"LEND-A-HAND."

Mighty is the press! At least some people think so. Even a prison publication is regarded as having considerable value to the state and to the prisoners.

This is brought forcibly to mind by a communication received at the editor's desk. F. S. Dietrich, of Portland, an experienced prison worker, has taken the matter in hand to resuscitate the Oregon prison paper, "Lend-a-Hand."

An effort is now being made to get sufficient subscriptions at one dollar a year to permit resuming publication. This is an appeal to any having friends there to help them out—that is, in this undertaking.

"Lend-a-Hand has come to stay—to continue its helpful and regenerating influence."

"Long interviews with the editor have convinced me that his writings have a corrective influence on state charges and make for better citizenship."

"Lend-a-Hand entertains as well as instructs, printing many articles from minds trained for prison work. This is neither a public or private charity, for the magazine lives entirely by its subscriptions."

A letter from Governor Olcott contains the following statement:

"I wish to say that the magazine 'Lend-a-Hand', which recently suspended publication, gave some highly gratifying service, which I think had splendid results both for the men inside the walls and in bringing about a clearer understanding of prison conditions to people outside."

Warden L. H. Compton highly recommends the prison paper. He says: "A prison paper is a very necessary adjunct to any prison in that it gives an added impetus and interest in prison reform; acquaints the world with character of prison inmates, is conducive to a more kindly interest and every day consideration for prisoners, helps build up faith in humanity and helps justify the hope that is in them."

"Properly edited a prison paper acts as the character builder and does much to mold the sentiment of the prisoners."

"I can not call your attention too forcibly to the real need of a good, sound prison paper. It is well worth your efforts and your support and backing of the Chamber of Commerce and all civic bodies."

"Lend-a-Hand at one time was classed as the foremost prison paper in the United States, if not in the world. The editor was a member of the typographical union and a man of considerable intelligence."

"With proper financial support this paper could be made a great factor in the community and in the state at large."

"Where I find two men doing work which one could handle, one will be discharged," says Chas. S. Rudeen, new county commissioner. That is encouraging to the taxpayers, provided Mr. Rudeen does not play favoritism or cut down efficiency. The county is a big institution and should be run on sound business principles and not on politics. There is no doubt considerable "dead weight" which can be eliminated to the advantage of all concerned except the inefficient and unnecessary employment.

The Eugene Register thinks the name Mistland is well chosen. It says: "We have no need to blush for the Oregon mist. It is a gift from the hand of nature whose manifold benefits deserves to be heralded abroad. Instead of hiding our heads in the sand and refusing to admit that there is such a thing in Oregon, it behooves us to boast before all the world that the combination of showers and sunshine makes Oregon the most promising fruit growing section in America."

FARMERS SAVE $25,000. Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance is Best.

ODE TO A SPOON.

I hold thee in my hand, O little spoon, So delicate, so silvery bright and clear, And in thy polished bowl I seem to see Visaged the faces of friends to me most dear.

If thou couldst speak, what story wouldst thou tell Of ruby lips that pressed thy silvery bowl, While eyes that met a longing gaze of love Were mirrored deep within my ravished soul.

Fain would I feel the warmth her lips impressed On thee transferred to mine as from thy rim I sip the sweetest nectar earth affords, Which ne'er can satisfy the heart within.

As delicate and fine thou art as she Who chose thee from the motly board. Full well she knew thy charm and sterling worth Would grace with dignity a prince's board.

O little spoon thou wilt through life my fortune share (Albeit good or ill the Lord may send), And when I come with heart of thankfulness, I'll thank Him for so true and good a friend.

Dec. 27, 1920.

FROM MARION, OHIO, TOO

Miss Jesse Masters, American contralto, is from President-Elect Harding's home town, Marion, Ohio. She has been studying in Washington for some time, but is soon to start on another American tour.

Uncle John's Joke

WILLIE BROWN'S MAW NEARLY DIED LAST NIGHT HER LADY GUEST SAID SHE'D TAKE ANOTHER HOT BISCUIT ALTHO SHE DIDN'T KNOW HOW MANY SHE'D ALREADY HAD. WILLIE SAID "I KNOW, SIX!"

STARVING WORLD NEEDS OUR FARM PRODUCTS.

Despite the awful slump in the price of his products during the last half of 1920, the American farmer can be well assured that he is going to have a big market for years to come. The whole question at this time, lies in credits for the foreigner—his ability to buy the things he needs to eat.

W. R. Lawson is one of the greatest of England's economists. In a very recent issue of London Financial News, he says:

"The economic crisis has gone far beyond questions of cost or of money. The nation is heading for something much worse than bankruptcy. That would be a bearable calamity after all we have passed through, but actual starvation is another story. Hitherto only semi-savage races have felt it as a reality. Highly civilized peoples have only read about it and subscribed to funds to feed the poor starving wretches. But now every succeeding year brings us within reach of the universal peril. There is no occasion to echo the sensational alarms of Mr. Hoover and other American food experts. Their pessimist prophecies may be taken at a considerable discount and yet leave margin enough to distress all serious human beings. The world is not growing food enough for its rapidly increasing population, and much of what it does grow is wasted. When we have to fight famine in our own homes, Mr. Crammond's paper billions will shrivel up at the sight of it."

Germany needs millions of tons of food. Austria is starving. Spain and France and Italy are on short rations. Italy sends Russia a perfectly good shipload of merchandise and in payment she sends a shipload of wheat purposely mixed up with broken bottles, tons of chipped brick and filth of the filthiest sort, indicating that Russia won't play fair with those that trade with her; thus her grain won't compete with ours.

Yes, the American farmer's market is cut out for him for a quarter of a century. It is up to him to see that our policies of credit, etc., should be such as to make it easier for the foreign nations to buy his products.

YOUNG MOVIE STARS CANNOT RESIST CUPID

Cupid is no respecter of "careers." "Future" and "niches" in the hall of fame fade into insignificance when the little god of love strikes. Palmadge, two noted movie stars, eloped to Greenwich Conn., and were married. The former married the young actor, James Rennie, the latter a Greek tobacco importer of New York, John Plogion. The two movie brides are the closest friends.
