The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth, and even for evermore.—Psalm 121: 8.

MEANS MUCH TO THE FARMERS

Unless the railroads block the order of the Interstate Commerce Commission reducing freight rates ten per cent, by tying up the matter in the courts, the reduction will mean $127,000,000 to the farmers of the country. The shippers have netted $55,000,000 as a result of the temporary reduction in agricultural commodities granted for a temporary period of six months as a result of the American Farm Bureau Federation protest. Another $39,000,000 was saved to the shippers in the reduction made in the Western Hay and Grain case. Other reductions show that since the farmer pays 55 per cent of the freight he will in all get the benefit of $220,000,000, and as ninety-three millions have already been saved there would be a balance of $127,000,000 to the credit of the farmer. This is a splendid justification for the work of the Farm Bureau. It is a clear demonstration of its advantage to every tiller of the soil.

It remains to be seen whether the railroads will accept the decision. Naturally they will squeak, and make out a telling case on paper. The plain fact, however, is that a still greater leveling process must be passed through before equity is established. Summed up, the American railroads must either show more competent management, or face anew the agitation for government ownership. The business of the country has been hurt immeasurably and the public badly injured by the preposterous passenger rates, and it needs no argument to prove that business readjustment has been held back persistently by the burden of freight charges. If the railroads are wise they will accept the finding of the commission without contest. It is time the farmers came into a little of their own.

WAS MOONSHINE ENTIRELY TO BLAME?

The entire state has been stirred by the news of the murder of Sheriff Kendall of Linn county and the Rev. Roy Healy of Albany on Wednesday afternoon by Dave West, an aged farmer, at his place near Albany, and the ending of his own life by the murderer. People in every community are asking, "Might a similar tragedy not have happened here?" The next question is "Who is to blame?"

Certainly the blame cannot all be placed on the misguided man whose all-too-sure aim snuffed out the lives of two useful citizens in his defense of what he considered "personal liberty," and who then took his own life rather than to submit to arrest for his crime, making three widows and two small children fatherless. "Every man who buys moonshine is as guilty as hell. Every man who drinks the stuff is as guilty as the bootlegger. There is a curse on every man who has anything to do with it," exclaimed one of the posse at the West homestead.

Certainly there is no difference between the offense of the bootlegger who peddles the goods and patron who buys it. They are both contemptible and by their actions break down respect not only for the prohibition law but for all laws, as witness the Albany tragedy.

But what of the citizen who is neither a bootlegger nor a boozier—the law abiding citizen? Is he entirely guiltless? Not if he is neglecting to do all in his power to back law enforcement agencies of all kinds. Not if he is heedless to the fact that law enforcement of the prohibition law prevails largely because of politics. Appointment of enforcement agents is said to be often made largely for political reasons without regard to the efficiency of the agents.

An aroused citizenry must bring the remedy. Those who boast of their Americanism must be shown that they are following the lead of aliens and criminals if they attempt to break down respect for the laws of the land by conniving with the bootlegger and the moonshiner.

FIRST STATE BANK
GRESHAM, OREGON

FINANCIAL CONDITIONS REVIEWED.

By Robt. E. Smith, Portland, Ore.
The Federal Reserve System, like an attentive physician, keeps its finger on the pulse of the nation and issues monthly bulletins regarding the health of its mighty patient. In compiling its bulletins, it has reports from each one of the 12 Federal reserve banks, which are situated in the large cities of various parts of the country, namely: Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Atlanta, Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Dallas and San Francisco. The banks have in their turn collected data throughout their respective districts. By this process the bulletins of the Federal Reserve System are rendered comprehensive in their scope and authentic in their conclusions.

Oregon is a part of the 12th federal reserve district, headquarters of which are with the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco. Branch banks of the 12th district are located at Los Angeles, Portland, Seattle, Salt Lake City and Spokane. The reports of the 12th district, therefore, cover the extreme western part of the country.

Recent reports from all the districts have been unanimous in their iteration of the optimistic note. Throughout the country in the money and banking situation generally the important feature is the continued decline of interest rates. Money rates have been declining now for more than a year and as a rule prevailing rates on various classes of loans are lower than at any time since 1917. Were it not for the investment demand in connection with government, municipal and industrial financing, there can be no doubt but that they would be still lower. The exceptional activity of the bond market, coupled with an extensive rise in prices, has aided in drawing public attention to the abundance of credit available at the present time, as well as the low interest rates. The upward tendency of commodity prices noted during the past few months and the increasing activity in business have raised the question as to whether or not interest rates are still above the normal and if they will not continue to fall for some time in the future, and, in turn follows the natural question, what is normal with respect to interest rates? Though low, interest rates are not so low as they have been at previous times of depression.
