Entered as second-class matter March 3, 1911, at the Postoffice at Gresham, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

AGAINST NIGHT WATCHMAN.

A petition has been drawn up and is being circulated for signatures of taxpayers asking that the night marshal be dispensed with. The night marshal, or watchman, is not an elective office and the council has authority to employ police officers when it deems it necessary for the protection of lives and property and for the maintenance of the peace and good order of the city. The present council evidently thought this necessary. Some citizens think it is an unnecessary expense.

It appears some of the objectors to the present arrangement claim that the night watchman has never visited their home places. That may be true. Yet the night watchman has faithfully patrolled the city and all lives and property have been safer for his presence.

It is a mistake to think the night watchman should spend as much time on Cleveland avenue, or Wallula Heights, as on Main and Powell streets. Any city keeps more policemen in a congested district than in the outskirts, though all pay something towards the expense of policing the city. Why don't the residents on the outskirts of Gresham object to helping pay for the electric lights on Main and Powell streets? or the fire hydrants? Many taxpayers get very little direct benefit from these.

MOTERING WILL COME HIGHER.

The editor made a brief business trip by auto to Salem on last Tuesday and, contrary to general opinion, found some of the state officials swamped with work. This is especially true of Sam Kozor, secretary of state, who is getting ready for the 1922 automobile registration which will begin next month.

The 1922 registration fee will be based on the weight of cars, and not the horsepower as heretofore. It is expected the registration of motor vehicles next year will total about 135,000. The income this year from license fees will be over $2,300,000. Next year the new method of licensing cars, it is said, will increase the gross income to the state nearly one-third.

The secretary of state is preparing blanks and needed information to be mailed out soon to car owners.

E. E. Brodie, well known editor of the Oregon City Enterprise, has received the appointment of minister to Siam. Mr. Brodie will receive the congratulations of the Oregon newspaper fraternity though not many of us will promise to call on him at his new location. Mr. Brodie will be greatly missed from the gatherings of the state editorial association.

You like to see a "neck-and-neck" race. The Portland dailies are in it. See their bargain offers elsewhere.

Prepare to celebrate the week of November 7 to 12.

Oregon Illiteracy.

According to the census of 1920 there are 9,317 illiterate persons 10 years of age and over in the state of Oregon, "illiterate" meaning, unable to write in any language. Of this number 1,529 are native whites of native parentage, 461 are of foreign or mixed parentage, 5,172 are of foreign birth, 847 are Indians, 782 are Chinese, 409 are Japanese and 89 are Negroes. In the total population 10 years of age and over the percentage of illiteracy is 1.5 which shows a slight diminution since 1910, when it was 1.9. In the case of the native white of native parentage it is 0.4, the same as it was in 1910.

By counties the parentage of illiteracy from 3.7 in Jefferson county to 0.3 in Gilliam county.

Cranberries Also an Oregon Product.

The cranberry is the only fruit grown in the United States whose course of travel is from east to west. Realizing that this state is a fruit-producing state, men of broad vision in the district at the mouth of the Columbia river entered the cranberry game and have developed it to such an extent that at the present time it is supplying a great many of the cranberries used on the Pacific Coast, but there are still berries shipped in from the East.

Land that was considered waste has been made productive. The total investment in land and improvements in the district amounts to a million dollars.

The editor of the Outlook was among the members of the Oregon State Editorial association who were fortunate enough to visit the cranberry bogs in Clatsop county last fall, and was astounded at the magnitude of the industry.

The cranberry industry on the Pacific coast, while new, already occupies a firm place among the horticultural industries of the Northwest. Berries of very fine quality are grown in Oregon and Washington, in the district at the mouth of the Columbia river. Here is a great frost-free-zone, with abundant rainfall, having a climate admirably adapted to the growing of cranberries.

Picking will commence the second week in September and will extend over a period of four to six weeks. Many people are attracted to this district by the fact that they can earn good wages picking cranberries, and at the same time, enjoy the mild weather of the Oregon Coast climate in September.

To the rule that the Oregon fruit is the best grown anywhere, the cranberry is no exception. It is a very luscious and well-flavored fruit which has made a great impression wherever introduced. There is a prejudice in some quarters in favor of the eastern cranberry. This is due more to habit than reason. The cranberry grown on the east shores of the United States is indeed a wonderful fruit, but the cranberry grown on the Pacific Coast is of equally good quality and requires less sugar when put up. The industry is well organized and the fruit is marketed cooperatively. Berries will appear on the markets shortly after the picking season is completed.

The cranberry associations of the coast are urging the purchase of cranberries by the housewife early on account of the fact that there is a shrinkage in berries as the season progresses, and the thrifty housewife, by making an early purchase, saves just that much. Cranberries canned early in October taste just as good on Christmas day as cranberries cooked on Christmas eve.

And when you buy your cranberries ask for Oregon grown berries.

Household Hints.

Chocolate and Cocoa Stains—Sprinkle the stain with borax. Soak in cold water, then pour on boiling water.

Pitch and Tar Stains—Rub lard on the stain and let stand for a few hours. Sponge with spirits of turpentine until the stain is removed. If the color of the fabric is changed, sponge it with chloroform and the color will be restored.

Scorched Fabric—Scorched fabrics can be restored if the threads are uninjured. Wet the stained portion and expose to the sun; repeat.

Spots on Wool or Silk—For wool, dissolve the grease with gasoline or alcohol. A little salt added to gasoline prevents its leaving a ring. For silk, use ether or chloroform.

To Remove Black Grease—Wash soiled parts with kerosene oil, changing oil for fresh as it becomes discolored. Then wash with soap and water.

Ford says that "the world is on wheels". And a good many of the wheels just now seem to be in the world's collective head.

The best kind of a "business head" is one that co-operates with a pair of good business hands.
