Mr. and Mrs. D. Wright entertained on last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Hamilton and family of Portland. Mr. and Mrs. George Moffitt and family of the Melrose district were callers one day this week.

An exhibit in the Outlook window which attracted much attention during the past few days was a plate of a dozen eggs, all double yolkers, from the pullet pen of Skarek Bros. egg farm. They were laid by April-hatched pullets and were gathered in the course of a week. Skarek Bros. are constantly adding to their stock and equipment and have one of the model poultry ranches of the Gresham district. They specialize on the Hollywood strain of White Leghorns and are averaging 50 per cent from their entire flock of 1040 birds, with 69 per cent from a pen of 400 April pullets.

Myers will preach tonight and tomorrow night, the subjects being "Scant Clothing," and "Divine Transfusion," respectively. FUMIGATE OR BURN GERM INFECTED BOOKS

Books should be fumigated before their return to the library, in case of contagious diseases such as measles, mumps, whooping cough and skin diseases. Not only the patient but the entire household should refrain from using the library until all danger of contagion is passed, says Miss Montague, the librarian.

Books are not received from homes where there are cases of scarlet fever, small pox, diphtheria or infantile paralysis. These must be burned and disposed of in no other way. The librarian wishes to be notified as soon as possible that no fines may be charged in such instances. Safe guarding the public health is of the utmost importance to all of us now when every city is struggling against epidemic.

Potatoes Damaged Most

frost for the potatoes to ripen ready for digging, which only gave about a week or ten days to dig the late crop. Many acres of potatoes are still in the ground.

Some people who have potatoes still in the ground have dug sample hills to find if they would be worth digging. They report that hardly a potato but has one end or the other frozen.

A warning is being sounded to examine potatoes well as many were frosted enough to spoil their quality and make them unfit for the market or for seed while to all appearances they were unharmed.

One potato grower reports that he had two pits, one of which he thought was in fine condition but when he marketed them they were returned to the stores as frosted. The test comes when they are cooked, the potato having a sweet taste.

These potatoes need not be a total loss, however, as the Starch factory is handling quantities of potatoes. About 200 tons of frozen potatoes have been received by the factory since the freeze. Since most of these are from cooperative members the total number of tons will be many more for the whole territory. One farmer near Troutdale estimates that at least $10,000 worth of potatoes were lost in that vicinity.

In regard to seed potatoes, County Agent Hall says that potatoes which were chilled but not frozen make poor seed. It is difficult to tell just how badly they are damaged for seed. His advice is to test seed potatoes now by placing samples of doubtful seed in warm sunny places. If the seed is good it will start sending sprouts. This simple precaution will save much time and expense in the spring if there is any doubt as to whether the seed was frosted or not.

Portland seed companies are discussing the question of getting two or three carloads of seed potatoes from Wisconsin. Farmers who have potatoes will do well to be careful to save their own seed as indications are it will be both high and scarce next spring.

Report from truck gardeners in nearby localities indicate that there was quite heavy losses of cauliflower and celery and such late garden crops.

No complete figures can ever be given as to the amount of the financial loss to this section by the unprecedented storm of last December.

The percentage of the loss to next season's fruit crop can only be guessed at at the present time. The loss of fruit and vegetables which were stored for winter's use by individual families can never be determined. The total loss if it were known would be astounding and would prove this winter one of the most disastrous ever experienced in Oregon.

Gresham School Notes.

The fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh grades won a half holiday for attendance this month.

The class of beginners starting on Monday was much smaller than was expected. If there are others of school age, or who will be six years of age shortly they may be started the coming week.

Teachers are much pleased with the mid-year promotion plan, it not only enables them to better classify the school but furnishes the incentive for speeding up and extra efforts twice instead of once a year.

The following pupils having received a grade of 90 or more in the mid-year test held last Friday, will be exempt from the final examinations in the subjects in which such grades were attained, provided; that they do not fall below 90 in department and daily work each month during the year:

Arithmetic—Carmaleta Gleason 99 per cent, Melvin Gradin 100 per cent, Clara Mason 98 per cent.

Spelling—Georgia Stapleton 92 per cent; language, Mildred Metzger 100 per cent; history, Kenneth Calkins 93 per cent, Melvin Gradin 90 per cent, Dayton Larimore 98 per cent, Mildred Metzger 92 per cent.

The fact that the class used the new spelling book, whereas the words were taken from the old book accounts for the poor showing in spelling.

All should at this time stop and think what they may do toward putting the World in Order by the practice of Thrift.

Everyone calling at our bank during the week will receive a Thrift Day Badge.

We pay 4 per cent Interest on Savings and "Will do for you all that any good bank should do."
