THE BIBLE IN SCHOOLS.

May the Bible be legally excluded from the public schools of our land? This is the question the supreme court of the United States will be called on to decide. The Presbyterian church, acting for themselves and on behalf of other denominations, will bring a test case before the nation's highest tribunal. The claim will be made that while denominationalism is excluded an understanding of God, such as can only be gained from a knowledge of the Bible, is necessary to an understanding of the covenant of the constitution. Hence that the reading of the Bible cannot be legally excluded from the public schools of the country. It is said the state of Washington officially excludes the Bible from its public schools.

The case will be watched with a great deal of interest both by those who think the Bible should not be excluded and by those who think it should.

The highest hopes and aspirations as well as the highest morality of man kind are founded on the teachings of the Bible. The teachings of the Bible are the source and inspiration of human knowledge and progress. To exclude it from the schools is to exclude it from the thought and character of the student and eventually from the home and from human society and government. This in time will mean a lowering of ideals and in the end destruction.

To legally exclude the Bible from the schools brands the book as unworthy a place in the child's thought and education which means that the child, the youth, the man, concludes it unworthy a place in his life.

This country and the world still needs the teachings of the Bible as a foundation stone of its knowledge and morality and hope.

HALF BILLION IN GOLD HAS SLIGHT EFFECT.

Eighty-eight million dollars' worth of gold arrived in the United States in August, bringing the total since January 1 up very close to half a billion dollars.

Prof. Irving Fisher, the Yale economist, and his followers insist that when gold becomes plentiful, prices of commodities rise and speculation and inflation follow. Well, there has been a slight rise in prices since July 1, but nothing remarkable. And certainly speculation has been as dead as a last year's fly. So this gives the school of economists opposed to Fisher's views a chance for a glorious gloat.

But perhaps Fisher is right, because the half billion of gold which has floated to our shores in eight months has had no chance to show its speed. The Federal Reserve banks have simply trapped it on its arrival and thrown it into their dungeons—their vaults. None of the gold has been placed in circulation as money, nor used as the basis of expansion of notes or credits or loans. In other words, it can have had no more effect on business or prices than so much gold ore buried far beneath the surface of the ground.

At present we are not saying that this treatment of real money is a good thing or a bad thing—but that's what has happened to gold that emigrated to America in 1921.

A PACIFIST PROPHET OF WAR.

Before the great war Norman Angell was known as the "greatest pacifist"; he had written the best of all anti-war books, to which he gave the title "The Great Illusion."

The main contention in "The Great Illusion" was that wars are unprofitable even to the winner. Now Angell is out with another book called "The Fruits of Victory," in which he shows that the prophecies in his former book were true to a hair.

In his new book he attempts to prove that the victors of the recent world war won nothing except the name of victory. Everything has gone wrong with them ever since. The only fruit of victory they have is the huge indemnity that Germany will have to pay. For Germany to pay it, she must be prosperous and so all nations, except perhaps France, are trying to make her prosperous. Presently, she will become so prosperous, says Angell, that no other nation will be able to compete with her. Then he will go to war again "for her old rights" and the world will be at each others' throats once more.

Angell was a good prophet once; will he repeat?
We hope not. But everything in the world today makes that coming armament conference of the most vital importance to a disgusted, heart-sickened humanity.

THE HOME TOWN PAPER.

The newspapers, especially the country papers, the "home town" papers, are to have a week of publicity all their own. It is the week of November 7 to 12. Its purpose is to direct attention to the importance and needs of the small town newspaper—your home paper, if you live or have lived in the country.

In this day of shifting populations there are few to be found in any locality who have remained where they were born or spent their happy years of their childhood and youth. But there are some and they are respected and honored citizens. In many cases the children of the pioneers have broken the home ties and moved elsewhere. They should be kept in touch with the associates and conditions of their early years. This is best done through the home town paper whose every issue is like a letter from home. All such say that when the little paper from the home town arrives all else is dropped, even the meals can wait, till its pages are scanned for news about the friends and scenes of yore.

