"The Linotype Way is the Way that Wins."

Official paper of the Town of Gresham
Official paper of the Town of Fairview.

Entered as second-class matter March 3, 1911, at the Postoffice at Gresham, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

COUNCIL FACES PROBLEMS.

The town council faces many problems. To be mayor or councilman is rather a thankless job, especially in a small, growing city like Gresham, where there are many problems to be worked out, many more or less conflicting elements to meet and try to satisfy, all, perhaps, having the good of the city at heart, with possibly some admixture of selfish interest.

It is hardly fair to criticize those whom we have elected to administer our public affairs, especially in a city of this size, unless it be for flagrant inefficiency or corruption. And then the best method is to impeach them for malfeasance of office.

Usually the office is urged upon an unwilling individual who would much rather "let George do it." There is no salary attached to the office of mayor or councilman and, if the public only knew it, the demands on one's time and patience are considerable.

The council is supposed to be progressive and, at the same time, conservative. Certain taxpayers want certain things done and at the same time other taxpayers don't want them done and the council is often in a dilemma.

The business men thought they had an almost unanimous petition of taxpayers urging the council to employ a night watchman. It is claimed by those in authority that many who signed the petition later remonstrated to the mayor or councilmen against paying the proportion of added tax that would sooner or later fall to their lot if the city paid for a night watchman. A strong sentiment was expressed that if the business men wanted a night watchman let them pay for him. Hence the council refused to act. An effort has been made to meet the business men half way—the council paying half and the business houses paying half the expense.

At the last council meeting this was agreed to, but difficulties have been encountered in the matter of assessing the various business places in proportion to supposed benefits.

Some businesses have more at stake than others and some are unwilling to pay anything. The voluntary subscription plan might work for awhile, but would it last or prove satisfactory?

The council, it seems, is trying to find out what the business men will do and is considering a plan to enforce by ordinance assessments that would be obligatory and as equitable as possible. But there are doubts in some minds as to whether it can be worked out in this way.

It is certainly not advisable to have any misunderstanding exist between the business interests of the city and the council. It ought to be possible to get together, not only on the night watchman proposition but on other matters of mutual benefit and general welfare. The business men are naturally, or ought to be, aggressive. Do our councilmen lack something in this respect?

ROCKWOOD

Edward Dickenson, of Rockwood, and Carrie Burnett, of Anaconda, Montana, were married at Vancouver Thursday, June 19.

A post card shower was given Mrs. Frank Dickenson in honor of her fifty-seventh birthday by the Ladies of the Maccabees in their hall at Rockwood Thursday afternoon, after which a basket dinner, and a big birthday cake was served. A large number of Mrs. Dickenson's friends were present.

Margaret Schantlin, who is to be one of Rockwood's July brides, was given a surprise shower Thursday afternoon at the K. O. T. M. hall by her friends and lodge sisters of Ladies of the Maccabees and grange. After a lunch was served in the dining room she was taken upstairs where a large clothes basket was heaped full of miscellaneous presents. The surprise was really a surprise, and was enjoyed by at least fifty others beside Miss Schantlin. The bride-to-be is to become the wife of First Lieutenant Fred Crane, recently home from France.

PIONEER RELATES HISTORY

band fell desperately ill of mountain fever. Through the friendly settler Mrs. Johnson secured employment at a sawmill in Clackamas flat, where she cooked for the crew and nursed her husband and mothered her little nephew. At her insistence a doctor was summoned from the village of Portland and after six critical weeks, Mr. Johnson recovered. It took 12 years to pay the $300 doctor bill, but it was paid to the last nickel.

Upon Mr. Johnson's recovery the young people located their donation land claim of 320 acres at Damascus. There they built their log house, with the first brick chimney in Clackamas county! On this place, their home for over a quarter of century, their 11 children were born.

At one time they were forced to leave their home because of an uprising of the Umatilla Indians. Soldiers from the military post at Vancouver responded to the settler's emergency call and drove off the redskins.

Besides the Indians, wild animals could be counted on for many unexpected thrills. For instance, there was the time when Mrs. Johnson, nursing a fearful toothache, walked down pasture to bring in a calf. She stumbled upon a nine-foot panther just finishing the calf and making ready to finish her. After one paralyzed moment she started home for a gun. The tooth did not ache again for a year, and her husband and some neighbors killed the panther.

There were bear steaks in plenty in those days. Often times as Mr. and Mrs. Johnson rode horseback over the almost impassable bridle path (the present South Roberts avenue) to the camp meetings in Gresham in the grove on the site of the First State Bank, they would see several black bears in the timber. Where the Johnson home now stands was one of the most difficult points of the trip. For there was no fill then—just brush and briars and the stream to be forded.

About 20 years ago Mr. and Mrs. Johnson built their home in Gresham, where Mr. Johnson passed away three years ago, and where Mrs. Johnson tends her bright clumps of poppies, and hoes her small garden patch, and treats the neighborhood children to the most ravishing home-made doughnuts. Everybody loves "Grandma" Johnson.

The story of Mrs. Johnson, no doubt, brings to mind other incidents of pioneer days, other heroes and heroines of early Oregon, all of them a valuable part of our history and worthy of preservation. The Outlook will be glad to get these stories. Those who can give us a pioneer story or, tell us where we may get one, please, please do so, or call 701 or 811.

PLEASANT HOME

The Pleasant Home garage has changed hands. It will still retain the old name but will be conducted by the new owners, Edward Hamilton and Frank Eder. Ed. Robinson has gone to St. Helens.

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Layman on June 21. The mother formerly was Miss Nellie Cunningham.

SANDY BLUFF

Maldee Leach returned to Portland after a two-weeks' visit with Mrs. A. J. Ault.

Those recently purchasing new cars are Mr. Judkins and Mr. Donaldson, each a Ford, and Fred Radford a Chevrolet.

Zaidee Ault is home after spending a week with her aunt, Mrs. Crose, of Portland.
