County Superintendent W. C. Alderson and Miss Ethel Calkins presented this plan, which was adopted.

County chairmen of club projects were elected to aid in unifying the work in the different projects. These chairmen in consultation with the county club leader will plan the program of work for the year and in turn assist the local leaders in their plans and problems.

Exceedingly fine club demonstrations were given by the Hampshire Pig club of Fairview under the leadership of Mrs. Lewis Stone and by the Gresham Home Makers club under the leadership of Mrs. A. S. Hisey.

CLUB LEADERS WORK FOR A CLEANER FAIR

A clean fair, a better fair and a group of earnest loyal club leaders solidly back of the movement to put the Multnomah county fair on an educational basis was the aim of the meeting held yesterday in the grange hall.

The meeting was presided over by the president Mrs. J. Lynch. H. A. Lewis, president of the fair board, led the discussion and explained the stand of the directors. The board, he said, had faced many problems in its career and the fair had improved in most respects. He admitted that they had not yet reached the place where everything was as it should be but said that he as president and the other members of the board would be glad to cooperate in any way to help make the next fair a success without the objectionable features of the past few years.

Mrs. Chatman of the Portland Parent Teacher association, Mrs. Elmer Cook of the County Council of Parent-Teacher association, Rev. A. S. Hisey of the Powell Valley circuit of Methodist churches, F. N. Lasley of the Local Leaders organization, T. D. Kirkpatrick, city club leader of Portland and many others spoke on the question of the carnivals at the fair, especially the side shows and gambling devices. All the speakers were against the admission of such concessions to the fair grounds and a number said that they could not back or boost the fair as long as these conditions existed. The meeting was unanimous in the opinion that the morals of the boys and girls were of more value, many times over, than the fair, and if the fair could not be run without these objectionable features the fair should die. This was an extreme position. No one felt it would be necessary to discontinue the fair but that it could be run on an educational basis and by eliminating these features could secure the patronage it needs to make it a financial success. Each organization interested in the matter was invited by Mr. Lewis to send a representative to the fair board as a committee to consult with the directors as to ways and means to accomplish this result in the best manner. This suggestion was taken up and will be acted upon.

There was a difference of opinion as to the Sunday fair and this was a matter that has not been settled although it was agreed that the amusement features should be cut down on Sunday. One point that seems to be settled is that the parents, club leaders and the teachers in schools and Sunday schools have awakened to the need for protecting the morals of their boys and girls.

The club exhibits next year will be grouped by projects instead of by districts as has been the custom. Sewing exhibits will be together, cooking, gardening, etc. This will make for better displays, better comparison of work, more room and less work. In every way it is felt to be a decided step in advance.
