THE LIBERTY LOAN

The formal opening of the liberty loan campaign was the signal for the greatest expressions of patriotism this nation has ever known. From all over the country came reports that a city or district had reached its quota within two days after the work had begun. Oregon, as usual, was in the lead from the start and on Wednesday the goal was reached with many subscriptions yet to hear from. The third bond issue will be doubled and it will be a welcome contribution to the cause we are fighting for.

No money was ever more needed, and none was asked for a nobler purpose. Nevertheless, patriotism plays its part. The people were asked to finance the greatest enterprise in which this nation ever engaged. They are proud to be partners in it. The government has turned over all its soldiers now in France to the allies to use as they see fit. It has pledged the support of all our people, and every dollar of its resources. The people are making that pledge good. To have failed would have been to imperil our institutions and to expose liberty to the deadliest hazard. As we love our country we did not dare to fail—did not dare to even think of the possibility of a failure.

This great, rich and prosperous nation has risen to the height of its responsibility. The only business of importance at the present time is that of winning the war for freedom, humanity, decency and national honor. We are rushing troops abroad as fast as ships can be found for them. We are backing them with our dollars. The more money, men and food we pour into this war, the more quickly will it be won, and the fewer will be the American lives lost.

Three years ago the Germans tried to stir up a holy war. They have succeeded—for that is the sort of a war we are fighting. It is a war for childhood and womanhood, for all the sanctities of life.

MOB VIOLENCE

Years ago when the program of law enforcement was not so complete in several of the western territories as might have been desired, there grew out of local conditions an organization known as the Vigilantes. It was particularly in evidence in California and only a little less so in Idaho and Montana. The members took the enforcement of law into their own hands. They were the attorneys, juries and judges. There was no appeal from their decisions, and frequently they had a hanging for breakfast, just to clear the atmosphere and rid the community of some undesirable citizen. Old timers here remember several such occasions.

Out of the conditions in the south, during civil war times, there came the Ku-Klux-Klan, another organization that made its own decrees and executed them. The notorious Molly Maguires in the coal fields of Pennsylvania, gave rise to much fiction and some fact. The story of how these men were hunted down and brought to justice is one of the most absorbing in American history.

And of course we had the White-cappers. They flourished in various parts of the south and middle west and in some places attained a bloom that some of the organizations elsewhere failed to realize. They are known to have perfected a sort of interchangeable organization. When a man was thought to need a whipping in one county, the members of the band in another county were sent for and they did the work. This served to cover the tracks of the White-cappers and enable them to prove an alibi.

There are those who defend some of these organizations for certain of their acts in the past. It is claimed that now and then some fellow did need hanging and that certain men who were whitecapped merely got what was due them, but the theory of the thing was all wrong.

At the present time we are hearing much about the regulations forcing people to ride on rails, to kiss the flag, to stand up under a coating of tar and feathers and sing the national anthem. There was one lynching in Montana and another in Illinois. There may have been other acts of lawlessness under the guise of patriotism that have not been reported.

This country is at war, but civil law has not been suspended and there is no likelihood that it will be. The courts are able to take care of traitors and the courts should inflict such punishment as is necessary by due process of law. There have been some surprising decisions of courts, that have released Germans charged with treason, but in the main the courts are just and in the long run, the safety of life and property rests in law and in the courts.

ARBOR DAY

Within a few days the schools will be called upon to observe Arbor Day. The pupils will be called upon to plant a tree as an adornment of the school grounds. But this year, more than ever, the observance of the day should mean more than the planting of one tree—there should be thousands set out in other places than the school yard, along the county roads, in the denuded fields that will remain uncultivated, in fact wherever a tree is needed.

The demand for lumber is greater than it ever has been in this country and the demand is increasing. Millions of board feet are being cut for ships, for building cantonments and for other war purposes. The main thought of those who are cutting down the forests now is to get the logs to the sawmills. The lumbermen are too busy to think of the principal of making two trees, or even one, grow where only one grew before.

All over the northwest there are great tracts of land denuded of the stately forests. Something in the way of reforestation has been done, but the problem must get down to the individual citizen and to the growing generation. Throughout all Oregon and Washington the timber has been cut for miles away from tidewater. Erosion is following in many places. The productive portion of the soil is being washed away filling the channels and beds of the rivers, lakes and other bodies of water, and the land that is left is unsightly, bare and worthless.

