"The Linotype Way is the Way that Wins."

Official paper of the Town of Gresham Official paper of the Town of Fairview.

Entered as second-class matter March 2, 1911, at the Postoffice at Gresham, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

TO OUR ADVERTISERS.

With this issue the Outlook closes its eighth year of continuous publication as a twice-a-week newspaper.

During all this time the paper has had a steady, healthy growth in subscriptions and advertising patronage, for which it is truly appreciative.

During this period also both subscription rates and advertising rates have remained practically the same.

During the past three years costs of publication have practically doubled.

The publishers find in order to meet this advance it is necessary to raise slightly the cost of advertising space.

The announcement is hereby made to our advertisers that an advance of 5 cents per single column inch per issue will go into effect beginning with the next issue.

MT. HOOD LOOP HIGHWAY.

Of unusual interest locally are the plans for a Mt. Hood loop highway. Just before the war, this great highway project was undertaken, meeting with the enthusiastic approval of the half dozen counties concerned in the construction of this scenic auto boulevard connecting the Columbia River highway with central Oregon's inland empire. With the war to be won, it was deemed advisable to throw down the shovel and snatch up the musket.

Here we are again with a victory road! This completed highway would be a fitting expression of our gratitude and pride in the lads, here and beyond, who saw us through.

Deeming this an auspicious time for further action in the matter, Rufus Holman, chairman of the state county judges and county commissioners called a mass meeting in Portland early this month. Delegates from six counties were present and an association was formed with Rufus Holman, chairman, and F. W. Beech, secretary. A legislative committee composed of C. Clausen, J. F. Roric, N. G. Hedin, F. B. Ingalls, G. W. Johnston, F. T. Adkinson, of Wasco county; W. A. Proctor, H. S. Anderson, W. F. Harris, Paul Westinger, John F. Risley of Clackamas county; George Joseph, chairman, Julius Meier, Chas. F. Wright, Eric V. Hansen, Max Hansen, of Multnomah county; and Leslie Butler, C. A. Bell, W. H. Boddy, L. W. Blower, and J. O. Hannum, of Hood River county was formed. The publicity committee includes Julius Meier, Mark Woodruff and N. G. Hedin. Forestry officials present were District Foresters Coell and Sherard, and Forestry Engineer Philip H. Dator.

At a meeting with 100 delegates present the following resolution was adopted without a dissenting vote.

"Resolved that this meeting heartily endorses the project to build a loop and spur around Mt. Hood and that the highway commission of Oregon be requested to connect this loop road, with such spurs and connecting roads as may be necessary to join all sections of the state therewith."

This resolution was drafted by a committee, namely:

Judge J. T. Roric, Julius L. Meier, H. L. Anderson, F. B. Ingalls and Samuel Hill.

This association, formed by leading public spirited men of central Oregon and the Willamette valley, embracing the six counties of Wasco, Multnomah, Clackamas, Jefferson, Crook and Hood River, will boost the early construction of this scenic and commercial road.

The proposed route follows the Barlow-Oak Grove road to Government Camp, thence around the east side of Mt. Hood to Hood River connecting with the Columbia River highway at Hood River. The connecting link to central Oregon would require the improvement of the Oak Grove road from Summit House to Wapinitia Plains. This short spur road will bring the inland empire of central Oregon 50 miles closer to Portland, its main trade center. Wapinitia Plains in Wasco county will be 80 miles or four hours by auto from Portland's court house.

Thirty-seven and one-half miles will be within the National forest. This represents the roughest and costliest portion of the highway.

A committee of six counties went to Salem February 10th to present the plan and solicit support of the joint house and sent committee on highways for the Mt. Hood Loop highway. The speakers were Rufus Holman, George Joseph, Julius Meier, Jay Upton, N. G. Hedin, Forestry officials, forestry engineers, Senator Dimic and Judge J. T. Roric.

