Entered as second-class matter March 2, 1911, at the Postoffice at Gresham, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

THE AIR IS FULL OF IT.

Can we realize that one of the great revolutionary changes of the century is rapidly taking place? It is as revolutionary as the automobile. The papers are full of it. An exchange describes it as follows:

A slight turn of the wrist, and lo, a voice comes out of space. A concert is announced and immediately the room is filled with a rich, resonant, singing voice, accompanied by rippling notes from a piano.

If you have never had the pleasure of sitting in a room and listening to a concert being given hundreds of miles away, you have a wonderful treat coming. Today there are thousands of individuals who can call in their friends most any evening and treat them to a first-class concert because they possess a wireless receiving set.

While it is true that wireless communication has advanced rapidly in the last few years, it is still in its infancy. Its possibilities are almost beyond comprehension, and any day or night may bring out a new and startling phase of this great invention.

But even now the entertaining concert is only one phase of wireless messages. Every night one can listen to complete market reports, weather conditions and business indications. Broadcasting stations send out messages from such business writers as Roger W. Babson the great statistician. The farmer is already listening in for the latest prices on his crops, and gradually the wireless method of communication is going to permeate the whole field of business.

But, says this exchange, this new method lacks the personal touch, often so inspiring, while it broadens so extensively the scope and enjoyment of all human activities.

WOMAN EXPRESSES HER THANKS FOR ASSISTANCE

Gresham, Ore., March 29, 1922.
Editor Outlook:—Would you be kind enough to grant me a small space in the Outlook in which to sincerely thank those friends who contributed to the gift of money which was brought to me last evening? And also a word of deepest appreciation to those who have faithfully assisted in the duties about the home and in other ways for nearly four weeks. I am not hoping to express my gratitude in words for I have been very deeply moved by this unexpected expression of the good will of so many wondering if I am worthy of so much. I want to say that the memory of these kindnesses will abide with me always.
MRS. I. T. BENT.
