Touch a match to the burner and the New Perfection is ready for use instantly. No fire to build. No slow generating flame to wait for.

Set the flame where you want it. You can always see it through the mica door and it stays just where you set it—low, medium or high.

Does not blacken pots or pans. The long blue chimney burner turns every drop of kerosene into cooking heat.

For every cooking purpose there is an abundance of steady heat directly against the utensil.

Good Hay Cured, Not Dried.
Sun burned hay is not good hay. Well cured hay is cured either in windrows or in shocks, point out the farm crops specialists at Oregon Agricultural College. It is allowed to lie in the swath only long enough to wilt, not to dry out. Sun drying wastes the juices, curing saves them.

Expansion of Oregon's markets to the four corners of the earth has greatly increased the demand for tin cans. As a consequence, the American Can company has applied for a permit to construct a three-story concrete plant on a tract recently purchased in north Portland, which will be devoted entirely to the manufacture of cans. With its equipment, the new structure will cost well over $1,000,000.