In many cases children who have drifted "away out west" send the local paper to parents or relatives back east or south or wherever loved ones remain.

To emphasize this privilege is one purpose of the week set apart, called the Home Town Paper Week.

There are other things to be emphasized. Among them the relation of the newspaper in the country town to the growth and upbuilding of the whole community in business, education and morals. If these things are carefully and fairly considered it will be seen that no citizen can make a safer or better investment from year to year than the small amount charged for the support and continuance of the "home paper."

That hard federation wheat, bred by the college experiment station and grown by Herbert Egbert, Wasco county farmer, from seed supplied by the branch station at Moro, won the grand sweepstakes prize at the Western Grain and Hay show, Pendleton, has been reported by Paul V. Maris, extension director. The college bred wheat was shown in competition with 300 picked varieties from five western states. In addition it won five highest prizes in common white wheat classes. It was bred by D. E. Stephens from an Australian wheat imported some years ago, and selected with a view to meet dry farm conditions in the northwest. Competition at the show, which was a conspicuous feature of the big "Round-up", was very keen, and has victory for the station wheat is said to be decisive.

To remove grass stains, pour over the stained part a few drops of turpentine, and rub between the fingers. Turpentine may be used in this manner even upon goods of fine texture. Or use clear cold water after which apply molasses and let remain on for an hour or two, then wash in warm water. If on fabric which can't be washed, try alcohol. Or wash with soap and cold water. If the fabric has no delicate colors, and the stain is fresh, treat with ammonia water.

Coffee Stains—Rub thoroughly with pure, clean glycerine; this will remove stains caused by coffee from woolen and other material. The place should be afterwards well washed with lukewarm water and ironed till dry (on the wrong side).

HENRY F. PARSONS DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Henry Franklin Parsons, well known resident of Troutdale, died at his home Thursday, Sept. 29. Mr. Parsons was in very poor health for the past two years and his death was not altogether unexpected. He was 70 years of age.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Troutdale church. Rev. Mr. Parsons of Portland and Rev. Earl B. Cotton, pastor, officiating. Interment was in the Rose City Park cemetery.

Mr. Parsons leaves to mourn their loss his widow, Mrs. Electra Parsons, four daughters, Mrs. Ruby Richey of Kansas City, Mrs. Dora Shutt of Spokane, Mrs. Z. G. Schenck and Isabelle Parsons of Troutdale, and a son Clarence Parsons. Mrs. Mary Parsons is a daughter-in-law.

THE WINDING WAYS OF OREGON.

The ways of western Oregon.
They wind and wind and wind:
The cities and the villages
Are left afar behind.

We slide along mid landscape fair
Of field and hill and stream,
With round about the summer air
And in our hearts a dream.

Our way sweeps on into a wood,
So mystic green and deep,
'Twould not surprise us if a nymph
Rose white from out a pool.

Through ceilings green of lofty firs,
The sunbeams brush bright
Reach down to paint the forest floor
With arabesques of light.

Here, from lost sources in the hills,
Drops down a little stream;
Neath curtains dusk of lacy fern
Its shining waters gleam.

Again we rush into the sun,
We see a bridge before—
A little covered wooden bridge—
And pass its threshold o'er.

A picture, framed, we see ahead—
Of sun-washed bush and bough:
A lighthouse on a rocky point,
A lazine, grazing cow.

We climb the wooded mountain slope,
And as the shadows creep,
We slip down the western side
Out toward the foaming deep.

We see the coast of Oregon,
We see the tumbling bar;
A lighthouse on a rocky point
Sends out its beacon star.

The sea throws out a silver arm
And clasps an islet green;
The sunset's fading out at sea,
And breakers roll between.

A mist creeps up; the air grows chill;
Our day is lost in night;
From out an open cottage door
The freshine wavers bright.

We'll rest us here, for we have come
Full many a changeable mile;
And we would hear a baby coo,
And see a mother smile.

For though on ways of Oregon
The traveler joys to roam,
The winding ways of Oregon
All lead to love and home.
