I think that I shall never see A poem lovely as a tree. Poems are made by fools like me, But only God can make a tree. —Kilmer.

"NEW YEAR'S MUSINGS."

Under this head, W. L. Strange, in the Oregon Grange Bulletin, says some very pertinent things that ought to be read and re-read. We have recently celebrated the landing of the Pilgrim fathers three hundred years ago. They came to a new country with high ideals, seeking an opportunity to work out those ideals.

"The great need of our country, in this period of reconstruction, is a revival of the old fashioned Puritan morality."

"The conscience that looks upon public funds as sacred to their purposes; that believes the best administration is the one that can make the dollar bring best results."

"We need men and women that, like our president-elect, accept public office with its responsibility seriously, and in prayerful attitude."

"Our great need is the conscientious service of hand and brain in public life, and in private life, whether boss or workman, in business or on the farm."

"Big business should be just as honest as little business, and corporations should be just as honest as individual men. Profits should only be another name for wages. Why not? Why should I pay the merchant a profit if he is not looking after my interests? I step into a store to buy a suit of clothes. I cannot tell wool from cotton or shoddy, but my merchant can, and knows. He should be looking after my interests and thus earn his wages."

"But for this constantly increasing class of people whose creed is 'to get while the getting is good', who 'take all the traffic will bear', who say 'the Golden Rule has no place in politics.' Well, I think they are making a hell of a very beautiful world."

"Again I say, our greatest need of this new year is a revival of Puritan morality. The kind that has a very particular conscience. And the need is a political need, so there will be no more waste of public money. That the service of statesmanship may indeed steer our nation over the bar of necessity readjustments into the tranquil river of opportunity."

"The need is a commercial one, that every profit may rest upon services that are of an equivalent value. That while we are paying the millions of interest, and the billions of indebtedness, we may have the wherewithal to earn it."

"The need is an economical one, the dollar represents condensed work of hand and brain. 'The one who has not earned it will hardly be able to properly use it. But usefulness must be the only legitimate right of ownership."

"The one thing that is killing the world today is interest and more interest."

"God says, 'Thou shalt not take usury.' 'If civilization is ever destroyed, interest is the destroyer.'"

NEW PLAN OF CHURCH WORK.

"The Messenger," December, 1920, is a recently issued pamphlet put out in the interest of the Gresham social center parish of which Rev. Albert S. Hisey is pastor and Rev. Earl B. Cotton, associate pastor. The pamphlet contains 12 pages of typewritten matter bound with a neatly printed cover and copies were distributed within the parish.

The pastors make the following explanation of the social center plan: "The social center parish is a new plan for meeting ancient problems. Like many seemingly new things, it is the product of a process of evolution. It has been applied successfully in other sections of our country, but is new to Oregon."

"The social center plan aims to simplify the problem of administration, increase efficiency, unify resources, and substitute the inspiration of the larger, more compactly organized group of Christian for the scattered and feeble efforts of the small and struggling point in a large circuit. It seeks to re-vitalize and quicken the small country churches which have become in many cases, run down through lack of close and sympathetic and continuous pastoral attention. The Union High school in some of its features, suggests the social center parish. But the aim is not to draw the smaller outlying points to the center as is done with the high school; but rather to develop the sense of unity and solidarity among the churches concerned. Services are to be restored to their old-time power and interest plus a new-time efficiency."

As an institution in such a highly developed and progressive community, so well officered and directed, there is no reason why the new plan should not work successfully and prove an advance step in church work.

A purebred cow must be cared for by a purebred farmer or she will soon degenerate into the scrub class.

RUBBER INDUSTRY TOUCHED WITH ROMANCE

Few substances commonly used in industry are touched with so much romance as rubber. Coming from far-off lands, there is about rubber the flavor of the tropics and the Orient; the discovery of the process of vulcanization which changes rubber from a sticky, unusable substance into one of the most useful materials of modern life is among the great wonder stories of invention; and the development of rubber manufacture in America to a position which gives this country the dominant position in rubber manufacture in the world is fraught with interest.

But the real wonder story is the story of how it happened that when the automobile industry burst upon the world with a need for rubber which the recognized sources of supply could not have begun to meet, there was found ready in a new quarter of the globe a supply so adequate that the progress of the industry was not halted for a second by any shortage of rubber. In other words, it is the story of the rubber plantations in the Far East.

From the minute that Selden began his efforts to produce an automobile engine in the early '70s, the automobile industry—the most gigantic enterprise of the ages—was always imminent. As if unseen forces were at work to furnish sufficient rubber for the automobiles that were to be produced, Wickham, an Englishman, took some rubber seeds from Brazil in the early '70s to Kew Gardens, London. There the seeds were germinated and young shoots were taken to Ceylon and some of them found their way to the Malay states. From those few plants sprang the whole plantation industry of the Far East. Toward the end of the century the coffee plantations in Malay suffered a blight and the planters began to plant rubber trees, hoping, if possible, to save their estates from abandonment. It happened, and this is one of the great coincidences of history, that within a few years after their trees were at the bearing stage the automobile manufacturers of America found the supply of rubber from Brazil to be entirely inadequate and turned with relief to the Far East.

Today the Far East produces seven-eighths of the rubber of the world. The greatest single plantation is owned by the United States Rubber company which embarked on the enterprise to secure an adequate supply of rubber for United States tires.

Just seems sometimes as if money were playing "hide and seek." Money does the hiding while you do the seeking.

World's Greatest Producer.

