Mr. and Mrs. Walter Metzger of Boring are being congratulated upon the arrival Wednesday morning of a 7-pound daughter, who has been named Doris Margery. Mr. Metzger's mother, Mrs. John Metzger, is at Boring caring for the mother and baby, who are doing well.

Dr. Geo. Inglis and family moved into their new home on Wallula Heights Saturday. They consider themselves fortunate in getting located before the storm came. The Inglis home is one of the several fine new residences built here this fall.

S. S. Thompson and wife moves into their new home on Sunday during the storm. The garage where they had been living during the building of their new house was not very comfortable during the cold weather and they were glad to get settled in warmer quarters.

Bursting water pipes due to the freeze is causing considerable trouble in some places. Wednesday, Mrs. Leslie St. Clair and mother, Mrs. Shaw, attended Pomona grange at Fairview and during their absence one of the pipes upstairs bursted and flooded the house. Mr. St. Clair found the house full of water when he went home at 5 o'clock. There is great difficulty in getting rugs and carpets dry in this weather. Not only was the house flooded but the water froze all over the floor. There have been some other reports of similar conditions in other homes.
