HER TRIUMPH IN PRESIDENT CAKE

A six-year ambition to bake a Thanksgiving cake for the president of the United States has been realized. The cake was baked by Miss Bessie Davis of Athens, Ala., and eaten by President Wilson on the most memorial Turkey day in years. Miss Davis visited a sister in Washington who lived next to Dr. Grayson, the president's physician. Together they decided what would be good for the president. Here is Miss Davis and the cake.

HIS LAST WISH WAS TO SAVE THE HASH

He was 40 years old and a cook, and he harbored a constant grudge because the skipper, under pretense of his age, would not bust him and let him go forward with the dough boys when his company went in the trenches. He had brought many a wrinkle from the Fourth Avenue chop house which he abandoned the third day after the United States declared war, and he did a hundred different things to army rations which made his own company enthusiastic and every other company in the regiment jealous.

His company, fighting on the British front, had been in the line four days, and this day it was coming out. He didn't know how much of the food which he had toiled to prepare and dispatch forward in those four days had actually reached the men. He figured that it wasn't much.

So he had prepared a meal for them, a meal which excelled even all his previous efforts. The principal feature was hash, a wonderful variety of hash which he had been able to make only after obtaining half a dozen unusual ingredients in two days of argument and near-fist fights with various representatives of the commissary.

He had timed the cooking of this hash for the arrival of his company from the line, and as a K. P., detailed as observer, signaled its approach, he watched his hash brown with the tender eye of a true artist. As the men came up the road, hungry, tattered, muddy, exhausted, happy, he went forward to meet them. He stood beside the road waiting paternally for them to approach.

As they got near enough for him to make out individual faces in the line a shell struck within a few feet of him. It tore one foot off and inflicted a dozen other wounds. He died a minute later. His dying words were an order to the K. P. who had run to his side.

"Don't mind me, Harry. You run back and see that the hash don't burn."—The Stars and Stripes.

Few Escape.

There are few indeed who escape having at least one cold during the winter months and they are fortunate who have but one and get through with it quickly and without any serious consequences. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and observe the directions with each bottle, and you are likely to be one of the fortunate ones. The worth and merit of this remedy has been fully proven. There are many families who have always used it for years when troubled with a cough or cold, and with the very best results.—Adv.

GRESHAM LOCALS

Mrs. E. Bonett, of Sandy, is visiting with her sister, Mrs. H. J. Pulfer. Howard Mewhirter has arrived home from Ft. McDowell, having been mustered out of the service.

E. E. Welling and his son Emmett have both been seriously ill with influenza but both are reported to be improving.

Thomas Ginder has come back from Waldport, where he spent the summer and fall. After attending to business interests here he may return to the coast.

George Dewey, who recently arrived from California, was the guest on Sunday of his aunt, Mrs. Maggie Ryan. She had not seen her nephew since he was a small boy.

All the members of H. McGinnis' family excepting himself, have been down with influenza but are now on the road to recovery. The boys have returned to their work in Portland.

A note from Miss Hester Thorpe from Colton states that she had been in bed with the "flu" since Wednesday last. She dismissed her school for a week, but was making a rapid recovery.

J. C. Schultz and family have moved from Boring to Gresham and have rooms over First State Bank. Mr. Schultz has charge of the loading at Bull Run and will go to his work from here.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Camp, recently from Aberdeen, Washington, spent Sunday with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Camp. They will make their home in Portland where Mr. Camp has work.

Mrs. Jeannie Burke, president of the Rebekah assembly, made her official visit to the Gresham lodge last night. The convention which had been planned for Wednesday evening has been indefinitely postponed.

Ellsworth Raker, returned to his home in Gresham this morning, having been discharged from the navy training station in Seattle, Washington, after several months' service. He will take up his former work in the garage.

The season for calendars is here and several business men are passing them around. So far the Outlook has received three, one each from the Kidder Hardware company, the Gresham Drug company and Brown & Cleveland.

Cecil Moffit and family have moved into rooms on the second floor of the Lindsey house on Main street. The rest of the house is occupied by the family of H. J. Pulfer. Mr. Moffit has charge of the department of agriculture at the high school.

Mrs. C. G. Humason entertained on Sunday Harry C. Peterson of the 113th Spruce Production Engineers of Vancouver Barracks and Miss Ida Alsleben of Portland. Both are former residents of Wisconsin and Mr. Peterson is from Cumberland.

The Baptist Ladies' Missionary circle will sell a cream whip, like the one sold last year, the proceeds going for the benefit of the organization. The whips may be had at Brown's meat market. The price has been advanced to one dollar.