The plan is to get the indorsement of the highway committee, if possible, to aid in the plea before the State Highway Commission, March 4.

Facts that must be met and understood to properly weigh the demands of the Mt. Hood Highway association are:

The World's Greatest Scenic Highway, including present Columbia River Highway, Hood River Valley, Forest Reserve, Mt. Hood's Loop to Government Camp, Salmon, Zig Zag and Sandy River valleys to Portland; also on the central Oregon spur along Oak Grove Pioneer Wagon road, two beautiful lakes, Frog Lake and Clear Lake, will be skirted. Heart of the Forest Mysteries and the wheat fields and plateaus of the Inland Empire, reached in four to six hours from Portland. The eastern end of the Mt. Hood Central Oregon Highway will open into the Wapinitia Plains where 30,000 acres are being reclaimed for irrigation. Here the good roads of Wasco county will connect the system with the California highway for central Oregon travel north or south. The Warm Springs Indian Reservation lies just south of Wapinitia Plains—a drawing card for tourists. The Temalo project, four great units of the Deschutes projects embracing several hundred acres will be brought 50 miles nearer Portland by this direct route to their trade center.

While the scenic feature is a grand thing for the Oregonian it is commercially valuable to Oregon due to the great returns from the tourist trade. Switzerland exists today by its return from the $1,000,000 advertising annually spent for tourists. This great trade is worth $100,000,000 to the little country not as large as the six counties that surround Mt. Hood. Seattle and Tacoma draw a vast and valuable trade from the tourists of America because they have built their highway to Mt. Rainier. They say it pays.

This Mt. Hood-via-Oak Grove road to Wapinitia Plains is valuable as a military highway connecting Portland to the food supply of cattle, sheep, hogs and grain. This is a direct need and has a sound point for its support.

The fuel supply of Portland must come by auto truck from the Reserve. The treeless counties of central Oregon must come to the Res-

Prize Essays by Grade Pupils

COUNTY SCHOOL DOING MUCH WAR WORK

The county teachers discussed and decided many important subjects pertaining to regular and special school work at a meeting held last Saturday, at the court house.

The people will be interested to know that the thrift stamp campaign will begin immediately, with Superintendent Alderson as manager throughout the county. There are to be five zones in which meetings will be held to hear four-minute speakers, and the winner in each zone will receive a five-dollar thrift stamp. Here is a splendid chance for some of our bright boys and girls. Each boy and girl will be given a chance to sell and buy thrift stamps. It will be remembered that all the schools of the county participated in a contest in which each pupil in each district wrote an original composition entitled, "My Liberty Bond and I."

Gresham people will also be pleased to know that two of our girls wrote the best essay in their respective grades in the county, and were rewarded by Superintendent Alderson with a silver medal each. The girls are, Alice Peterson of the eighth grade, and Vivian Voorhies of the third grade. Their essays appear in the Outlook.

The mid-year examinations will be held on the 21st of March. Three centers have been announced as follows: The court house, Corbett and the Gresham graded schools. The war relief work is being carried on in all schools of the county and reports from teachers show the increasing efficiency of the schools.

MY LIBERTY BOND AND I? My papa bought me a liberty bond. I am going to help save all I can to buy another one. My bond is going to help our soldiers and our allies on to victory. They are out to smash the Kaiser and his Huns and they will not come back until their job is done.

Liberty bonds not only help our soldiers and our government but are a good investment. They pay a good rate of interest and I feel that it is not a sacrifice to buy them because some of our soldier boys over there are giving up their lives for us. So let us all buy.

VIVIAN VOORHIES, 3d Grade

Following is the essay by Alice Peterson on "My Liberty Bond and I." Here I am a little piece of paper, serve for fuel. They and Portland must have the highway, Multnomah county pledges a hard surface road to the Clackamas county line over this route, at no cost to the state.

The forestry department pledges $257,000 within the forest. Under the provisions of the Bean-Barrett Act it is now provided that 50-50 by state and government shall be and is provided for, which totals $500,000 available funds.

