JUDGE STAPLETON

The people of Eastern Multnomah, the home of Judge George W. Stapleton, will have the opportunity next Friday to render him an appreciative source in return for the services he has been giving them for several years past. He is a candidate to succeed himself as Circuit Judge, a position he is worthily filling, and it would be not only a rare compliment to him but the republican voters would be doing themselves justice in giving him their unanimous support.

Space forbids any lengthy appeal or discussion of his qualifications, but he has proven himself the friend of all classes in every capacity; and of his ability there is no question. As the only candidate from the country precincts he is entitled to the undivided suffrage of every man or woman who votes the republican ticket at the coming primaries.

The inquisitive subscriber says he is going into a debate on the subject, "Resolved that a man resembles a rooster more than he does a cat," and that he will represent the cat end of the confab. He wants to know if he has got hold of the right end. We hardly like to give advice in such matters, but man partakes of the nature of both. He crows and struts all day, but the rooster retires early, whereas the man wants to prowl about like a tomcat until an hour before sunrise.

The wisest men need to watch and pray, for they know neither the day nor the hour when they will slip a cog or drop a wrench in the wheels and make facelated, sublimated, animated, aerated, coruscated, pluperfect, pale pink blooming fools of themselves. And this is the open season for the man with the rattletongue.

Now that the liberty loan is put over and Oregon and Gresham have their flags a flying and their tails over the dashboard, it is proper to take up the political situation carefully and see what is necessary to put Governor Withycombe across once more by a record-breaking majority.

What the public has been craving in the senatorial contest is a good line of oratory. More than likely the several aspirants lack fully as much of being Daniel Websters or Henry Clays as a one-eyed rooster with a frozen comb lacks of being Demosthenes.

We believe that those who invite us out to dinner occasionally will concede that we are striving to influence people to avoid food waste, and that we cannot be fairly charged with an attempt to make eating unpopular.

Its a jail offense to bring liquor into Oregon, and the time is drawing nearer when it will be instant death to take any of the remaining supply out of the state.

A last word to the candidates: There are times when it is infinitely safer to permit your enemy to write political screeds about you, than it is for you to write a letter to your friends.

A good many of the canned editorials received by the newspapers these days spoil as soon as the can is opened; yet some of the newspapers continue to use them.

Let the candidates bear in mind that the game of politics, like all other games, has to be played on the square to be thoroughly enjoyed by all concerned.

Since the lightless nights have been suspended until September 1, we will have to depend on the prohibition law to keep some folks from being lit up.

The candidates should have a heart and give us a cardless day before Friday.

Road to Happiness.

Be amiable, cheerful and good natured and you are much more likely to be happy. You will find this difficult, if not impossible, however, when you are constantly troubled with constipation. Take Chamberlain's Tablets and get rid of that and it will be easy. These tablets not only move the bowels, but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion.—Adv.

FOR CORONER

EDWARD F. SMITH

Former Chief Deputy for past 3 1/4 years. Conducted entire affairs of office during most of that period.

Personally investigated over 90 per cent coroner cases. No reason why CORONER should be a DOCTOR. Have no profession to serve but can devote all my time to the office.

VOTE and elect a man who is always on the job, instead of a DOCTOR who sits in his office and sends out a representative or a deputy to attend to the duties of the office.

Will establish branch offices in the outlying districts.

VOTE X 123 on ballot.
