ASSAULT CASE TURNED OVER TO GRAND JURY

About 30 Gresham people attended the hearing in the city hall Monday of A. G. Guynup who was charged with assault against James Peterson. The hearing was made before John Brown as justice of the peace and took place at 10 o'clock Monday morning. Mr. Lemox, an attorney from Portland acted as attorney for the accused, and Mr. Mowry, deputy prosecuting attorney from Portland, represented the state.

James Peterson was the first one to take the witness stand. He, however, seemed confused and was unable to or would not tell a complete story of what happened.

Mrs. Nora Withrow next took the witness stand in defense of Mr. Peterson. When questioned she said there had been an old feud between the two men. Mrs. Withrow did not see Mr. Guynup hit Mr. Peterson and knew nothing about it until she saw Mr. Peterson on Powell street and she then summoned a doctor.

Mr. Guynup had no witnesses in his defense.

The main witness for Mr. Peterson was W. L. Robertson who acted as marshal during fair time. Mr. Robertson was called to restore order after the quarrel was over and Mr. Peterson was at the doctor's office. The marshal helped the injured man home and put him to bed. At about this time Mr. Blair, an old gentleman living in the flat near the Peterson house came up and, when questioned by the marshal, said he knew nothing of what had occurred but he afterward said Peterson hit Guynup first. Mr. Guynup soon came to the house and told the marshal that Mr. Peterson swore at him and struck him and that he then hit Mr. Peterson with an iron bar but that he hoped Mr. Peterson would get well.

The story of what happened as far as can be learned is that Mr. Peterson went over to Mr. Guynup's home and called Mr. Guynup vile names and struck him and that Mr. Guynup hit Mr. Peterson several times breaking his right arm, dislocating his shoulder and injuring his head. When a search was made for the bar it was found to be locked up in the chicken coop where Dave Weaver had placed it after the quarrel.

There are one or two facts about the case that do not remain quite clear. The two parts of Mr. Peterson's set of false teeth were found in different places, one piece in the Guynup yard and the other on the bridge between the Guynup and Peterson houses. Mr. Guynup claims Mr. Peterson stabbed him with a knife but there is only a scratch where he was supposed to have been stabbed. Mr. Peterson says he did not have his knife with him.

Mr. Lemox was given a chance to plead Mr. Guynup's side of the case and then the case was turned over to Mr. Mowry, the prosecuting attorney. Mr. Mowry said the case was a serious one and advised turning it over to the grand jury, which has been done.

READY FOR THE JUDGES

Members of the boys' and girls' clubs made a fine showing at the county fair last week. They are making the older ones look to their laurels. Their calves, pigs and sheep were the big attraction. This picture shows a girl about to exhibit her black-faced sheep at some fair to be held soon somewhere. But she's just like our boys and girls and, like them, has a good club leader and parents who like to help her make a success of her club work. The boys and girls should begin early to prepare for next year's fair and plan to do still better.

LOCAL EXHIBITORS WIN MANY PRIZES

Miss Cora Glese as usual won a great many prizes on her beautiful floral exhibits at the fair this year.

Miss Glese won first prizes on many varieties including daisies, sweet williams, everlasting flowers and roses. She also won first place on her centerpiece, on specimen begonia and geranium and on her collections of begonias, geraniums and fuchsias. Mrs. Emma Ross won first place on her collection of hanging baskets.

Mrs. Anna Full had the largest house plant collection and also the largest collection of cactus plants. Miss Florence Schenk entered the only asters in the entire floral department. Miss Schenk won first place with her collection of cut flowers. She entered in the professional florist class as there was no other classification for her beautiful annuals and won first place over the exhibit from Crissys Gladoll Farm. This was due to the fact that the gladioli were debarred from the exhibit. Perhaps this was because the gladioli should have a class all their own. They are such a wonderful flower that they do not rank in the same class with the annuals and perennials.

The floral department was unusually beautiful this year and was filled to the capacity of the building. The summer annuals were unusually attractive.

