

HIGH SCHOOL VOTES FOR BEST BOOKS

Pilgrim's Progress has been voted the best book by the high school students. Last Tuesday morning the entire student body celebrated Good Book Week by writing down the names of favorites. There were as many books mentioned as the school contains students. But some titles were mentioned by every class.

Those books estimated good by students from freshmen to seniors were: Pilgrim's Progress, Little Women, Deerslayer, Call of the Wild, Robinson Crusoe, Tom Sawyer, the Bible, Shepherd of the Hills, Longfellow's poems.

The favorites among books owned by the students were: Little Women, freshmen; Pilgrim's Progress, sophomores; Deerslayer, juniors; Tale of Two Cities, seniors.

Interesting Criticisms.
From a freshman: Life of Lincoln, "Life of a man we should follow."
From a sophomore: Boys' Life of

Theodore Roosevelt.—"It shows he was a real boy."

A senior's comment on Up From Slavery.—"What ambition can do for a man." On The Harbor.—"No unreal happenings."

"Books owned" is a broad list and extends from the students' owning Shakespeare, the Bible and Longfellow's poems to one who has only Ragged Dick.

The dictionary and encyclopedia received one vote each.
