FARMERS AND FREIGHT RATES.

It is announced by Senator Capper of Kansas, head of the "agricultural bloc" of the Senate, that he will urge legislation at the December session to reduce freight rates. The farm bloc of the House is making similar plans. The agricultural bloc contend that existing freight rates are proving ruinous to the farmer.

The farmer must get his products to the markets in order to realize on his investments. With many farm products, grain, berries, etc., when the necessary expenses of production are paid, and the freight, there is not enough left out of the receipts to pay taxes and interest. The United States has abundant crops, but many farmers are letting their crops go to waste rather than harvest them at a loss, and some farmers are deserting their farms and forfeiting their places, unable to meet overdue taxes and mortgages.

A Gresham man hears from a Dakota farmer that he will burn oats for fuel this winter.

Another Gresham man, recently back from North Dakota, reports the conditions there extremely deplorable.

The Gresham Fruit Growers company tried shipping berries to middle western markets but the high freight rates made it unprofitable.

One of the live issues is going to be, and is right now, a readjustment of prices so that all—not a few—can live and prosper.

A well-informed financier says that much cannot be expected from the hoped-for increased buying power of the farmer for the increase has not materialized to any appreciable extent.

PORTLAND TELEGRAM MOVES.

When a newspaper outgrows its building or leased quarters it may be taken as an indication of its growing popularity and increasing business. This has happened to The Portland Telegram. On last Saturday its entire plant and offices were moved from the Pittcock Block, where it has been for eight years, to its own new building at Eleventh and Washington streets. It is to be known as the Telegram Building.

The new structure is three stories high, especially designed and built to house The Telegram Editorial, Advertising, Circulation and Mechanical departments, and The Telegram staff expects to be comfortable and happy in its new home. The architecture is Colonial in style and the tower is almost a replica of Independence Hall, Philadelphia.

The Telegram was founded April 16th, 1877, by the Oregonian Publishing company, by which it was conducted until July 24th, 1914, when it was sold to J. E. Wheeler and L. R. Wheeler. The latter assumed actual control of The Telegram the day the World War began, July 28th, 1914. Since that time it has doubled in circulation.

On or about November 15th, 1922, The Telegram will publish a Progress Edition devoted to chronicling the progress of the Oregon country, and also making reference to this step in advance in The Telegram's own history.

The Outlook editor is a close reader of The Telegram and admires its high moral tone and its staunch loyalty to every worthy civic and patriotic endeavor. While not always agreeing with The Telegram on political issues we believe it is fearless and fair. We believe a newspaper can have a conscience as well as an individual and that The Telegram has that characteristic.

The Outlook offers congratulations and wishes for a long and useful life.

Ex-pastor a convict; ex-minister a bigamist. How the newspapers like to play up such statements in the headlines. It's all right if in reading you put the emphasis on the "ex."

Music In History.

"Early Roman music must have been of the most primitive kind. But when classic little Greece was conquered, the victors brought to Rome its treasures in both art and music; its architects and sculptors were to adorn their city; its singers and players were to enliven their banquets, and to assist later at their gladiatorial shows.

"Music was, at first under the control of the government; and laws were made to regulate the number of instruments which were to be used in certain ceremonies. . . The Romans being a warlike people, loved best warlike instruments, and as they conquered one after another of the countries of the ancient world, many varieties of musical instruments were included in the spoils. These they either used as they found them or fashioned others which were suggested by them.

"As the Romans marched on to conquest, music became a real inspiration, second only to that of the "National Eagle" that led them on to victory."—Whitecomb.

ELTON WATKINS IS BOOSTED FOR CONGRESS

"The voters of the republican party and also the democrats have been turning queer dices in the past six months," says Webster Elton Greeley, in The Daily Journal.

He is boosting Elton Watkins for congress whom he says is "a very estimable man, opposing Pat McArthur, stand-pat member of the old guard."

"Who is Elton Watkins?" asks Greeley, and he proceeds to answer as follows:

"I know and still know but perhaps you don't so I am going to tell you something about this man who should succeed McArthur at Washington. "I found Watkins in his cozy little office in a downtown Portland skyscraper.

"I asked him a lot of questions. Then I went out into the street and made more inquiries. I talked to business men and merchants and good voters, and indifferent voters about Elton Watkins. It seems that a good many of them know Elton and like him.

"Watkins is a member of the legal profession of Portland. He has had long experience with the law and with human nature. He has met, not hundreds but thousands of people. He has been engaged in fights for the interests of the citizens of his community. All this has served to make him a man of high understanding; a man who can properly take up the battles of the people in the halls of congress and win for them.

"He knows the human heart. He knows what his fellow man wants and likes because he is one of the everyday type. He knows that the home owner and the business man and the dairyman and distributor all are good honest people, not asking for special privilege but desiring only a square deal in life. And knowing all those things he will fight for them.