W. A. Hessel and wife will leave tonight for California, to be absent from Gresham about four weeks. Mr. Hessel has business in the San Joaquin county but will make pleasure trips to other parts of the state. J. P. Walters will have charge of the machinery store while he is away.

Mrs. H. H. Ott was taken suddenly ill on Saturday afternoon and was in a critical condition for several hours. Dr. J. M. Short was sent for who gave relief, and yesterday his patient had so far improved as to be up and around the house. She has about recovered from the unexpected attack.

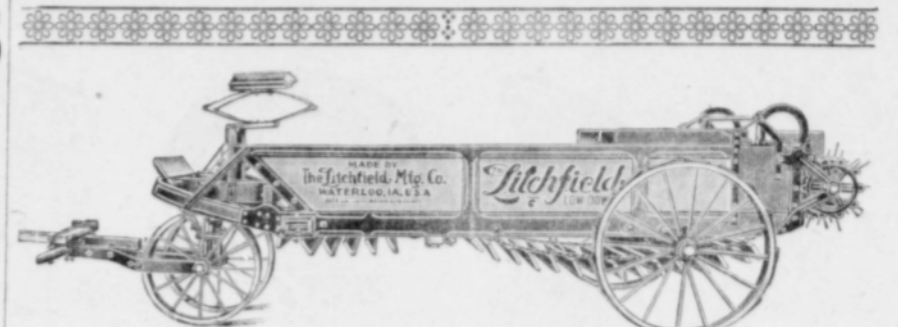

Mr. and Mrs. William Brower have moved from their place near Haley station to the house near the end of Division street and Cleveland avenue. For the present Mrs. Brower will stay with Mrs. Allen Callison as Mr. Brower is working in Portland and Mr. Callison is in eastern Oregon.

The marriage of Francis A. Halliday of Portland and Mrs. Agnes Brash of Gresham took place in Portland on Wednesday of last week. The groom's age is given as 75 and that of the bride as 64. Mrs. Brash lived in the Wilkinson house for the past few months. Mr. and Mrs. Halliday will live in Portland where they have a home.

The regular meeting of Gresham grange will be held next Saturday, December 14, beginning with the forenoon session, and including the usual grange dinner at noon. After the lecture hour, which is open to all, the annual election of officers will be held. In the absence of Master E. E. Welling, on account of sickness, Mrs. J. R. Cavanaugh, the overseer, will occupy the master's chair. All members are urged to attend this meeting.

TRIBUTE OF PRAISE TO SALVATION ARMY

So long as any great number of the soldiers of this world's war are alive the Salvation Army will not have as rocky a road as it has had in the past. You hear praise of all the great organizations of mercy that have been doing work at the front, but you hear more words of praise of the humble Salvation Army from the soldier boys themselves than of any other. It is not generally known, but the Salvation Army has lost a greater proportion of its workers at the front than any other one of the seven organizations engaged in war relief work. The lassies have been in the thickest of the fight from the start, and the base drum head, in the future, will catch more nickels and dimes from men on the streets than it has heretofore ever caught, when the boys come home.—Dallas, Oregon Itemizer.

WHEN HE WEIGHED WITHOUT A COAT

They were standing near a pair of penny scales in front of a downtown store, arguing the question of which weighed the more.

One climbed on the scales and triumphantly announced "a hundred and forty."

Then the other stepped on the platform without having removed his overcoat.

"Hey, take off that coat," said the first.

The second, removing coat, placed it over his arm and examined the arrow on the face of the dial.

"See," he said, "a hundred and forty-two."

The other wore a far-away look.

A shell dropped in a horse transport train on a winding hillside road in Very, and two horses fell floundering to the ditch. A doughboy who had been standing by the roadside ran for an arched passage shelter, his right hand spurting blood where a shell fragment had torn away two fingers. Another soldier bandaged the wound, while several other shells burst near.

Then the doughboy looked out and saw one of the wounded horses struggling in the ditch. Although the shells had been falling regularly at intervals of a few minutes, the doughboy walked out from his shelter, drew his automatic pistol with his left hand and shot the horse. Walking calmly back to the shelter, he said he was sorry he had to use four shots on the horse, but he never had been able to use his left hand very well.—The Stars and Stripes.

LIGHT SEED MAKES LIGHT CROPS CERTAIN

Since only good, plump seed, can produce the best yield, the seed on hand can be greatly improved by running it through the fanning mill. Much of this seed—oats, wheat, and barley—is of light test weight because of the dry season, says B. F. Sheehan of the Oregon Agricultural College farm crops department, and if put back on the land cannot be expected to bring satisfactory crops. These seeds are slow to germinate, tardy in putting forth the first leaf, behind in growth because of poor nourishment, and low in crop yield. The seed may be put through the grader during slack work seasons, thereby selecting only the best for planting.
