IS HENRY FORD A DREAMER?

Except only the men whose official doings of various kinds keep them constantly before the public, like President Harding or Mr. Lloyd George, it is usually some one thing that brings a private person into the glare of publicity at a particular moment. Henry Ford is an exception to this rule.

One of these relates to the end of his contest against Mr. Newberry for the Michigan senatorship. Another relates to his remarkable experience in reaching the maximum output of Ford cars when most manufacturers were still running on part time.

During the war, the government decided to create a series of water powers at Muscle Shoals, with an approximate capacity considerably greater than that which is harnessed at Niagara.

Mr. Ford's offer has been under serious consideration at Washington with the prospect that it will be accepted. In view of Mr. Ford's various recent activities, the editor of the Review of Reviews sent the noted writer, Judson Welliver, to Detroit to spend some days with Mr. Ford, to learn at first hand his plans and ideas, especially with regard to Muscle Shoals and the future of American agriculture.

Mr. Ford, with all his dreams and visions, loves most to dwell upon the future of American agriculture. He wishes to help emancipate the farmer and the farmer's wife from at least two-thirds of their present drudgery.

His opinions on the elimination of live stock, including the dairy cow, will not, perhaps, be taken very seriously. His firm belief, however, that there is an immense field for the use of mechanical appliances, with electrical power or with cheap substitutes for gasoline, is in accord with evident tendencies. Hence his desire to develop Muscle Shoals.

Mr. Ford is a dreamer, but he is also a man of action whose achievements have been so remarkable that he is sure to find the country readily interested in his points of view, however fantastic some of them may seem.

Advertising has played an all important part in fostering business growth. Without it we would retrograde half a century, or more. Business would stagnate; large institutions which build cheaply by large production would fade into oblivion; we would live in total ignorance of many things which might add to our wealth, health and happiness.

The bread and butter of business depend on advertising, and your interest in it. Read the advertisements. They will be as productive of results to you as to the companies that pay for them. In half an hour, or less, you can learn much of many things that go to make life what it is.

Read the advertising. It enables you to get more for your money by telling you what to buy. It is your guide to what's good to get.

COTTAGE GROVE MAN HAS CHEVROLET AGENCY

Hugh I. Smith, who has been proprietor of the Smith Motor company in Cottage Grove, has purchased the interest of the Fields Motor Car company here and has established his agency in the Latourell building under his own name, the Smith Motor Car company. Mr. Smith will handle Chevrolet cars and promises that the sale of Chevrolet cars will be pushed in this section as never before.

Mr. Smith, who is an O.A.C. graduate of 1912, expects to find a number of friends and acquaintances here. Mrs. Smith is also an O.A.C. graduate. They expect to move here next week and will occupy the Axtell house.

OUTLOOK DRAWS THE LINE

The Outlook runs practically all kinds of free publicity. The only test is this, is it of general public benefit? This covers local, state and national affairs. It includes, Red Cross, Near East Relief, fire protection, fairs, conventions, meetings, etc. It includes political matters of whatever party insofar as the editor conceives the publicity to be of public benefit.

But when the non-partisan league, which is trying to get a foothold and then a strangle grip in Oregon, asks us to announce a general mass meeting with the date and place, and urge people to attend, etc., the Outlook feels compelled to draw the line on free publicity in this case.

One paragraph of the letter, which is probably sent broadcast over the state, read as follows: "We invite all members of the non-political organizations such as the Granges, Farmers' Unions, Farm Bureaus and Labor Unions to meet with us. It is agreed by all that the main thing to do for the producer on the farm and in the cities is to formulate a plan by which they can make in harmony politically as it is necessary to first control the state politically before attempting to organize cooperatives in the industrial field."

"The non-partisan league has fought the money power of the United States for the past six years. The league is the political organization through which the non-political organizations such as the granges, farm bureaus, farmers' unions and labor organizations can function."

The letter also states that dues have been reduced from $18 to $12. In the above quotation the blackface is ours. This is done to call attention to the fact that the non-partisan league is by its own admission the most partisan of all leagues. Granges, farm bureaus, etc., are fundamentally non-partisan, non-political organizations. Yet the non-partisan league tries to play on this fact as a reason why members should join a strictly partisan and political organization which traps the unwary by calling itself the non-partisan league.

The name itself is a lie. The name and the methods and purposes of the league and its record in states where it has been dominant are enough to put any thinking man on his guard against its insidious propaganda and work.

The editor was in one of the North Dakota strongholds of the league last summer and was shown by disinterested citizens some of the evidence of the disrupting work of the league and North Dakota is probably a more fertile field for Townleyism than Oregon.

North Dakota has had enough of the league. It has been a sad and costly lesson.

May we not hope that Oregon farmers will not be so gullible as some others have been. The help the league promises the producer is a phantom, an ignis fatuus, a will-o'-the-wisp. It is worse. It means in the end disorganization and disruption of financial and economic institutions and principles which have been years in building up to a sound and progressive basis.

The non-partisan league is a fine and profitable scheme for the organizer but has no other permanent benefit to offer. Therefore, beware, of tying up to it unless you want to get stung.

FRUIT EXPOSITION IN SEATTLE, NOV. 21-26

The purpose of the Pacific Northwest Fruit Exposition, to be held in Seattle, November 21 to 26, is to recognize the fruit industry which is fast becoming one of the biggest industries of the Pacific Northwest and to celebrate the good fortune which has come to this section of the country through its fruit crop this year.

There is to be a queen enthroned and reigning over all the festival features of the Pacific Northwest Fruit Exposition, which will be held during Thanksgiving Week. The sovereign lady is to be chosen from among the girls of Washington, as the managers did not deem it practical to extend it beyond the boundaries of the one Pacific Northwest state. The queen is to be officially known as Queen Pippin, and to be surrounded during the week by a bevy of five maids to be classed as Peaches. The Peaches also are to be chosen by vote, and one is to come from each of the five congressional districts of Washington.

Letters were read from absent members who although away at college or otherwise employed still keep up their interest and help in the local organization. Mrs. W. R. Walters sent a request for the circle to furnish a number for the grange program Saturday afternoon. Miss Margery Lyman was chosen to represent the circle and will give a reading. Plans were also made for a bazaar to be given December 17.

After the business session the girls were invited to the dining room where banana special cakes and candies were served. So happily were they entertained that the girls gave a vote of thanks to their hostess then three cheers for each for Mrs. Nora Withrow and Mrs. Josephine Knighton who assisted in serving the refreshments.