The old idea of planting was to grow something in a flower pot. The idea changed to that of planting hedges and shrubbery. Now the thought is turning to tree planting and that for permanency, but with only one tree each year in a school yard nothing of value is being accomplished.

The work of reforesting the northwest should be taken up more seriously and Arbor Day is the best time to begin it. In some places the oak and the ash should be planted. And there are quick-growing trees for other spots. For the logged-off lands there should be planted the fir, the cedar, the spruce and hemlock, according to the locality most suited to their growth. Some attention is being paid to planting nut trees all over the country. The English walnut thrives here, so does the chestnut, and it would be a splendid thing for the schools if the highways were bordered with them wherever practical. These would furnish shade and at the proper season they would do their share in helping solve the food problem. It is hardly necessary to urge the planting of fruit trees, yet the yard that does not possess its quota of apples, pears, cherries and the like is a forlorn-looking yard indeed.

Eastern Multnomah is going to keep right on and over-subscribe the $35,000 worth of liberty bonds. It may not be all subscribed at home but this section will get the credit for what is subscribed in Portland.

Having verified all the facts in the case we can say confidently that the Gresham roosters are not observing the new time. But they never have wasted daylight.

This nation's casualty list will ere long contain the name of John Barleycorn. Under the new ruling of the war department, no address will be given.

A young woman in Los Angeles has been arrested for conducting a school of flirting. Such educational facilities are not needed in some places we know of.

Now that the Germans are again taking the initiative it's up to the allies to administer the bifurcament.

We haven't seen any samples of this year's straw hats, but we saw some that were left over from last year.

Eggs are reported to be selling for five cents a dozen in China. But who wants a china egg?

A liberty bond is not only a good buy for the Americans but its good night for the huns.

These are great days for the seed sellers as well as the munition makers.

Liberty ought to be worth all the bonds you can afford to buy.

The German language seems to be retreating on all points.

Don't let liberty stand alone; help along the liberty loan.

FIFTY CITIES TO HOLD EXAMINATIONS OF TYPEWRITERS

Examinations will be held every Tuesday in fifty cities of the Pacific Northwest. Persons who have a knowledge of stenography or typewriting are urged to apply for the Departmental Government Service. An examination will also be held for the Field Service on April 29, 1918.

Thousands of appointments have been made at salaries of $1000 to $1200 in the last six months. Thousands of additional appointments will be made soon.

Application blanks and information may be secured from Herbert F. Ward, District Secretary, Eleventh U. S. Civil Service District, 303 Post Office Building, Seattle, Wash.

GRANGES OPPOSING SPENDING OF MONEY

The following resolution was endorsed by Columbia Grange No. 267, at the regular meeting, April 6:

Resolved, That whereas large sums of money are being expended by the candidates for office in printing, advertising and in many other ways, which would serve a more patriotic and much needed purpose if invested in liberty bonds, thrift stamps or donated to the Red Cross, and the same appears to be in direct violation of the provisions of the Corrupt Practice Act, which was designed to protect the purity of the ballot and honesty of election.

Resolved, That in the judgment of the members of the Salem Grange No. 17, P. of H., that no candidate for office violating the Corrupt Practice Act by the expenditure of large sums of money to advance his candidacy, is worthy of public trust or confidence, and it is the duty of the proper officers of the law to collect the evidence of such violation and see that the provisions of such act are strictly enforced.

Only with a disciplined people behind our armies can we hope to win against the Germans. More cheerful compliance with the food regulations, and less questioning and complaining would be better patriotism.

Nature Cures, the Doctor Takes the Fee.

There is an old saying that "Nature cures, the doctor takes the fee," but as everyone knows you can help Nature very much and thereby enable it to effect a cure in much less time than is usually required. This is particularly true of colds, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy relieves the lungs, liquefies the tough mucus and aids in its expectoration, allays the cough and aids Nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition.—Adv.

Some Good Advice.
"Don't think too much of your own methods. Watch other people's ways and learn from them." This is good advice, especially when bilious or constipated. You will find many people who use Chamberlain's Tablets for these ailments with the best results, and will do well to follow their example.—Adv.
