ONE OF THE WORTHIES.

Among the valued exchanges coming to our table each week is the Eastern Clackamas News, published by Upton H. Gibbs at Estacada. Brother Gibbs is an occasional caller at the Outlook office and is our nearest neighbor publisher in the territory east of the city of Portland. He is making a creditable success of his paper, all the more conspicuous in view of the severe physical handicap under which he is working. His paper is always newsy and is edited with a punch. That is, there is always a point to what he has to say. If all the editors of small town weeklies in Oregon would put out as clean, newsy and well edited paper as does Mr. Gibbs there would be little room for criticism or little more to be desired. He probably could have better support from his subscribers and advertisers which would mean a better paper. Of this we are certain because Brother Gibbs is the kind of a man to sacrifice his personal comfort or gain for the good of his community. He is one of the few real heroes in the profession.

"It is not always the doing well that measures the fame of a man; The hero is he who the world can see is doing the best he can."

SUGGESTION FAVORABLY RECEIVED.

"Oregon Publicity urged—Gresham Editor Advocates Campaign of Information." So read the headings to an item in Wednesday's Oregonian. As it is a matter our readers will be interested in, and the item contains the gist of the letter, we give the Oregonian's statement concerning it.

"A campaign of information through the country papers of the state affiliated with the greater Oregon program of the state chamber of commerce is advocated by H. L. St. Clair, editor and manager of the Gresham Outlook.

"In a letter to George Quayle, general secretary of the state chamber of commerce, Mr. St. Clair suggests that country newspapers, especially in towns identified with the chamber, become affiliated with it and so designated by an appropriate emblem, for the purpose of spreading information about Oregon to the citizens of Oregon."

Now that Gresham is certain to be on the Mt. Hood loop highway the city dads should make adequate plans for the auto camp ground. This summer's experience so far proves the worth of the undertaking.

With the republican, democratic and prohibition party nominees for president all from Ohio, there will surely be some warm politics in the old Buckeye state.

If the farmers get their hay in and their berries picked before next week Saturday there will be a large attendance at the Farmers' Field Day picnic.

More sugar arrives from Uruguay, says a news dispatch. We don't care where it comes from so it's sweet.

The weather conditions so far this summer would seem to indicate that Oregon is leaning toward the wets.

Whether the Mt. Hood loop highway shall go the north route, or the south route it is sure to go east.

We hope we'll get an invitation to the celebration if the Mt. Hood loop goes through Sandy.

KEEPING TAB ON AUTO DRIVERS

In view of the rapidly increasing number of motor driven vehicles traversing the highways and byways of the state, and the consequent increasing number of serious or fatal automobile accidents, familiarity with and more careful observance of the motor vehicle laws becomes incumbent on every auto user.

This is undoubtedly what has necessitated the "Motor Vehicle Operator's Law," which is now in effect.

If everybody was disposed to do the right thing, there would be no need of restrictions or regulations. But there's the rub. Hence regulations are necessary. And those who have the highest regard for their own and others' safety will be the last to complain, although it seems sometimes a severe hardship to have to be subjected to limitations and expense in order to detect and curb the careless ones.

One cannot drive ten miles on any well traveled highway with out having occasion to exclaim of some road hog, "What a fool of a driver!"

If the new law works out as intended the "driver fools" will be spotted.

To know the law and observe it will cure most of the trouble. Add to this that inexperienced drivers should be kept off the crowded highways, and accidents will be fewer. If an experienced driver proves to be careless his license should be revoked.

Secretary of State Sam Kozer is doing his part to inform the people of the provisions of the motor laws. If any driver has not at hand a copy of these laws he should write the secretary of state for a copy at once.

The enforcement of the law in regard to operator's licenses has been temporarily suspended, pending the issuing of the 150,000 or more license cards by the secretary of state, but it will soon be in full force and effect.

The law provides that the secretary of state may, at any time, suspend any operator's or chauffeur's license upon the request or recommendation of a magistrate, sheriff or chief of police, or city or town marshal, for any cause which he may deem sufficient, when he is of the opinion from the statements accompanying such magistrate's, sheriff's, chief of police, or city or town marshal's request that the holder thereof is an improper or incompetent person or physically or mentally incompetent to operate or drive a motor vehicle. But in either of such cases to be governed by the safety of the public, and not to exercise such authority in an arbitrary manner, and neither operator's or chauffeur's license shall be restored but shall become revoked and annulled for a period of one year from the date of suspension, unless upon application within 30 days after suspension, and upon a hearing, the secretary of state shall determine that the operator or chauffeur shall again be permitted to drive motor vehicles in this state.

The court before whom any conviction for violations of the motor vehicle law may be had, may also in its discretion and as a part of the punishment for violation of this act, suspend the license or permit of the person convicted for a period not to exceed one year.

As our Boring correspondent remarks, we are now waiting to hear of "Cox's army."

When you are desirous of obtaining information from an interview, it is well to do nine-tenths of the listening.

SOCIAL AFFAIR HONORS MR. AND MRS. JOHN HONEY

About a hundred neighbors and friends gathered in the beautiful grove of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Honey on last Tuesday evening at an at-home given by them in honor of their son John K. Honey and his wife, whose marriage occurred in Seattle last month.

No more beautiful setting could have been found for the affair. An opening in the trees formed a natural reception room, on one side of which stood the receiving line consisting of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Honey, the bride and groom and Mr. and Mrs. George Towle. Rustic settees and a stand holding a huge bouquet of flowers gave an added touch of "hominess" to the place. Further back in the grove were tables from which refreshments were served during the evening. Mrs. George F. Honey presided over the punch bowl and Mrs. George Else served ice cream and wafers. A great bonfire near the back of the grove gave cheer to the scene and added to the light from the many electric globes strung among the trees. McElroy's orchestra of Portland was the center of a large group of the guests who joined in singing plantation melodies and popular ballads, and Mrs. Lois Else Hallderson charmed old friends and new with her sweet singing. Among those enjoying the affair were many friends from Portland and from a distance.

WHITE KNOLL FARM BROODS 3500 CHICKS

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Armstrong of the White Knoll poultry farm have just closed up the season's work of hatching and brooding chicks.

During the season they cared for one lot of 3074 baby chicks of an early hatch and 450 late hatch chicks. The late hatch were all sold when they were four weeks old.

Of the 3074 chicks of the early hatch they have had 1420 pullets of which they will keep about 730 for their own yards. They have sold about 500 of these pullets and still have about 200 to dispose of. The pullets have brought $1.50 each. Of the lot they have only lost about 230 for the season and by far the greatest loss was among the late hatch.

While no exact count was kept on the number of roosters in the flock they are certain that they have sold nearly 1500 as broilers at broiler prices. They are keeping about 60 cockerels for their own use. Beside this young stock the White Knoll yards have about 500 mature hens.

It has been a very good season and the Armstrongs have had splendid success with their young chicks.

The Advance of the Press.

The principal educational force working in the modern community might be grouped under three heads: 1st. The public schools; 2d. The colleges, technical schools, and academies; 3d. The newspaper press.

The newspaper is a self-made institution. It is an individualistic enterprise, with no help from state or philanthropy.

The newspaper press has reached the point where many people feel it is a greater power than either public schools or colleges. The newspaper exerts its influences from the day a child learns to read until the day he dies.

There is no greater problem than the evolution of this mighty force up to its highest possibilities of service and leadership.
