Two kinds of friction

It has been proved that as much as 20% of the power delivered to the driving wheels may be lost through friction, due to the use of an incorrect oil.

This friction may be of two kinds—the friction of metal on metal, due to the failure of the oil to preserve a lubricating film between the bearing surfaces, or the friction of oil on oil—the internal, molecular friction of the lubricant.

Too heavy an oil, or an oil lacking in "oiliness"—the quality that makes it cling to the bearings while at the same time offering a minimum of internal or fluid friction—constitutes a direct drain on the available horsepower of your motor.

The right body at all operating temperatures

Made from carefully selected crudes and scientifically refined by our patented high-vacuum process, Zerolene has great "oiliness." It clings to bearing surfaces, while offering in itself a minimum of frictional resistance to the engine power.

Zerolene maintains the right lubricating body under all conditions. As the engine gets hot, bearing clearances decrease. Analysis of Zerolene shows that the variations in its body, at the various engine temperatures, follow in close relation the decrease in bearing clearances.

Because of their "oiliness," stability and purity, Zerolene oils give perfect lubrication and help to develop the maximum power, speed and gasoline mileage of the car.

BIG NEW FEATURES ADDED TO COLOSSUS

Made even more tremendous than in 1921 by the recent addition of many more trained wild animal displays and the purchase of Europe's biggest horse show, Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey combined will exhibit at Portland August 25, 1922.

All who glance over the cable news or who read the magazines must have noted the many contracts entered into by the Ringling Brothers for foreign talent last winter. A special ship was chartered this spring to bring the hundreds of human performers, trained animal acts and equine displays to America. More than a million persons saw the mammoth new circus of 1922 during the weeks that it exhibited in Madison Square Garden, New York. Now this marvelous exhibition is touring the country aboard five great railroad trains. It is a third bigger than the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey show of last season. It is ten times larger than any other circus now on tour.

Big as is this wonder circus of 1922—with its more than 20 trained wild-animal displays in steel arenas, fully 150 wonderfully schooled trick horses, 700 men and women performers, 100 clowns, and scores of features—the price of admission is no more than before. And though the trained animal numbers and the immense horse show were circuses in themselves while touring Europe, they are not offered as separate attractions by the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey combined shows. Instead all are on one gigantic program. Everything is in one mammoth main tent. One ticket admits to all and includes admission to the tremendous double menagerie. There are more than a thousand animals in the zoo of this circus and these include a tiny baby hippopotamus only recently born, and accompanied by its three-ton mother. Another remarkable zoological feature is an armored rhinoceros, the only one known to exist and for which the Ringlings recently refused an offer of $30,000.—Adv.

At the election Wednesday evening, 47 votes were cast in favor of the Pounder property, 23 for the Tanner property and five for the Tom Evans property. On Thursday evening there were 93 votes cast in favor of the bonds and only 30 against it.

HOW ONE TEACHER TEACHES RURAL SCHOOL

A teacher who picks the smallest communities she can get—such an anomaly is Miss Margaret V. Thomas, now a student in the University of Oregon summer school. Miss Thomas never tries for a big school but selects the smaller places from choice, realizing an opportunity to do a great deal besides simply teach the school subjects. Miss Thomas's outfit includes stereopticon slides and a carbide generator, and an occasional motion-picture film is shown.

"We produce the 'movies' in the darkened schoolhouse," Miss Thomas explains, "and a victrola plays between the pictures while we ventilate the room. The children are eager to help. They are happy to be allowed to run the victrola or even open the windows."

Not only does Miss Thomas take the slides to those people who are far from cities and towns of any size, but after making them interested in doing things on a community scale she organizes children and adults into groups and manages basket socials, picnics, plays, all with the intention of helping them raise the funds which enable them to bring in slides more often.

"They are so responsive," she said. "If you love them and do things for them, they will love you—almost to death. And those children are not 'fed up' on city movies; they get a good deal out of the university films. The people in the small settlements are pioneers; their children are the children of pioneers, and are the finest in the country. They deserve the best the state has to offer."

Miss Thomas has used the industrial films most, also the geographic and historical. Her whole aim is to stimulate community life in the smallest places and to add to the sum total of happiness. She taught last year at Heceeta, a lonely spot on the Oregon coast, and next year she will be near Reedsport.