The United States is the most productive country on earth. It leads the rest of the globe in yields of the mine, the soil, and the factory. This fact was tersely and cogently set forth by Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the Board of the United States Steel Corporation, in an address which he made before the American Iron and Steel Institute, Judge Gary said: "Notwithstanding the United States has only six per cent of the world's population, and but seven per cent of the world's land, we produce: '20 per cent of the world's supply of gold. '25 per cent of the world's supply of wheat. '40 per cent of the world's supply of iron and steel. '49 per cent of the world's supply of lead. '40 per cent of the world's supply of silver. '50 per cent of the world's supply of zinc. '52 per cent of the world's supply of coal. '60 per cent of the world's supply of aluminum. '60 per cent of the world's supply of copper. '60 per cent of the world's supply of cotton. '66 per cent of the world's supply of oil. '75 per cent of the world's supply of corn. '85 per cent of the world's supply of automobiles.'"

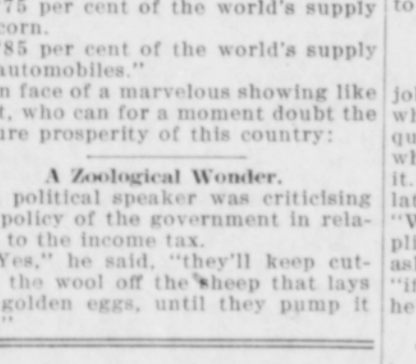

In face of a marvelous showing like that, who can for a moment doubt the future prosperity of this country:

A Zoological Wonder.

A political speaker was criticizing the policy of the government in relation to the income tax. "Yes," he said, "they'll keep cutting the wool off the sheep that lays the golden eggs, until they pump it dry!"

POWELL VALLEY

Guests at the home of Miss Nellie Anderson last Thursday afternoon were Mrs. Axel Johnson, the Misses Florence and Hulda Johnson and Lester Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Hjalmar Soderberg entertained at dinner, Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gustafson and family of Portland, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gustafson and family and Mr. and Mrs. Swan Magnuson and family.

Mrs. P. M. Magnuson, of Astoria, visited a number of friends here during the latter part of the week.

A number of the younger set enjoyed a delightful evening at the home of Miss Amy Gustafson New Years. Games and contests filled the evening, after which refreshments were served. Those present were Julia and Beckley Gustafson of Portland, Judith and Helen, Larson, Edith Taylor, Mabel Staffenson, Frieda Peterson, Emory Keller, Rubin and Archie Keller.

Guests at the home of Mrs. Alta Gentry, Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. A. Stafford and family and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hayden and family.

Mrs. Bert Olsen gave a very charming dinner party Sunday evening in honor of Mr. Olsen's birthday. The rooms and table were beautifully decorated in red and white. One of the main features of the dinner was a big goose sent to the Olsen's from Mr. Olsen's sister, who lives at Oak Hill, Kansas. At the close of the dinner the lights were turned out leaving only the lights from the red shaded candles on the table. The big birthday cake with its lighted candles was placed in front of the honor guests. Guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Axel Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Lundomb and son Vernon Jean, and A. Jensen.

A large number of persons attended the New Year's supper and program at the Lutheran church. The evening was both a social and financial success. A sum of about $38 was cleared as a result of the evening's efforts.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Lindgren entertained a number of friends at dinner Sunday. Those present were P. Stenberg and family, Mr. and Mrs. August Johnson and son, Lester, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Lind and daughter, Evelyn, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Olsen, Mrs. Emma Johnson and Earnest Anderson.

Mrs. P. Salquist called at the C. A. Lindgren home during the afternoon.

S. Stenberg of Haley spent Tuesday at the John Palmblad home.

Rev. and Mrs. Andrew Johnson of Haley and the latter's sister, Mrs. Fred Johnson of Ridgefield, Washington, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lindgren and little son of Haley were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Palmblad last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Palmblad entertained at dinner New Year's day the following guests, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Palmblad, Mr. and Mrs. David Palmblad and son Donald of Oak Grove, Mr. and Mrs. John Palmblad and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Palmblad of Powell Valley.

LYNCH

The Lynch school is proud of the honor roll of the primary room of that district. Those who have been neither absent nor tardy and have achieved a scholarship average of "A" or the highest grade are: Tracey Anderson, Henry Brown, Jane Dickson, Paul Fox, Audrey Freeman, Zylmer Cook, Frieda Freeman, Donald Headley, Grace Lynch, Angela Nelbauer, and Richard Letton.

The regular meeting of the Lynch Parents-Teacher circle will be held Friday evening, January 7, at the schoolhouse. The regular business meeting will be held after which refreshments will be served and a social hour enjoyed. Patrons of the district and their friends are cordially invited to attend.

The Oldest Joke.

There are those who say the oldest joke is the one about the Irishman who was handling dynamite in a quarry. He let a stick drop, and the whole box went up, taking Mike with it. The quarry boss came around later and said to another Irishman, "Where's Mike?" "He's gone," replied Pat. "When will he be back?" asked the boss. "Well, replied Pat, "if he comes back as fast as he went, he'll be back yesterday."

The minister who made the following announcement seems to have been prepared for untoward results from his preaching. "There are some flowers here," he said, "for those who are sick at the close of this service."—Private Post.

SELECTING SITE FOR ROOSEVELT MEMORIAL

The erection of the Roosevelt Memorial, to the memory of the former president, has reached the point of selection of a suitable location. These three men, Wm. B. Thompson, president; Charles Moore, chairman, and Herman Hagedorn, secretary, are members of the Roosevelt Memorial Association. They have just been in Washington trying to decide upon a site for the memorial
