The Linotype Way is the Way that Wins.

Official paper of the Town of Gresham, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

AMERICAN RELIEF DRIVE LOANS

On Monday will be launched throughout the country the drive of the American committee for Relief in the near East.

This drive is of national scope, the objective being $30,000,000 and each state having its proportionate quota to raise. On account of "flu" and other unfavorable conditions, Oregon's drive, which was originally dated for early January, has been twice postponed, and the various counties are now conducting or about to conduct their drives. Several of the counties have already raised their quotas or turned them in from their war chests, and the committee hopes to have the entire quota for the state, $184,000, in hand by the middle of March. Portland's drive will be the week of March 3-10.

"The sufferings of starving people of Armenia are indescribable. The condition of these people, dazed from their horrible experiences at the hands of the cruel Turks, clothed in filthy rags, and weakened and emaciated from many months of actual starvation, is the tragedy of the world today. For God's sake, let us do something to save at least the seed of this ancient Christian race from perishing from the face of the earth."

These are the words of Henry Morgenthau, ex-Ambassador to Turkey, in an eloquent appeal to the people of Oregon for their serious attention to the sufferings of 4,000,000 people of the "Bible Lands" whom the atrocities and massacres of the Turks, unspokeable allies of Germany, have left naked, famished, homeless and destitute.

"Why doesn't the United States make a loan to these countries to help them on their feet?"

This is a question frequently asked by persons who are requested to contribute to the relief funds for the 4,000,000 starving and suffering people of the near East—Armenia, Greece, Syria, Persia.

The answer is that a loan cannot be made to a people who have no government. Over-run by the barbarous Turks, driven out into the desert to die, massacred by the thousands, crowded onto boats without water or food and set adrift on the Bosphorus, and suffering all manner of other atrocities, the ancient races of the Bible Lands are without governments and therefore not eligible to governmental aid.

"Allied troops are now guarding these people against further abuses said Mr. Morgenthau, when in Portland recently, "but they are still naked and starving, and until they are clothed and fed they cannot reorganize and set up their governments. The relief fund now being raised will help to clothe them and fend off actual starvation, so that these industrious and naturally enterprising people may set up governments and thereafter secure governmental aid in the regular way until they get on their feet."

How would you like the job, every day, of picking out some one or two hundred human beings from a thousand or so, those selected by you being doomed to die?

That is the job that practically every relief worker in Armenia is confronted with daily, at the soup kitchens, where the famishing victims of the Turks come for the only sustenance to be had. There is no enough food for all, and some must be turned away. Those turned away must perish, because they are so nearly starved already that the missing of this one daily ladle of stew means death.

Help send more food to these suffering people by contributing generously to the fund being raised by the American committee for Relief in the Near East.

GOOD ROADS.

None other than Father O'Hara, the scrappy artillery chaplain recently returned to Portland from the thick of the Argonne fighting, appears now as a good roads booster.

At a luncheon of the realty board last week he described the battle of the Argonne, concluding with the conviction that France's good roads and motor truck transport system had saved the day on more occasions than people will ever realize.

The good roads movement is general in the United States, and in this matter Oregon is taking no back seat. Witness our new ten million dollar road bonds. Every self-respecting county is undertaking road work on a large scale. Marion county will spend a million this year. Umatilla is also floating a million dollar bond issue. Good old Oregon!

WAR DEPARTMENT FALLS DOWN

"Great Britain when she releases her soldiers gives them employment insurance good for a year. The men can draw their weekly insurance pay until they get work. Canada discharges her citizen soldier with $100 in cash in his pocket and makes him a grant of land. The result is that each soldier is given cash for his immediate needs and also becomes a land owner; therefore he is a part of his government. If he occupies his land he not only is increasing his own resources, but is helping to develop the country."

Are we satisfied with what is being done for our returning boys? Many of them are receiving their discharge thousands of miles from home, sometimes with their back pay tied up in red tape for one reason or another. Almost daily we read of the humiliations suffered by these lads who deserve the best at our hands.

