Straws tell how the wind blows in Oregon. Salem reports a contract for 164 miles highway work to be let. Work has started on a twelve mile stretch of road between Cottage Grove and Lorane. A $432,679 contract has been awarded for paving the highway between Hood River and Cascade Locks.

Douglas county road contracts aggregate $365,000. The $230,000 bonding measure for constructing permanent roads in Malheur County carried 2 to 1. The State Highway commission has awarded contracts for 88 miles of road work aggregating a sum of $1,567,848. A $63,000 cut off will place Roseburg 98 miles from Crater Lake instead of 200 miles via Medford.

Discussing farm clubs opposing bond issues for hard surface highways the Springfield, Mo., Leader says:

Either the man who lives a long way from a city in the most remote corner of the country needs good road to market or he doesn't need any. If he does he should have them and have them right away. We can build our goods roads next year and be using them or we can dribble along for fifty years wasting money on little repair jobs here and there or on lightly constructed cheap roads which wash away and give out in a few years of storm and heavy traffic. Was it better to spend several billions and call out every one and win the world war quickly or take a lifetime paying for it as we went along by sending out a few hundred thousand soldiers as they might by chance volunteer? It is possible to raise enough money to build all these roads, build them well and have the job done so that the men who live twenty miles from town will have the same advantage as the man who lives so close to town that he is assured some sort of a road or we can limp along with such roads as we have with all the counties around us building good roads with this state help.

A broom will last longer if on each wash day, after the clothes are all boiled, it is dipped for a moment in the soapy suds. Then shake it as free from water as possible and hang up by the handle. Slip an old newspaper underneath to catch the drippings. If there is a tendency to lopsidedness, press the broom into shape while it is wet and pliable.

Better Put in a Supply.

CASE

Tractor Prices Unchanged

All reports rumored or published that there has been a reduction in the prices of CASE TRACTORS are false.

Our prices are consistent with costs and are scientifically arrived at. Since present prices were established there has been no average decrease in cost of selected materials, but there has been a constant increase in labor costs.

A high quality product is necessarily higher in cost than an inferior one—but it is by far the best investment.

The demand has been, and is now, in excess of our output, notwithstanding the fact that our production has been materially increased. This is conclusive evidence that our prices are consistent with Case quality.

We have no large stock of obsolete models to unload.

Our customers are assured that their investment in Case Tractors will not depreciate suddenly.

A Hand-Grenade as a Memento.

A real practical memento of the great war, one that will last a lifetime, and more, has been placed by the treasury department, through the Oregon War Savings Stamp organization, within the reach of every boy and girl in the state.

This memento is nothing less than a real bomb, or hand-grenade, made originally for use by American doughboys in their fight for right and the liberty of the world. Fortunately some 15,000,000 of these grenades were not needed. The armistice was signed before they had been sent overseas, but Uncle Sam, a thrifty person himself, doesn't want the labor and material used in making bombs to be wasted, so he is turning them into little banks, and has a plan whereby every American boy and girl can earn one. This plan is outlined by Mrs. A. R. Innes, associate state director of the War Savings Stamp work, provides that a grenade shall be awarded to every school pupil, 10 years or younger, who, at the opening of school in September, can exhibit to his teacher one war savings stamp, purchased with money earned by him during vacation, and who takes with his stamp a story showing how the money for the stamp was earned. Pupils, boys and girls, over 10 years old, will be presented a hand-grenade bank, if they exhibit two war savings stamps, bought with money earned during vacation, and also have a little story showing how they earned the money.

These grenade, of course, will be perfectly harmless. The deadly explosives they would have carried on their way to the Hun have been removed, so that the shell alone remains, and in each grenade a slot large enough to receive a dime has been cut. Thus, the grenade becomes a nifty, strong, little savings bank. The government realizes that spare dimes placed in these grenade banks will make them just as deadly to waste and extravagance as they would have been to the enemy, had they been hurled into the German trenches in battle. That is the object of the offer made by Uncle Sam to girls and boys. He wants them to realize that thrift and saving is a virtue that is essential to the best citizenship.

Following are some of the suggestions as to how boys may earn money during vacation: Carrying a newspaper route; fruit picking and harvesting; helping in the stores; office boy work; grass cutting and delivering milk. Girls may earn spare money by caring for babies; making fancy work; washing dishes; cleaning, and also by working in the harvest fields, if they are strong and healthy girls.

War savings stamps headquarters has advised all county school superintendents, city superintendents and rural school supervisors of the hand grenade plan, and it is expected that Oregon children will go "over the top" and call for thousands of the banks when school opens in September. There will be enough for all.

The Best Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Liniment and bound on over the seat of pain is often more effectual for a lame back than a plaster and does not cost anything like as much.—Adv.

The Simplicity of Thrift

"Thrift is such a simple thing—and it means so much. It is the foundation of success in business, of contentment in the home, of standing in society."

Russell Sage

who was one of America's richest men thus aptly sums up the full significance of thrift.

Ambitious people who want to acquire the "happy thrift habit" are urged to make the start.