Mrs. Geo. Tucker won a number of prizes on her collection of gladioli and dahlias.

The awards in the floral department were as follows:

CHARLES TALLMAN WINS HIGH HONORS WITH CALF

Charles Tallman was the lucky club boy in the fair this year, having won a number of enviable prizes. He won first place on his junior Jersey calf and grand championship with the same animal. This promising young heifer was entered in open class and won junior championship also. He also won first place in the showing and handling contest in Jersey division.

Last year Charles entered club work but did not win any prizes worth mentioning. He persevered however and this year took home about all the honors one boy could.

CHAUTAQUA PROGRAMS OF INTEREST TO MANY

One of the most interesting features of the Multnomah county fair this year have been the chautauqua programs which have been given by various organizations both afternoon and evening in the chautauqua tent. Mr. Snashall had charge of the chautauqua programs and should be given credit for its splendid success.

Robert C. Wright gave an interesting talk Tuesday evening on the "Human Product of Our Schools." He began his talk by asking the question "Why do business men find pupils from the elementary schools deficient in arithmetic?" and answered it by telling of visits made to various schools. During these visits he placed problems before the pupils which they should have been able to solve and in many cases the pupils were unable to do so. Mr. Wright told of how he had gained information from the pupils by asking them to tell in what subjects they felt they were most deficient and the answers in most cases were arithmetic and grammar and in some cases were spelling and grammar.

The entertainment Wednesday afternoon and evening was in charge of the W. C. T. U. Citizenship department. Mr. Cartozian of Cartozian Brothers in Portland brought out some beautiful oriental rugs and described and told what the designs on them stood for. One of the rugs which was considered the most beautiful had been woven many years ago by a Caucasian woman who had taken four or five years to weave it. Because of its age, it is estimated to be worth $4800.

New Prohibition Bill is Before Congress.

B. F. Mulkey, a prominent attorney of Portland, gave an interesting talk on prohibition Thursday afternoon as a part of the W. C. T. U. program. "Liquor will never be eradicated until we have raised three, or four generations who have never had a taste of it" was the statement made by Mr. Mulkey. He also makes the statement that the amendment to the constitution regarding prohibition does not say what constitutes intoxicating liquors. In his opinion, one-half of 1 per cent alcohol should constitute an intoxicating liquor. Mr. Mulkey says prohibition was enforced during the worst crime wave in this country and he gives as a solution to the problem of prohibition the strict enforcement of the laws. Oregon has all the laws needed regarding prohibition but they must be enforced.

A bill was before congress last winter which if passed will compel the deportation of all aliens who disregard the dry law. This bill passed the house and is pending in the senate. Statistics show that 80 per cent of those who violate the prohibition and narcotics laws are aliens.

"There is one defect in the prohibition law" says Mr. Mulkey. He then followed this statement by saying that the law prohibits the manufacture of intoxicating liquors but it doesn't cut off the base of supply. If a moonshiner still is found which is not in operation, there is no law which demands the confiscation of the mash when it is found. The dry law should also demand that the moonshiner be sent to jail for at least six months when caught in the act.

Other numbers on the W. C. T. U. program Thursday afternoon were an address by Mrs. Mary M. Gilbert, president of the Portland union, and a talk on the Children's Farm Home by Mrs. Ada Wallace Unruh. Miss Adella Towle sang a vocal solo accompanied by Mrs. J. Sterling at the piano. In the evening Mrs. L. L. Vincent, county vice president, addressed the audience. The Columbia Ladies' orchestra also furnished some excellent numbers. J. H. Herwig, state president of the Anti-Saloon League, gave an interesting talk on prohibition.

The boys' and girls' clubs of Multnomah county assisted by their leaders, furnished the chautauqua program for Friday afternoon. Among other splendid numbers the club pageant the "Spirit of the Home" was put on.

