

PLEASANT HOME PASTOR WILL DISCUSS POWER

"A reservoir of strength awaits your use," says the Rev. Earl B. Cotton, pastor of the Pleasant Home Methodist church. Are you suffering from physical, mental inertia or moral weakness? The powerhouse is at hand. Convert the wires, turn on the switch, and use the light and power which are yours for the asking. How? As you get mental power by association with great thinkers, so you require all strength by association with Him who is at once the Great Mind, the Great Spirit, and the Great Expression of Power.

"Strength through communion with the Divine," is the topic of the morning service of worship at the Pleasant Home Methodist church for this Sunday at 11 a. m. The pastor, Rev. Earl B. Cotton, will lead in this study.

The evening service at 7:30 will be in charge of the committee of which W. R. Crosier is chairman. The subject of study is the "Life of Aaron."

All are cordially invited to attend this "Pleasant Church Home."

Ten-Minute Creamed Salmon.

Make a good white sauce by rubbing a tablespoonful of flour into a tablespoonful of melted butter. When smooth add 1 cup of cold milk, and stir while it is cooking. Add 1 can of pink or chum salmon separated into small pieces. If the sauce seems too thick, add a little of the liquor from the fish. Serve on soft buttered toast or square soda crackers. This may be varied by adding one-half teaspoonful of curry powder to the sauce, rubbing it in with the flour and butter. Serve for breakfast, dinner or supper. It can be prepared in ten minutes.

LOCAL HOLSTEIN MAKES RECORD

STANHOPE BELLE JOHANNA NO. 282677.

By producing 32,453.8 pounds of milk in 365 days, Stanhope Johanna No. 282677, a Holstein cow belonging to H. G. Mullenhoff, farmer living six miles east of Gresham, captured the state record for milk production. The cow also won the record as second high cow in the Holstein Friesian association for production of milk for seven and 30-day periods.

This cow which made her records under ordinary farm conditions, freshened on February 5, 1921, and started her official test on February 9, 1921. She made the following records: Seven-day period 859.7 pounds of milk and 34.22 pounds of butter. Thirty-day period, 3560.6 pounds of milk, 128.32 pounds of butter. 365 days, 32,453.8 pounds of milk, 1242.5 pounds of butter. Her highest single day was 138 pounds of milk.

The cow was suffering from a sprained leg for a portion of the period during the test, which is believed to have cut down her production. There was also a period when Mr. Mullenhoff was away and did the milking.

Mr. Mullenhoff said that during the test he fed a patent feed turned out by a Portland company. The cow was bred and raised by Mr. Mullenhoff.

HOSPITAL AND SCHOOLS FOR DISABLED WORKERS

The Outlook has just received a pamphlet published by the State Industrial Accident Commission which tells of the important and gratifying results obtained during the past two years in the work of rebuilding the men and women who have been seriously injured in industrial accidents while under the protection of the Oregon workmen's compensation law. There are two angles to this work. One is the physical reconstruction of injured men and the other is the vocational retraining of those whose injuries prevent them from returning to their old employment.

The commission has established a well equipped physiotherapy department in connection with its offices in Portland and a smaller branch in Salem. In this department from 75 to 100 men are receiving daily treatments for stiffened or ankylosed joints, for atrophied or wasted muscles, for nerve injuries, back injuries, for conditions following bad fractures or infections or lacerations, and a hundred and one other conditions which follow in the wake of serious industrial accidents.

These men are attended by their regular physicians until their condition reaches a stage where special reconstruction treatments are needed, and then they are placed in the charge of the commission. Competent surgeons are employed in the work of reconstruction and they are assisted by men trained for this work largely in the government reconstruction hospitals.

The vocational rehabilitation of the more seriously injured workmen coming under the protection of the workmen's compensation law was made by an act passed by the legislature in January, 1920, $100,000 was first set aside, and later 2 1/2 per cent of the commission's monthly income was added to it. This gave them ample funds to provide special training for all disabled persons coming under this law who could not return to their former work so that they can become self-sustaining. Prior to February 1, 1922, the commission had sent questionnaires to 449 men and women whose injuries were of such severity as to entitle them to vocational training. Of that number 74 had not been returned, 235 were finished, without retraining, 63 were in training, 51 had finished training, 17 dropped out before training was completed, one was temporarily suspended and eight were pending.

Various trades in which men are taking training include mechanical drawing and drafting, auto mechanics, battery work, mining engineering, barbering, farm mechanics and tractors, vulcanizing, civil engineering, pharmacy, poultry husbandry, dairying and bee keeping, general agriculture, wireless telegraphy, salesmanship, bookkeeping, stenography, candy making, shoe repairing and others. Most of them are receiving this retraining in various vocational schools of the state such as Oregon Agricultural College, various technical schools, business colleges and automobile schools, while others are learning a trade as apprentices or under special tutors.
