GRESHAM LOCALS

The W. C. T. U. are planning a doughnut sale for Saturday afternoon at 2 p. m. The sale will be held in Walrad's store and will be in charge of ladies from the W. C. T. U. The doughnuts will be freshly made Saturday morning.

Mrs. L. T. Lusted and daughter, Inez, are moving into their new home on Powell street, which has just been completed.

Frank C. Jones has completed the placing of skylights in the Latourell building which is now occupied by the Fields Motor Car company.

The pickle factory has been wired and the lights have been installed recently by Floyd L. Mack. Among other buildings which Mr. Mack has recently wired is the new home of Ned Nelson near Kelso. More than 30 lights were installed in this home and Mr. Nelson is ready for the electric light line extension.

Mrs. M. J. Allhouse and her cousin, Miss Gertrude Pfankuch, have returned from Seattle where they went to witness the presentation of the great pageant, "Way-farer," and visit with friends and relatives. They report the pageant well worth going so far to see and said it was wonderful. Miss Pfankuch, who is a teller in a California bank, plans to remain here and in Portland for a few weeks and then visit her former home in Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Fieldhouse and daughter, Jane, are here from St. Helens visiting with relatives. Mr. Fieldhouse is assisting this week in the tractor demonstrations on the P. A. Bliss farm.

Miss Elsie Calkins is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Calkins. Miss Calkins has been teaching for a few months in the Klamath high school and will leave for St. Louis on September 1 to take up special work with the Red Cross. She had had nearly two years of work at the University of Wisconsin in preparation for this work.

The Rev. Earl B. Sims of Chicago will preach at the Baptist church next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Sunday school will meet at 10 o'clock. There will be no services in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bushong and daughter, Willa, are here from Castle Rock, Washington, where they went early in the spring. They will remain here for a week or two. They were accompanied here by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Erickson of Reno, Nevada, who were visiting them. The latter are son-in-law and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bushong.

The town council met last Tuesday evening but owing to the small attendance were forced to adjourn. The next session will be held Wednesday evening, August 10.

The Misses Katherine and Frieda Bratzel are leaving Saturday for two weeks at Cannon Beach. During this time Miss Bratzel's studio will be closed but will reopen as soon as she returns so that her pupils can make their arrangements for fall work.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kenney, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Squire, Birdine Merrill and J. F. Floss returned this week from a camping trip to the mountains where they had a fine time and got material for some fine fish stories, so Mr. Squire says.

Dr. W. J. Ott and family, L. L. Kidder and family, Mrs. H. S. Alexander, Miss Gertrude Alexander and Miss Mina Gilbert motored to the country back of Carson, Washington, last Sunday. They went up the Columbia river highway to Cascade Locks where they took the ferry to Stevenson. They spread their picnic dinner in the grounds of an abandoned state fish hatchery.

Jack Dye, of Portland, one of the trainers at the race track of the Multnomah county fair grounds, was seriously injured this morning when the horse which he was riding fell, throwing him heavily to the ground and rolling upon him. The extent of his injuries could not be determined at this time but he had not regained consciousness at a late hour today. He is being cared for at his cabin on the fair grounds.

The neighbors of Mrs. H. H. Ott joined in giving her a welcome to their community meeting at her home where a happy social evening was spent. A gift of silverware was left as a reminder of the regard in which she is held.

Mrs. H. S. Alexander plans to start tomorrow for California where she will visit prior to going to her old home in Kansas. She plans to return to Gresham the last of October.

Mrs. Bruce Hoyt from Battleground, Washington, spent Wednesday with her mother, Mrs. P. Michel.

Mrs. J. H. Hoss and Miss Helen Hoss left Wednesday for Seaside where they have a cottage for a few weeks. Mr. Hoss will join them later.

Eight members of the Camp Fire organization with their leader, Miss Gertrude Alexander and Miss Mina Gilbert will go into camp at Cedar creek for a week of fun and frolic.

C. E. Cleveland and family of Stanfield, Oregon, are visiting with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Cleveland. They will return soon to their home but their young daughters, Eleanor and Alice, will remain here until school begins.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Bangs have rented Mrs. Vesta Raney's house on Third street and are moving in. Mr. and Mrs. Will Raney, who occupied the house until recently, have moved to a farm near Vancouver.

Mrs. Roy D. Miller and two children of Coluse, California, are visiting with her aunt, Mrs. Harriet Timmerman and family.

Miss Olga Noreen of the First State Bank is enjoying her vacation this week. She will spend a few days at her home in Union district after which she will probably visit the beaches although her plans are not definite.

The Northwest Mounted Police have been creating considerable excitement this afternoon by parading the streets. The brilliant red coats can be seen as far as eye can reach and with the addition of a megaphone have stirred up some interest. They have some exhibits at the Gresham theater where they will put on their show this evening.

The month of June marked a new record in the amount of business done by the state corporation department, cash receipts being $113,000, according to T. B. Handley, corporation commissioner.

"The Birth of a Nation"

By William Wood.
It was a bright, sunshiny day in June. Up from the depths of Luke McGlucke's manure pile came a creature brand new. It was its first appearance on earth. With shining eyes and glistening wings, it rested on top of a piece of cornfodder and gazed around at the world. A strange sensation crept over it. It was hungry, and why not? It had never had anything to eat in its whole life. Spreading its wings, away it went, seeking that which it could devour.

Up an alley it sped. Here was some fine, filthy water lying in a depression. It stopped and had its first drink and walked through the pool, pleased to feel the warmth. Ah! What is this? An old garbage can with remnants of weeks' old garbage in the bottom, putrid and foul smelling. Here was what it was looking for. Down into the bottom it dropped and wallowed and gorged itself; then off on a trip of exploration to see what kind of a place this was.

On a nice porch in the rocking chair, father had just finished the Sunday paper and was dozing in the chair, for it was certainly a lazy day. Nod went his head; buzz went something near his ear; wildly he swung an arm. Silence, quiet, snore! and father's mouth opened. Something lit on his lips. A start and another wild swing; then back to his interrupted dreams. Buzz! the thing was in one nostril. "Hang that fly!" he said. Just then he was awakened by mother calling "Dinner is ready". Up he jumps, opens the screen door and goes in to dinner. An uninvited guest came with him, but he did not see it. He sat down at the table and, taking the lid from the sugar bowl, helped himself to sugar. A quick fall, and his tormentor of the porch was in the sugar bowl. Then he put the lid back. That was the place the creature, which was born a few hours ago, was seeking. After satisfying its appetite on the sugar, it made its toilet. Using its six legs and tongue it stripped from its body all of the accumulation from its first birth place—the manure pile; next, its bathing pool—the filthy water in the alley; next, its dining room—the garbage can. All of this it left in neat little piles in the sugar. "Pass the sugar", said mother. Over it comes. Mother takes the lid off and out comes the creature. Pshaw! there is a fly in the sugar bowl! I wonder how it got there? In goes the spoon, out it comes full of sugar and also the waste matter left by Mr. Fly. It was not seen, but it still was there!—Bulletin Northwestern Division American Red Cross.

Of Interest to Farmers

There are a good many reasons why a farmer should have a bank account, among them these five:

1. Because the farmer creates wealth and the banker conserves it.
2. Because the farmer often needs money or credit to supplement his own efforts.
3. Because the farmer's money in the bank is not only safe, but is helping the community.
4. Because the farmer, being in reality a business man, should be business like in his methods.
5. Because by being a bank customer, the farmer is really entitled to the advice, information, and cooperation that every good banker can give.

We really want to help you.