The Parent-Teacher associations had charge of the entertainment for Friday evening. Mrs. J. Lynch was responsible for securing the splendid numbers. Troutdale furnished three numbers, Lynch two, Gilbert two, Gresham two, Victory two, Lusted one, Buckley two and Corbett two. The large audience who witnessed the entertainment showed their appreciation of the cooperation which all members present manifested by their willingness to do their bit.

The W. C. T. U. were again in charge of the Saturday's chautauqua feature. There was an address by Mrs. M. L. T. Hidden on "Christian Citizenship."

LIGHTNING STRIKES HOUSE; TOTAL LOSS

The residence of Mrs. A. H. Brannan and Miss A. M. Brannan, on the Hogan road, about a mile east of town, was totally destroyed by fire between nine and ten o'clock last night. Although mysterious in its origin there is practical certainty that the fire was caused by lightning which is believed to have struck the house during a severe thunder storm which broke in this vicinity about 8 o'clock.

In the house at the time were Mrs. A. H. Brannan and her sister-in-law, Miss A. M. Brannan, owners, and Mrs. Brannan's two children. Miss Brannan is a teacher in the Franklin high school. They felt the shock of the bolt, thinking it had struck the house, or very near, and they went up stairs and made a careful inspection but failed to see any sign of fire or damage. About a half hour later it was found a large part of the roof was ablaze.

The fire was seen by several near neighbors who rushed to the assistance of the occupants. Some of the furniture was removed.

No fire alarm was heard in Gresham. It was said the nearby telephones were put out by the electric storm. Scores of autos soon appeared, however, coming from all directions, bringing many men who lent all the assistance possible. The Gresham fire department came with the chemical and helped save some of the chicken houses located near the burning house.

The house was burned to the ground. It was built about ten years ago and first occupied by Ed. Sleret. The Brannans bought it about a year and a half ago of W. S. Jones.

Mrs. Brannan had equipped the place with a pressure water system and electric lights. There was a full basement which was well stocked with canned fruit and canned chicken, about 80 quarts of the latter had just been canned.

The house and contents were insured. Fred Todd, who lives near the Brannan home, felt the shock and thinks his house was struck at the same time as the Brannan house but no damage was apparent. The new residence of Dr. Todd is across the road from the house that was burned.

THIEVES BREAK INTO GRESHAM HOME

Thieves broke into the home of Dr. and Mrs. Geo. Inglis Sunday night while the family were away, taking articles of considerable value. Dr. and Mrs. Inglis had taken a trip to eastern Oregon and did not return until about noon Monday. When they entered the house the first discovery of the robbery was made. The articles stolen were a Sonora phonograph, an electric sweeper, an electric iron, $200 worth of clothes belonging to Miss Mable Inglis and a new suit of clothes belonging to Dr. Inglis. Some silverware is also reported to be missing from the house.

M. M. Squire was notified and he came to make an investigation.

A minor robbery occurred in Gresham during the fair when someone slipped into the poultry building and carried away all the premium ribbons that were attached to the coops. This was blamed on the gypsies that were camped on the fair grounds but there is no certainty of it.

MULTNOMAH GRANGE MEETS NEXT SATURDAY

The Multnomah Grange will meet in regular session next Saturday, August 26, at the Orient Grange hall. Mrs. George Alder has asked Miss Elva Dolan to take charge of the social program in the afternoon. Those present will be asked to respond to the roll call with a short recitation or a few-line quotation or a memory gem. A debate on the question "Resolved that art is more interesting than nature." There is to be another feature of the program which has not been revealed in detail but it will be in the nature of a contest.

The fair is over and so is also the larger part of the busy season so there is nothing to keep the farmers at home. Come and attend grange and you will go home feeling all the better for it.

Ice Cream Social to Be Held at Damascus.

The Parent-Teacher association is giving an ice cream social next Saturday evening, August 19, at the Union schoolhouse, District No. 26, Clackamas county. A short program has been arranged. An invitation is extended to everyone. The proceeds will go toward the piano fund.
