stone National Park. Have just passed a place called zero, which is certainly a misnomer, as people are using their fans, pulling the curtains down to shut out the rays of the setting sun and generally complaining of the heat.

Miles City, Montana, has a big beet sugar factory. Of all the wonderful scenery we have passed through this morning since leaving Butte after daylight. At Warm Springs we saw the most beautiful park and grounds. In the background were a number of large buildings, evidently a sanitarium.

Yesterday, while passing through the west part of North Dakota, I saw on an eminence a monument with a statue on the top. I have since learned that the Roosevelt ranch is located there, "The Maltese Cross Ranch."

Leaving Missoula we soon began to go up grade. Then at the top, seemingly, we went speeding along at a pretty good clip. There were several places, Evaro, Dixon and Paradise—though it is difficult to conceive what gave it the name of Paradise unless being at so great an elevation it might be supposed to be nearer heaven. It has for a background a very high mountain, almost straight up. All through here, adjacent to the railroad and quite near in some places, there is a very good auto road. I think it has been built since we came through here in 1911 on our way to the coast. Well, there have been many changes since then.

Sunday night we are at Spokane, Washington, stopping for 30 minutes. Many of the passengers in this car change for Portland over the O-W. R. & N.

I had quite a time making the conductor understand I was to go by the way of Seattle, but after a while he went out to the baggage car to see how my trunk was billed. Only for that I might have been out there looking for a lower berth with a fair prospect of riding all night without sleep.

Yesterday, going through Montana, I saw wonderful scenery, rocks and bluffs, boulders and mountains. There are places that look like vast cemeteries with now and then extra large monuments in various shapes, all looking nearly as white as marble. There are some cultivated fields in the valleys and little orchards looking fine. But the mountains for the most part look bare and brown.

Across the line in Idaho there is more verdure and a few more trees and still more in Washington. There were lots of sawmills with the freshly cut lumber ready for shipment along the line south from Seattle to Portland.

All the region benefited should join with Sandy in celebrating the establishment of this route.

LOOP HIGHWAY WILL BENEFIT

The newly established Mt. Hood loop highway will be one of great benefit to eastern Multnomah and northern Clackamas counties, and in fact to much of eastern Oregon.

Its value in the development of this rich agricultural section will be incalculable.

The state highway commission is to be commended for its action in placing this artery of travel through a region partially developed and only waiting for this new impetus to make it a thickly populated section. The new highway will be no less a scenic road because it runs through a prosperous farming community.

Regions that are now backwoods will be connected by good roads with this main highway. Dairy and fruit farms will multiply now that a ready access to market is assured and many a city man will build his home along this beautiful highway because he will be within easy reach of his work.

All the region benefited should join with Sandy in celebrating the establishment of this route.

THE CHURCH NEEDS MEN

The pulpit and the press are two of the great upbuilding forces that ought to be liberally supported by the men, especially the business men, in every community.

The object of the press is largely educative and a community would be greatly lacking without its influence.

The object of the church is both educative and comforting along spiritual lines, which is most needful and no onewould want to live long in a community without this means of moral and spiritual help.

Everyone in the community is getting some benefit from the church, even though not a member or an attendant.

It seems therefore that the responsibility rests on everyone to do his or her share to help support and foster an institution that is for the benefit of all.

A special Sunday has been announced as Go-to Church Sunday. It is well to ask what is your relation to that day and service.

HORSES IN DEMAND.

The demand for mules to work in the Texas oil fields has nearly denuded Kansas of mules which are selling at phenomenally high prices. Montana and Nebraska have been drawn upon heavily and now Kera county is shipping horses to compete with the mules in the new oil fields.

With the rapidly mounting costs of fuel, oil rubber and machinery the economic factor of the horse cannot be ignored and the more trucks and tractors are put in use the greater demand there will be for the horse. Each have their uses, and each is supplemental to the other. With every section of the new land brought under cultivation, with every new oil field opened up, with every new enterprise established by trucks and tractors, there is an increased demand for the horse that can do the work.

The lines are sharply drawn between drafters and inefficient, the weaklings being inexorably scrapped, the demand being for bigger and weightier horses with more quality, spread and bottom.

$1,000 Creamery Prizes.

A thousand dollars—$500 for high scoring butter and $500 for cheddar cheese—will be distributed to creamery product exhibitors at the state fair. The money will be divided pro rata on points. Special diplomas will go to the highest scoring products. Outside exhibits will be received, says W. D. Pine, of O. A. C., superintendent of the dairy building at the fair, and Oregon producers are warned that they will have to hustle to keep the prizes at home.

Short lengths of white cedar ready to ship direct to Japan are to be turned out by a small sawmill to be established at Bandon by the Pacific Exports company. Finished lumber will mean a considerable saving in freight rates in the Orient.

land. North of Castle Rock I had been over the road nine years ago and the names of the places were somewhat familiar to me. At Castle Rock we stopped a few minutes but I failed to see any one whom I knew.

We passed through Kelso, Kalama, the county seat of Cowlitz county, Woodland and Vancouver, which was a fur trading post in the early days before Oregon was a state. The whole northwest and the flag of Britain floated over Vancouver where since have been quartered the state militia and during the World War used as a barracks and training camp for U. S. soldiers.

We crossed the Columbia river just after the lights began to glimmer on the heights of Portland and arrived at the union depot about 7:30. The friends whom I expected were there to meet me.

Thus my long journey had a very pleasant termination.

AMELIA B. PRICE.

Play to Beat Father Time.
Don't grow old—or rather, though you grow old as far as years are concerned, do not get old otherwise. It is easy to stay young, according to Dr. Louis R. Weltzmler, physical director of West Side Y. M. C. A. He avers that most people grow old because they cease doing young things; not because they need new glands.

"A man is young," said the doctor, "because he plays; he doesn't play because he is young. He is the product of his own actions. The old man who sits down after dinner, grouchy because the children make a noise, has already 'passed on.' He ought to be Olerized. All he is worth to the family is the pay check he brings home.

"But look at mother, who plays games with the children, sympathizes with them in their troubles and has a part in all they do. She remains flexible; she hasn't had time to grow old.

"It is dangerous for some men to retire from business. You know the kind who work at high tension for long years, doing nothing but strive for money. They get it and then announce their retirement; a little later you read a nice obituary saying what a success they had made. They hadn't.

"To keep young one must do young things. Don't be too dignified to play baseball, old cat, leapfrog or other lively things which keep the muscles in trim. Have young associates and be a boy with them. Spend time each day studying to be young. Fish, hunt, golf, if you like it, and don't cry quits the first time a muscle twinges; get into the game harder and go to the gym to work out the ache, or play with the kids until you forget it.

"Take youth with you as you go toward the old age. You can lead Father Time a merry race by thinking young, playing young and keeping physically fit."—New York Sun.

Electric sterilizers and immersion heaters made by the Halverson company in Portland are being distributed in China, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India, Central America and Brazil. This plated equipment was first turned out in 1912 for local trade among doctors and dentists, but the distributing field has steadily reached into other portions of the United States and Canada.

What Keeps a Battery Young?
To be reliable, a storage battery must have well-made plates. Battery solution must be proper strength and required purity. Battery jars must be mechanically strong and must allow no leakage of current or battery solution. But it's the insulation between the plates that keeps that battery full of life and adds months to its term of useful service. Drop in and ask us to tell you about Threaded Rubber Insulation, and some of the records it has made in keeping batteries on the job far beyond what used to be the battery age limit.
