URGES PARENTS TO COOPERATE IN SCHOOL WORK.

The last issue of the Eastern Clackamas News, which is printed at Estacada, has a splendid article by F. E. Burns, about the public schools of that place.

The following paragraphs which are quoted from Mr. Burns' article are as applicable to conditions in Gresham as they are in his own locality.

"The outlook for industrial club work in the school this year is very bright. It is hoped that the parents will do all in their power to influence their children to enroll in this work. It has a value peculiarly its own and one that is not so apparent in the present life of a child as in his future years."

The training involved in beginning a thing and actually carrying it through to a successful conclusion is in itself of incalculable value to the child in shaping his future character.

The number of us who begin things with all of the vim and energy in the world and then fail by the wayside half way to the goal may be counted in millions.

In speaking of the work of the Parent-Teacher association which aims to "bridge the gulf between teacher control and parent control" Mr. Burns says:

"It is high time that we awoke to the fact that the education of our children is a business and not merely a side issue. Fathers, you may plead business cares and responsibilities, and mothers, you may plead household and social duties as an excuse for not supporting it but you have no more valuable assets in the world than your children."

ROTTEN TELEPHONE SERVICE.

People who think that the telephone troubles are all local should pay a visit to Yokohama, Japan, where, according to an article in the Oregon Voter, there were on file last month 4,697 applications for new telephones.

In Europe it is said that it is better to mail a letter than to try to get a phone call through. "There are many places outside the United States," says the Boston News Bureau in the article referred to, "that are connected by telephone but it is cheaper in time to take a railway train or motor and go twenty miles to dispatch your business than to wait two hours for a chance to talk."

You often hear it said of a woman that "she's a perfect slave to her husband," but who ever pays any attention to the man, who is a slave to his wife—or isn't there any?

HISTORY OF PROHIBITION

"Only four states—Maryland, New Jersey, New York and Rhode Island—divided adversely to Prohibition, their aggregate vote being 18 for and 42 against. And just one state, Connecticut, gave all its votes—five of them—for rum. Liquor support was concentrated chiefly in the delegations from New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Connecticut, which cast 65 of the 128 votes for booze; yet even these had 31 Prohibition votes, or one-fourth of the strength."

"California, despite her big wine interests, gave five votes each way. Kentucky, traditionally the sanctuary of rum, went 8 to 3 for Prohibition. Missouri, with its mighty breweries, voted 12 to 3 against the traffic, and 6 of the 11 representatives from Wisconsin, a state likewise beer-famous, stood the same way. Illinois' vote was 16 to 7 for suppression of one of the chief industries of Peoria, the concocting of cheap whiskies, among the majority being former Speaker Cannon, aforesaid a redoubtable champion of liquor's 'vested interests.'"

"The amendment had the support of 144 Democrats, 137 Republicans, and 4 Independents. It was opposed by 64 Democrats, 62 Republicans, and 2 Independents. Had all ten absentees been present and voted 'no,' the amendment still would have had the necessary two-thirds."

Acting Secretary of State Frank L. Polk proclaimed the Amendment as part of the Constitution under date of January 29, 1919, the Amendment to become effective January 16, 1920, one year after ratification by the 36th state.

War Prohibition passed the House September 23, 1918, 171 to 34, having previously passed the Senate August 29, 1918, without a division, effective July 1, 1919, which, as it happened, was subsequent to the end of the actual fighting. The act to provide means of enforcing both War and Constitutional Prohibition was finally approved November 21, 1919, having previously been vetoed by the President, who objected to the continuance of War Prohibition. Final action was taken October 27 by the House of Representatives, which disapproved the President's veto by 176 to 55; and by the Senate, which also disapproved the President's action by a vote of 65 to 20.

The enforcement of the Prohibition laws is committed to the Department of Internal Revenue, of which Mr. Daniel C. Roper is commissioner. Mr. Roper appointed Mr. John F. Kramer, of Ohio, as Federal Prohibition Commissioner to enforce the Prohibition laws. The organization for enforcement divides the country into ten districts, in each of which there will be a Federal Agent. In each state there will be a Federal Director and under him a number of inspectors. The inspectors will report to the State Federal Director, who will report to the State Director of his district, who will make arrests where the information warrants it. The states have concurrent powers of enforcement.

Waste, Waste, Waste! It Took a Lot of Bonds for This. It is estimated that $35,000,000 worth of automobile tires shipped abroad by the United States for war use were permitted to go to rot at the motor transport depot at Vernueil, France. The above picture shows an acre of ground completely covered with tires which, according to witnesses before the special war investigating committee of the House, were allowed to stand in this condition, without any sort of covering, for more than 12 months. After exposure to sun, rain and snow, they became cracked and worthless except for salvage. It required $50,000 hundred-dollar liberty bonds to pay for this waste.
