"The Linotype Way is the Way that Wins"

Official paper of the Town of Gresham. Official paper of the Town of Fairview.

Entered as second-class matter March 3, 1911, at the Postoffice at Gresham, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

"We have been keeping our eyes on Oregon for a long time," said a middle westerner recently upon a visit to our great commonwealth. "The whole world is watching Oregon," said this man, "and expecting Oregon to do things worth watching." Why not adopt this as a statewide slogan of progress, "Watch Oregon," and make our motto, "Do something worth watching."—Vale (Ore.) Enterprise.

Newspaper printing is to be included in the art displays at the Oregon Land Products show at Gresham, September 15-20. A critical study of some of the best Oregon newspapers shows that the artistic balance, contrast and composition, especially of the front page, justify the action of the committee. Other papers lay more stress on utility in both typographical style and make-up.—O. A. C. Press Bulletin.

We quote the above mainly in order to make a correction. Including newspapers in the art department of the Multnomah county fair, with which the Land Products show is combined this year, is not new. It has been so included for five or more years. The Outlook has been the only one to exhibit under this privilege so far, both printing and newspapers. It is hoped others will participate this year.

In reading the views expressed by the heads of the largest banks and financial institutions of the country, one is impressed with the general tone of optimism and confidence to which these men give voice.

They have been studying the situation and can see a bright future for all lines of legitimate business. They are backing their judgment with their money and in the west particularly the banks are sparing no effort to encourage and help develop many permanent lines of industry, such as sheep and cattle growing, fruit and sugar beet culture, etc. A sound and constructive banking policy, both local and national, is a life-saver for industry, large and small, at this time.

Our future national success will be determined, not by how many more acres, but how much more, an acre of land can be made to produce. During the last five decades American industrial development was largely due to the rapid opening up of the vast domain west of the Mississippi river, through the phenomenal railroad construction, and the manufacture of man-power-saving agricultural implements.

During the next five decades our national industrial life will be determined by the prevalence of well-balanced farming throughout this same territory. The continued development of both man and horse power saving machinery, the national acceptance of the sugar beet, and a policy favorable to qualified agricultural immigration will be great contributing factors.

In the management of the nation's shipbuilding program the public has one of the best illustrations possible of the dangers of political control of industry. Right from the start it was a wrangle between politicians over personal opinions and sectional favoritism. Men who didn't know a rudder from a propeller were put in charge of the greatest ship building program the world has ever seen. Shipbuilders were kept in a continual state of uncertainty, designs were changed at a minute's notice, contracts cancelled, etc. The whole policy of shipbuilding and ship operation under present program of the shipping board seems to be one of uncertainty and discouragement of American shipbuilding and shipping interests.

It would be a blessing to the country to wind up the affairs of the board and give Americans a chance to get back into shipping and shipbuilding game on private account as soon as possible.

LOCAL VETS MAY ORGANIZE.

There is considerable talk of the organization of a branch of the American Legion in Gresham, and it is very likely a meeting will be called soon to perfect an organization. The following information may be of assistance in awakening an interest in the movement.

The American Legion is the organization of American veterans of the World War. It is non-partisan and non-political. It is a civilian organization—not a military or militaristic. It makes no distinction of rank and no distinctions between overseas men and men who did not get overseas.

Any soldier, sailor or marine who served honorably between April 6, 1917, and November 11, 1918, is eligible.

Women who were regularly enlisted or commissioned in the army, navy or marine corps are also eligible.

The Legion was first organized in Paris March 15 to 17, 1919, by a thousand officers and men, delegates from all the units of the American Expeditionary Force to an organization meeting, and selected the name "American Legion."

The action of the Paris meeting was confirmed and endorsed by a similar meeting held in St. Louis May 8 to 10, 1919, when the Legion was formally recognized by the troops who served in the United States.

The Paris meeting appointed an executive committee of seventeen officers and men to represent the troops in France in the conduct of the Legion. The St. Louis meeting appointed a similar committee of seventeen. These two executive committees have amalgamated and are now the operating body of the Legion.

The officers of this national governing body are: Henry D. Lindley, Texas, chairman; Bennett C. Clark, Missouri, vice-chairman; Eric Fisher Wood, Pennsylvania, secretary; Gasper Bacon, Massachusetts, treasurer.

The temporary national headquarters of the Legion are at 19 West 44th street, New York City.

The final step in the organization of the Legion will take place November 10, 11 (Armistice Day), and 12, at Minneapolis, Minn., when a great national convention will be held.

To celebrate the completion of the first year of peace, and because by that time practically all of the men of the A. E. F. will be at home and will have been able to participate in the election of their delegates to the convention.

At its St. Louis meeting the Legion demanded investigation of the pardon and subsequent honorable discharge by the war department of convicted conscientious objectors.

It condemned the activities of the I. W. W.'s the anarchists, and the international socialists.

It protested against certain nefarious business concerns who are employing men in uniform to peddle their wares.

It recommended that congress should take steps to reclaim arid, swamp and cut over timber lands, to afford ex-service men an opportunity to establish homes for themselves and a fitting place in the constructive work of the country.

It demanded of congress the same disability pay for men of the National Guard and National Army as now pertains to those in the regular establishment.

It initiated a campaign to secure to service men their rights and privileges under the war risk insurance act.

It demanded that congress should deport to their own countries those aliens who refused to join the colors at the outbreak of the war, and pleaded their citizenship in other countries to escape the draft.

It undertook to see that disabled soldiers, sailors and marines should be brought into contact with the rehabilitation department of the government, which department helps them to learn and gain lucrative occupations.

It authorized the appointment of a competent legislative committee to see that the above recommendations were effectively acted upon by congress, and that committee has been appointed and is now at work.

It authorized the establishment of a bureau to aid service men to get re-employment; and of a legal bureau to help them get from the government their overdue pay and allotments. These two bureaus are being organized at the national headquarters of the Legion and will be in active operation by July 1st.

The constitution of the Legion provides that the legislative body of the organization shall be a national convention, to be held annually composed of delegates and alternates from each state, from the District of Columbia and from each territory and territorial possession of the United States.

The Legion is composed of state branches, and these in turn are made up of local posts.

The constitution states that a local post shall have a minimum membership of fifteen. No post shall be received into the Legion until it has re-