The out-lying portions of the Mt. Hood Loop Highway in Hood River county, Wasco county and Clackamas county and the extra cost, above the engineers estimate of $500,000 entailed by reason of enlarging the road from a 16-foot trail to a 24-foot highway will require $500,000 which sum is the requested contribution of the State Highway Commission bringing the total $1,000,000 which should construct the whole project exclusive of hard-surfacing.

It is claimed that over $2,000,000 of the $10,000,000 highway bonding bill is available for this or other new work. A like amount from gasoline and auto taxes will double the sum. The request of the Mt. Hood Loop Highway association for $500,000 to match the $500,000 covered by the Bean-Barrett Act, state and government fund, sounds reasonable indeed. Favorable action by the State Highway Commission would be thoroughly appreciated.

I was originated away back in the forest. There I was a big spruce tree. Some men came along one day and cut me down. I was then taken to a mill where I was sawed up and was made into paper. The government then took me as a little piece of paper. Some figures and words were printed upon me. I was then taken to the bank to be sold for fifty dollars. A little girl bought me. When we got home she said to me, "You're not worth fifty dollars. What can you do?" I told her I could do great things to keep "Old Glory" flying. I can save many of Uncle Sam's soldier boys. I can clothe and feed many Belgian children. Say, maybe I can help someone to get a shot at Kaiser Bill or some of his army.

"Pray, how are you going to do that?" said the little girl. "Well, Uncle Sam has to have ships to get over there. Food to feed the boys over there, and ammunition for the guns, so they can try to get a shot at Kaiser Bill. We have to have money to build ships. It takes money to build railroads to get lumber from the forests to the shipyard."

"But you can't pay for all that," said the little girl. "I cannot pay for all that but I can help. There are other Liberty Bonds doing their bit. If the boys and girls, men and women do not buy us so that we can do our bit the government will not have enough money. What would our soldiers over there think if they saw in the papers that we didn't have enough money to support them? They would think that we were not proud of them. They would get discouraged and would not want to fight for us. But we do want to help them. It takes money to support them so we must all do our bit. We must buy, buy and then buy some more liberty bonds and stamps."

"What you have said has helped me" said the little girl. "I never knew that the money I earned could do so much. I am glad that I worked hard for it because the boys over there are working harder than I did to help win the war. I hope my bond will help my brother over there so he may come home sooner." "Well I see now that you are worth more than fifty dollars," said the little girl.

"You are a good fellow. I understand now that I just loaned my money to the U. S. I will keep you and you will give all my money back to me just about the time I need it most. During all this time you will be paying me 4 1/2 per cent interest. That will be getting money without working for it, won't that be fine?" I am glad I bought you and I will try to earn enough money to buy another one to keep you company. You are the best friend I ever had. I am going to tell other boys and girls about you. I am sure they will want to buy one of your brothers.

Motorists Demand Zero Cold Test Oils.

"Cold weather has brought a large and appreciative demand for the natural zero cold test oils derived from California crude at the uphathene series," said Mr. C. A. Mc Carthy, Special Agent of the Standard Oil Company yesterday. Besides this, these oils eliminate many of the troubles of cold weather motoring because they contain no paraffine to thicken and congeal in the cold and their fluidity at all temperatures down to zero keeps the motor more flexible and easy to turn over during cold weather. They insure correct lubrication of the automobile right from the first turn of the motor.

"Oils that congeal in cold weather bind the moving parts, making starting difficult and put an unnatural strain on the battery. Besides this, such oils do not retain their fluidity and begin to lubricate properly until they have been warmed by the engine running for some fifteen to thirty minutes without proper lubrication, during which time excessive friction is present and serious wear takes place. Motorists are avoiding this danger and annoyance by using Zerolene which is refined from California crude of the naphthene series and has a natural zero cold test. It flows freely down to zero temperature."
