven't got the money together to pay the first half of your taxes, it isn't too early to fix up your exemptions for next year.

The time for swatting the fly will soon be here. Why not clean up in advance, so that there will be fewer of them to swat?

The world may, as someone has suggested, accept us at our own valuation, but we don't often catch it in a buying humor.

There is a high cost attached to engagement rings; also there is the surtax that comes after the marriage ceremony.

PLAYING WITH DYNAMITE.

The North Dakota Farmers' Non-Partisan league is reaching out in many states for further organization. It is spreading its socialistic propaganda over every western state with the following tentative platform for adoption which State Master Spence is trying to foist upon the people of Oregon:

"Government ownership and operation of public utilities, especially of railroads, coal, iron and copper mines, telegraph, telephone and water powers." (Socialism.)

"To lower cost of living government should regulate prices, and to make such regulations effective, advocate national, state or city ownership of grain elevators, stockyards, storage warehouses, flour mills, fuel yards and other agencies of distribution." (No mention of how to reduce prices or lower cost of farm produce or grain which is left under private control. Simply political ploy to buy votes.)

"Farm and loan law to be so amended as to make it more within reach of all farmers and of all farm purposes." (Farmers are already extended government loans on long time and low interest, a privilege granted no other industry.)

"All taxes to be assessed in actual land values exclusive of farm improvements. All land held out of use to be taxed at its full rental value." (Single tax.)

"All war profits and all incomes in excess of $10,000 to be conscripted by the government while the war lasts." (Would soon destroy all business.)

The leaders behind this movement are not farmers, neither are they business men, they are professional politicians and agitators capitalizing the words "farmer" and "non-partisan" to promote a new political movement which offers rich political plunder.

They propose individualism for the farmer, socialism for the masses.

Once establish their social program and how long would the farmer be allowed to own his farm land.

The same leaders seeking new fields of exploitation would then cry, "the state must own the land to protect the people from the land barons." (farmers.)

Farmers beware! You are playing with dynamite, but you don't know it.

You are backing a movement which will eventually make you a tenant instead of a land owner.

You are destroying the very foundation principals of our government.

They tell us that eating crows is a regular thing in Germany and that when young the crow is not bad eating. We have never heard of a young crow being served up as a dish in this country, but we think we faintly recall something about Old Crow being served as a beverage.

There are quite a lot of patriots in every state who would gladly help the president win the war if the president would indicate to them what $3000-a-year-job he will permit them to help him in.

Oregon has been in the lead in every war activity and no one doubts that the Oregon boys will be in the lead when it comes to moving the kaiser's household goods from Berlin.

When men talk about women economizing in clothes, do they mean spending less money, or using less goods?

There is a deep conviction in many minds that mutton can be obtained by ordering lamb.

Are you using that ten per cent of mashed potatoes in every baking of bread or pastry?

Talk is cheap except the unpatriotic kind which can be pretty expensive.

And after Johnny gets his gun the next thing is to get his Hun.

Mountain Meadow Butter Manufactured by SANDY CREAMERY CO. The name "Mount Hood Butter" has heretofore been used by permission of the Mount Hood Ice Cream Co., which has all its dairy products registered under that title. That permission has ceased, hence the change of name, which became effective on January 1. "Mountain Meadow Butter" will be found at all the Leading stores in the county. Ask for it.