Friday will be moving day at Lents grange. Master of the grange, Tom J. Kreuder, assisted by A. P. Miller and others will move the belongings of the order from Oddfellows' hall where the meetings have been held for two years back to the old grange hall, which has been leased for a term of years and is being renovated and improved.

EARL B. COTTON ANSWERS CRITICS

February 22, 1919.—To Editor Outlook:—Will you permit some further thoughts on the question of the school dance?

Millie R. Trumbull is recognized by the people of Multnomah county as one who is giving her life in the interests of humanity and the coming generation. Furthermore, I believe two-thirds of what she said in the Outlook issued February 18th.

For instance, we agree on the following phrases:

"If we would open our school houses as neighborhood centers, where all the parents and children, little and big could gather for evening entertainments and games, we would have less need of juvenile courts and the dance hall would have fewer patrons."

"If the parents would bestir themselves from their comfortable fire-sides at night oftener than they do, and go with their half grown sons and daughters to a neighborhood center for fun and frolic, we would have less delinquency."

"If we give the young people an innocent outlet for their energies, and their desire for pleasure, we can carry them safely past the danger point."

Unless we "find saner and normal outlets for the energies which become physical passion, if suppressed and misdirected, the more will the dance hall—unsupervised—flourish into profligacy."

These statements are based on sound psychological principles. Psychological authorities recognize that great injury may be done by suppressing the desires of childhood and youth. The science of psycho-analysis, which treats and cures mental diseases, is based upon this principle. The only alternative is to redirect these energies into the proper channel.

"All the pleasures of life 'are not' connected with satan's own domain." I am not of the old school that said it is wrong to smile. I have little use for the man or woman that wears only a long face. A Christian nation has the right and privilege of being the happiest people. Happiness is the goal of life's endeavors. We need more 'Pollyanna's' and more transformed 'Aunt Polly's'."

Perhaps the trouble with Senate Bill No. 45 was that, like much other legislation, it neither meant what it said nor said what it meant. I supposed at first that the word dances meant folk-dances and let it go at that. But after listening to the author of the bill I became convinced that the meaning was deeper than that.

The word "dances" used without qualifying adjectives, must mean "dancing as practiced in our own time." It is in this condition that I wish to see excluded from our public schools. Mrs. Trumbull's phrase "supervised dance" is an improvement over the one word.

I trust, however, that she will go farther and qualify the subject to mean only "folk-dances" or "dances engaged in by one sex alone," such as the 650 girls under the care of Mrs. Falconer.

Our state colleges and universities have had "supervised dances" for years and yet testimony says that in those towns, houses of prostitution have three times as much patronage on dance nights as on other nights.

An able educator uses these words, "Society everywhere admits the evil tendencies of the ball room and its friends attempt to regulate and control it—as they have with the saloons—but with similar success. It is hard to control wild fire."

The evil tendencies of the dance remain present and operative as long as the two sexes come bodily in contact with each other.

Oregon has an enviable record in sending into the army smaller percentage of men afflicted with social diseases than any other state in the union. This is partly due to the work of such public-spirited persons as Mrs. Trumbull. Credit is also due to the sensible judgment of our populace. Let us strive to keep Oregon at the top of the list.

Likewise submitted in the interests of our "fellow man's morality" and his true education.

EARL B. COTTON.

Notice to Tobacco Dealers.

The pending revenue bill will no doubt be passed before the middle of February. All dealers in cigars, tobacco and cigarettes must ascertain the date of the passage of the Act and inventory their stock before commencing business on the next day thereafter.

Arrangements have been made to have the inventory blanks in the hands of Postmasters in most places and they may be obtained there. In case dealers do not receive an inventory blank in time, they should list their stock and write to Milton A. Miller, Collector Internal Revenue, Portland, Ore., for proper blank.
