County Fair News Notes

From Daily Outlook

BEST HORSE RACING EVER IN GRESHAM

Yesterday's racing event was without any exception the best ever seen on the Gresham race-course. The crowd overflowed the grandstand and every available space for an automobile was taken. It was an ideal day for the races and the crowd was cheerful as well as enthusiastic. Nor was there any disappointment in delays.

One remarkable feature was the way in which the drivers handled their horses at the start. No jockeying at all and but one or two "false alarms" when the horses approached the wire. They were off neck and neck and every start was a race. Also every heat was a race under the three-heat plan.

A time record for duration of races was broken yesterday. All the races were started and ended in 105 minutes, or an average of 11 2-3 minutes to the heat. The nearest approach to this record ever before known was 11 2-3 minutes.

Yesterday's scores were good ones, but no records were broken. Probably such a thing was not expected but good time was made. In the 2:11 trot Allie Lou was winner in 2:22, in three straight heats; Pfeister's Lynwood, 2d; Oregonia, 3d. The 2:10 pace went to O. U. C. in 2:18. She also won this race in three straights. Emma M. was 2d with Lo 3d. There were but two entries in the 2:20 pace—T. R. Howitt's Gresham Boy and Vesta Vernon. The latter defeated the local horse in 2:27, also winning every heat.

MULTNOMAH GRANGE WINS FIRST PRIZE

Awards were made yesterday, resulting in Multnomah grange being declared winner of the first premium and the blue ribbon with a score of 93%. Fairview grange won second money with 92% points being a close rival of Multnomah's. Russellville grange fell only a fraction over one point below the winner of first money, her score being 92%. Lents grange tied Gresham with a score of 90 points each. Both of them were awarded fourth prize but their ribbons are of a different color.

FUTURE CHAMPION IN BURNS' HERD

A. H. Burns won third prize on one of his fine Holsteins at the fair and the following morning she gave her owner the present of a fine male calf. This is the second calf added to Mr. Burns' herd this week. Mr. Burns is a busy man these days. He appreciates and knows how to handle high-bred stock and also knows how to build up a good reputation. He lost his champion yearling bull by accidental death the past year or probably would have won another championship.

Mr. Burns stole a march on the fair board by getting another animal in the barn without having to pay an entry fee, yet it don't get a prize this season. But look out for a future prize winning champion bull yearling at the next fair.

The Camp Fire girls have a booth at the entrance of the grove where they are selling homemade pastries and other things good to eat. All the proceeds will go to the Red Cross. Today they are in costumes representing several of the Allied nations and are serving ice cream. Tomorrow they will serve hot lunches.

Governor Withycombe was a caller at the fair grounds yesterday for an hour or two. He said the temptation to see the Multnomah county fair was irresistible and he was particularly well pleased with the exhibits, especially in the stock division.

S. T. Adams of Sacramento, was a visitor at the fair on Wednesday. He was enquiring for Corbett people and for J. B. Lent in particular and said he taught school near Corbett about thirty-five years ago.

Dancing began last night on the new platform. It will be continued every afternoon and evening for the remainder of the week. Music is produced by the most famous jazz band ever in Portland.

Interest in the grange exhibits is always at a white heat until the awards are announced, after which every granger gives a sigh of relief, glad that the suspense is over.

The dancing platform was a popular place last night. Dancing will be continued today and up till midnight on Saturday.

ADDISON BENNETT PRAISES THE GRANGES

Addison Bennett, special writer of the Oregonian, was on the fair grounds yesterday and in this morning's Oregonian he has a column story. The grange exhibit took his fancy and he unburdened himself in his characteristic way, as follows: "One of the great features of the Multnomah County Fair is its grange exhibits. Always President Lewis and his assistant directors have endeavored to make this one of the great features of the fair and to that end they have offered large prizes for competition. Usually they have had four or five granges in competition, but this year there are seven, Evening Star, Rockwood, Fairview, Russellville, Gresham, Lents and Multnomah. There are two other granges in the county, Powell Valley and Columbia. Both of these were expected to compete but in the finality they were unable to get the requisite help to get the exhibits together and installed.

"It can be said without fear or favor that the granges exhibiting are to be congratulated beyond stint, for the exhibits are simply wonderful. There will no doubt be great exhibits at the State Fair, but do not for a moment think Salem will throw Gresham in the shade. These exhibits alone are well worth a trip to Gresham to view and any agricultural county in the United States might well feel proud of them and of the progressive granges that prepared them."

INDIAN CHARACTER OF SIXTY YEARS AGO

Those who witnessed the Indian portrayal on Tuesday night, saw the character of the western red man as it appeared to the white settlers of the northwest sixty years ago. Those days were troublous ones for the pioneers as the older ones of today have cause to remember. There were uprisings all over the coast, the nearest of the Cascades where General Phil Sheridan took a part in his first fight.

The character of "No Shirt" at the fair grounds was taken by J. D. Lee, who was a resident of Oregon when a boy, and who is thoroughly familiar with the Indian character. He speaks the Chinook jargon fluently as it was a general means of communication between the Indians and early settlers and was often used by the white people among themselves.

It is practically a dead language now, but there are a few who can yet talk it and understand it. Mr. Lee is preparing a lecture based upon this decadent language and his rendition of certain chants and songs on Tuesday evening was but a small part of the Indian lore he is endeavoring to preserve. His Indian costume was furnished by a lodge of the Red Men in Portland, the oldest patriotic society in the United States.

THREE WINNERS IN FLORAL DIVISION

Floral premiums have been awarded the lawn displays. The first prize went to O. Puenger for the best bed of annual plants near the band stand.

The Mountain View Floral company drew second premium on the bed of cannas in the center of the lawn. Third prize went to John Zimmerman, president of the Portland Floral association for the bed of zenias.

All the floral exhibits are better this year than ever before and those who failed to take prizes will be paid for their beds at the rate of ten dollars for 100 square feet.

J. G. Holmes, a resident of the Troutdale district ten years ago, was a visitor at the fair today. He was the champion in a plowing contest one year on the fair grounds and is considerably interested in the new methods of tractor cultivation. Mr. Holmes is now a resident of Silverton.

Ragtime Kelly makes mirth wherever he goes. His antics are interesting to watch but it gives him a hot spell when some of his victims take a notion to get revenge. He is in the employ of the fair association as a special hot air artist and official mountebank.

J. F. Booth, of Portland, will be the four-minute speaker at the fair grounds today. Eugene V. Brookings will speak on Saturday. The speaking will be in the grand stand during lulls in the racing.

Lewis Shattuck and family, now living at Vancouver, were fair visitors for two days. Mr. Shattuck was one of the founders of the association for several years.

Mr. "Blend," the big colored chef at the Fisher's Flouring Mills booth at the fair, is serving delicious scenes and renewing acquaintance with fair visitors.

ATTRACTIVE MACHINERY EXHIBITS. The War Garden. Representative Mason, of Illinois, said in Chicago the other day: "One way to keep down prices is for every family to set up its own vegetable garden, but the trouble is that most of us are as ignorant of gardening as the chap who wrote to the seedman: "As I wish to do my bit for the allies by growing my own provisions on a strip of rocky ground back of my house, please send me f. o. b. one dozen potato seeds, one bee with hive complete, one dozen fruit seeds assorted, ten square yards of grass one path, six feet of wall flowers with wall, and one dozen of flour plants. I am especially particular about the grass, which should be green, and not the brown kind I see in so many gardens."