"Watkins was formerly assistant United States attorney. During the war he gave of his time actively to the government, being engaged in a high order of secret service work. This is enough to show that he can be trusted to keep his word.

"The immigration is a subject that has engaged Mr. Watkins' attention for many months. He, like others of us, has seen the danger of thoughtless handling of our ports of entry. To permit the foreign populations to flow unceasingly over our lands, taking the jobs of Americans, accepting lower wages, giving power to the dishonest employer, is something that Watkins says he is dead against.

"I advocate strict immigration laws based upon the number of persons naturalized instead of the total number in this country as the present law provides," said Mr. Watkins. "The immigration question is a real menace to the United States. We must cure it by laws carefully written and forcefully observed."

"Watkins is warmly opposed to Japanese ownership of land in the United States. This is one of the salient planks of his platform.

"The Jap must not be permitted to take our lands and bleed the West of its resources," he says.

"As demonstration of Watkins' popularity I refer you to a meeting at Arbor lodge of a recent evening. Watkins' boosters, knowing the campaign was still young, had expected a small attendance. They nearly collapsed when the whole community made its way into the meeting hall. Fathers, mothers, big brother and big sister, the children and the baby were there.

"It was a great demonstration. Those people had heard of Watkins and had come to hear from his lips the story of oriental invasion. They had been aroused by the advent of Japanese families into their districts and they wanted to show Watkins their appreciation of his stand on the yellow question, which, in my mind, is fast becoming a problem of dreaded import."

He gives what he calls several planks from Watkins' platform. Among the things he advocates is a strict regulation of immigration; a merchant marine without graft and subsidies; a national bonus paid for by taxing profits and predatory wealth; a government hospital in Multnomah county for sick ex-service men; non-partisan tariff commission taking the tariff out of politics; prohibition of child labor; federal aid of highways, rivers, harbors; reclamation of arid and swamp lands; interchangeable mileage books; better labor laws; reduction of taxes by abolishing useless commissions and bureaus and consolidation of others. Watkins is opposed to alien ownership of lands. He promises to fight Newberryism, nepotism, the pending "ship-steal" as he calls it, and the sales tax.

Watkins is said to be a champion of every interest of the dairyman and farmer and a strong appeal is made to all such to support him.—Paid Adv.

PUBLIC SCHOOL Vote 314 x Yes

The purpose of the compulsory public school attendance bill is to insure the instruction of all Oregon children of grammar school age in a common language, a common history and common ideals, to the end that American unity shall be promoted, American ideals safeguarded and American institutions perpetuated.

This bill is proposed because its supporters believe that only by universal education of our children on standard and uniform lines can these things be achieved.

This bill proposes no religious restrictions. It contemplates no limitation of the right of the parent to teach religion to his child in his own way and according to his own belief. It raises no issue of religious difference.

This bill is purely a measure to insure that all children by attending the public schools shall be taught alike during their grammar school years, so that their outlook may grow to be a unified outlook for the common weal and for their country and its institutions.

To make an all-American nation we must have all-American instruction of our children along recognized standard lines. Ignorance of American ideals and institutions and language is the greatest menace to them, because those who do not understand them properly do not support them.

OREGON WOMAN GIVES RELIEF IN SMYRNA

"Never was a group of babies brought into the world under stranger or sadder surroundings," states Dr. Esther Lovejoy of Portland in a message just received by J. J. Handsaker, state director, Near East Relief. "I have just returned to Constantinople from a week in the inferno of Smyrna. I worked day and night directing the birth of hundreds of infants. Many were born on the planks of the wharf, the laboring mothers being protected from the panic stricken crowd only by the thin white line of American sailors. One baby was born while its young mother was standing in line unwilling to give up her place even for the birth of her first child.

"Turkish soldiers systematically rob the refugees, wrenching rings from women's fingers. The quiet of the night is disturbed by piercing cries from young women and girls who are being taken by Turkish soldiers. They desert from their crimes only when the searchlights from American warships are turned on them."

Six shiploads of food have been dispatched by Near East Relief, for a population greater than Oregon's is homeless.

President Harding has appointed Will Hayes, National chairman, and Archie Roosevelt, executive secretary of a campaign for funds for relief of the Smyrna sufferers who now number nearly one million. At least $15,000,000 will be needed.

The Federal Council of the Churches of Christ, the Red Cross, the Knights of Columbus, Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A., Near East Relief, the Federation of Jewish Welfare societies, all have joined in this life saving movement, designating the Near East Relief as the agency for doing the work.

Contributions which are most urgently needed should be sent to Near East Relief, 613 Stock Exchange Bldg., Portland.
