Mix with an equal quantity of cracker crumbs moistened with butter, or left-over stuffing can be used instead. The mixture should be quite moist; if not, add a little milk. Cut lengthwise eight green peppers, remove seeds, parboil five minutes and fill with fish. Put in baking pan, surround with hot water, and cook until cases are soft but not broken.

Insect Attacks Canada Thistle.

Reports from Albany state that a bug which may be the long sought pest to destroy Canada thistles has been found operating in the thistle patches in Linn county. The county club leader, Fred N. Williamson, has sent specimens of the bug to the Oregon Agriculture College to get data regarding it. It is a species of beetle.

Although the bug has been making considerable headway in attacking thistles in some localities, one bad feature is that it is also attacking useful vegetation in some sections, while in other places it has confined its operation to thistles.

Nearly 2,500,000 pounds, or 45 carloads, of the 1921 crop of prunes have been sold by the Oregon Growers Cooperative association at opening prices. Owing to the heavy sales and the short crop the association has withdrawn prunes from the market temporarily. During the last three days before they were withdrawn 18 cars of prunes were sold, nine of them going in one day. They were sold at prices within a half cent a pound prices named on California prunes. Oregon prunes have, for many years, sold at several cents a pound lower than the California product before the Oregon Growers association entered the field with a high grade, standardized pack. It is expected that the association will have difficulty in supplying the demand for Mistland prunes in these markets during the coming season on account of the short crop this year.
