

Grading Pays Big Profits

Don't use "pretty good" seed and take a chance when you can use "good" seed and increase the yield and improve the quality. There is only one way to get perfect seed and that is by using a

Success Seed Grader

the machine that grades all kinds of seed more thoroughly and more easily than any other. It's the only grader that saves out the large, plump, perfect kernels for seed, the smaller, plump kernels for market and removes all cracked and shrunken kernels for feed, (three grades), and at the same time removes the greatest percentage of foreign grain, weed seeds and trash of any machine in one operation. No extra wild outlicker necessary. The only grader that separates and sacks the seed and market grain. Does the work in record time and never clogs.

Bigger Crops—Better Prices

The Success Seed Grader improves the grade, increases the yield and lowers the percentage of moisture, thus earning the most many times over in a single season.

See It Demonstrated

Once you see the "Success" operate, you will never be satisfied with any other grader. Let us prove it to you.

RETIRED GENERAL MAY BE COMMITTEE CLERK

Maj. Gen. Arthur Murray, U. S. A., retired, may not stay retired—literally. Representative Julius Kahn announces that if the war department does not object, he will have General Murray appointed clerk to the military affairs committee of the next house.

Militarism Reborn.

This magazine clipping has travelled about the library branches and finally reached Miss Montague at the Gresham branch library:

When she knew him
For the few short weeks
Before he "Went Across,"
His face was so brown
And his eyes were so bright,
And he was so straight,
And muscular,
And his uniform was so perfect,
With its little gold bars on the shoulders
And the heavily embroidered wings
Over the heart,
And the shiny puttees—
He was the shiny man
And the Soldier
That she forgot that the war was going to end some day
And she went and married him.

And when the war was over,
He came back
And got out of the army.

Whereupon it developed
That he had his hair cut round from choice,
And that he liked silk shirts,
With broad red and blue stripes
Or purple dots
The size of moth balls,
And that he wore yellow shoes
With bumpy toes,
And bright green hats,
And vivid suits,
And that he had a passion
For pinocchio and snappy stories
And cigars with bright bands
Which he never removed,
And that he had a happy way of making himself
More comfortable than any one else
At social gatherings,
And that he said "He don't" and
"You was" and "athletic."

So now
She sits at home
In the house her father pays for
While Charlie punishes an adding machine
And she prays fervently
For More Wars.

The People Will Pay.

Boston is suffering from an experiment in public ownership of street railway into which it was forced by socialist politicians.

City has increased fares from 5 cts to 8 cts but is still losing millions. The Boston Subways and tunnels are owned by city and leased by it to railway company for $1,500,000 a year to cover interest on bonds.

Now the public ownership politicians ask the legislature to grant them free use of tunnels and subways and saddle this rental amount onto the taxpayers, thus concealing the street railway loss.

It's the old story—the people pay for political experiments and operations.

Nothing is Impossible.

Charles M. Schwab told this one when he was in Washington recently: "Every year I take my brass band from the Bethlehem works to New York for a week, and give them a good time. The members of the band were coming home from one of the trips. The train conductor came along. He poked one of the sleeping bandmen and asked him for his ticket. The bandman looked through all of his pockets many times, and finally said, sleepily: 'I guess I must have lost it.' And then started to go back to sleep again, for he was tired and had had rather a lousy time in New York. I'll admit, 'Come, come,' said the conductor. 'It must be somewhere. You couldn't have lost it.' Couldn't? Said the bandman, 'I'd like to know why not? I lost my bass drum yesterday.'"

MAKE THRIFT A NATIONAL HABIT

The school authorities of the country were urged to join in the government campaign to make thrift a happy national habit in a telegram sent by Secretary Glass of the treasury department to the National Educational Association in convention at Chicago. Secretary Glass asked that the teaching of thrift be made a part of the school curriculum during 1919.

The telegram read as follows:—"To the members of the National Educational Association assembled at Chicago I wish to extend the sincere appreciation of the treasury department for the assistance rendered by the members of the teaching profession in the Liberty Loan and War Savings campaigns during the past year.

"Besides being of immediate value in meeting the needs of the government these campaigns have been of permanent value to the country in encouraging habits of wise spending, intelligent saving and investment. These habits of saving and patriotism, encouraged and stimulated by the necessities of the war, will have a great permanent value to the country if applied to its development in time of peace.

"The teachers of the country by their daily contact with the children who are to be its future citizens can do much to influence them in teaching good citizenship and thrift. It is therefore my earnest request that the school authorities throughout the country incorporate the teaching of thrift in the school curriculum for 1919.

Friday night might well be called Gresham night at the Automobile show. In one brief cruise around the Hippodrome we saw Messrs. and Mesdames John Cannon, W. R. Burke, Harry Ott, H. H. Eling, G. W. Stapleton, Ed Sleret, Miss Maud Michel, Miss Margaret Burke, Mrs. Frank Schofield, Mrs. Maud Heisel, Miss Georgie Stapleton, Wallace Spence, J. Patenaude, Masters John Ott, Jerry and Herbert Eling, and others whose names we neglected to jot down.

Thick-Headed Teacher.

A fond parent noticed his youngest, a boy, in very animated conference with a number of other boys and a young woman and that evening inquired of the boy what all the excitement was about. "That was my teacher," said the boy, "and we were trying to explain the ball game to her. She couldn't understand a darned thing. I just don't understand how she ever got to be a school teacher."
