County Fair News Notes

From Daily Outlook, Tuesday, September 17.

GOOD HORSE RACING IS FULLY ASSURED

Some good horse racing is assured for the last three days of the fair despite the rumors that have gone out to the contrary. Ten horses that were here last week pulled out for Eugene on Friday for the reason that their owners were anxious to work them out for a week previous to entering them at the state fair.

When they came here they intended to remain and enter the races, but the track was not in condition and it was deemed important that the animals have work previous to the Salem races, hence their leaving.

Joseph Woddell, superintendent of the races here this week, has been securing another string of lightfeet and will have entries that are the best in the northwest. Several of those to be entered on Portland day are in the front rank as pacers and trotters and were winners at the California State fair held at Sacramento two weeks ago. It is intended to put on three races on Wednesday, two or three on Thursday and finish up Saturday with something fully as classy as anything that will be seen in the racing line at Salem.

The track is in first-class condition and the weather promises to be all that can be desired. There will be good racing sport and plenty of it. The official score card will be published each day in this paper and will be circulated free.

COUNTRY SCHOOLS IN CLUB PROJECTS

Twelve country schools of eastern Multnomah have taken the entire north side of the gallery spaces in the pavilion with club project work. Each school has fitted up an individual booth in which the project work is being displayed, and each one has made a creditable exhibit, also each one has done some remarkable decorative work which makes the school row a fairly scene of rare beauty.

The schools which have entered into competition for the premiums offered are Lynch, Pleasant View, Russellville, Gresham, Terry, Gilbert, Troutdale, Pleasant Valley, Folkenberg, Buckley, Orient and Rockwood. In addition to these booths a large space across the east end of the gallery is filled with miscellaneous exhibits, all pertaining to the project work from a number of other schools.

All the project work of the schools is not visible here, as the poultry, pigs and other livestock grown and owned by the school children is in the pens provided for them in the stock pens and poultry house. The country school exhibit is very creditable.

PORTLAND SCHOOLS MAKE FINE SHOWING

Eight Portland schools, including Washington High and Lincoln High, have taken up the south side gallery space in the pavilion and are competing with each other in an effort to win the prizes offered by the fair association.

The same number of artistic booths attest the interest being taken by the city schools, and for a first exhibit under the new plan they are making a wonderful showing. Some of the articles grown on the city lots by the boys and girls will rank with that grown in the country, but as the two factions are not competing with each other there is no way for comparisons. However, the country boys and girls may be able to learn something about agriculture from a close inspection of the displays of their city rivals.

Arrangements have been made for a dancing platform and a jazz orchestra has been engaged. The floor will be near the poultry house and will have a canvass top if the weather calls for one. It will be a popular place for those who like the new style of music.

Furrow attractions will be more numerous this year than ever before. Besides the Browning Amusement company there is the Fontaine & Lauder shows ready for business.

"The Coming of the White Man" tonight. Indian music by Campbell's American Band.

STOCK BARN ARE FULL OF FINEST ANIMALS

All the stock barns are full. Some of the finest horses and cattle in the county are on exhibition. A. C. Ruby has taken barn number 3 and a part of another, his entries numbering 45. As his horses are the most magnificent in the northwest his entries alone is a complete exhibit itself and worth the price of an admission.

Among the cattle may be seen the cream of several well-known herds of this vicinity. Dave McKeown and E. T. Burns have their Holsteins ready for inspection; Theodore Brugger is showing his Brown Swiss; G. H. Dammeier has his herd of prize-winning Jerseys. There are several smaller lots—all of them first grade.

Swine and sheep have filled the pens in those classes, and there is going to be some keen competition among the exhibitors.

SEVEN GRANGES ARE AFTER BLUE RIBBON

Seven of the county subordinate granges are striving to carry off first honors, first money and the blue ribbon. Their booths are ranged along the walls of the pavilion with a uniform frontage of 24 feet each. All are well filled, tastefully decorated and make a wonderful showing of the agricultural resources of this part of the county.

The seven granges represented are Gresham, Multnomah, Russellville, Rockwood, Fairview, Lents and Evening Star. They are each in charge of their own committees, the members of which have been doing hard work. Under the rules they will all be winners according to the points they score. The most tastefully decorated will get an extra prize of $10.

TWO TELEPHONES ARE KEPT BUSY

A long distance telephone has been installed in the secretary's office, which is a pay station for all calls. It is kept busy on Portland business, but may be used by the fair officials for local calls which are often necessary. Its number is 831.

Another phone is to be found at the Outlook information booth in the pavilion. Its number is 833 and it may be used by subscribers for local calls only. No long distance calls will be taken there.

LIBRARY NEWS.

This is county fair week in Gresham. It is also library week in Gresham. You now have a new librarian in charge, who is very much interested in just such communities as this, and who is very anxious to do all in her power to help along its rapid growth, by getting to each and every individual just that book which contains the knowledge he needs and wants most. If you live some distance from town, do not go home after your visit to the fair, without also paying a visit to your library, the most attractive building in the library system, and the handiest and best place to rest.

Beginning Monday, September 16, the library will be open from 12:30 till 5 p. m. At present, we are extremely short-handed. This means that if your library is not well patronized, its life will hang by a very slender thread, indeed.

On Wednesday, at 4 o'clock, there will be a story hour for the children, and we should be very happy to see every child present.

Again I say to you: If you have the welfare of your community at heart, patronize your library, read about the things you have always wanted to know, and make it a vital factor in your town.

LIBRARIAN.

The association cafeteria opened for business today at noon and fed a hungry multitude. It is in charge of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Crane with "Auntie" Copeland as chef. The cafeteria's former reputation will be sustained.

The Rebekahs have a tent at the corner of the pavilion where women with babies are welcome. It will be fully appreciated.

We favor a war tax on summer furs worn on the fair grounds in weather like this.

The weather man is doing some fine work. He is helping the fair to win the war.

Phone 833 for information booth and Outlook office in the pavilion.
