PUBLICITY WANTED.

Miss Lyons and Escanaba, Michigan, have gotten considerable front page publicity during the past week. Miss Lyons fooled the doctors, then fessed up, then denied that she had worked a hoax, and what turn the incident will take next no one, probably not even she, knows.

Now if some one could think up a better scheme to put Gresham on the map wouldn't it be great?

PUBLICITY NOT WANTED.

Queer people make up this world. Some want publicity and resort to queer means to get their names in the papers.

Prohibition officers in the nation's capital aided a flourishing bootlegging establishment. In the records confiscated were names of the bootleggers' customers, or prospective patrons, including many prominent citizens, army and navy officers, and others, a total of 433, it is said.

The Washington Post published the names—some of them—and then the publisher was appealed to by others to withhold their names. Result: More names published. Also the fact of the request to suppress them.

In an editorial the Post said: "A request to a newspaper to suppress legitimate news is similar to a request to a merchant to quit selling a certain legitimate kind of goods: Whenever a newspaper of general circulation favors a certain individual, group, class or section it risks its reputation and is immediately indicted for bad faith."

THE UNANSWERED "WHY."

Gresham, March 15.—To the Editor Gresham Outlook:—We are in full accord with all the editor said in the last issue of the Outlook, concerning the Golden Rule. But the question which he asks "Why don't we for the sake of humanity and our own good adopt and live it?" Ah, my friend that is the hardest "why" that any human being ever prayed over, or wrestled with.

Some rhymers have asked: Why is the wrong so strong And the right so weak and poor? Why goes black bread to the patient man, And gold to the evil doer?

Why died the noble cause We perilled life to save, While the baleful growth of an upstart sin O'ershadowed a nation's grave?

Why did the widow's son? He was all she had to bless; The children crowd 'round the selfish heart And gain but a cold caress.

Why came a throbbing pain To that heart so warm and fair, While the crown of wealth and of blithesome health Some lesser angels wear?

Why went that young life out On honor's perilous road? The carping tongue and the jealous mind Stay here to wound and goad.

Who reads the riddle right? And who can answer, why These clouds sweep over our mortal life?

Not you, who are priest, nor I. Aye, here is a "why" which no priest, poet, prophet or philosopher has ever yet answered, or ever will answer this side of eternity.

Astoria is to have a $175,000 hospital. Seaside will build a new bridge across the Necanicum river.

Premier Lenine has suffered an apoplectic stroke. Too much high living probably.

Portland capitalists propose a chain of tourist hotels covering popular resorts and scenic spots.

"Sugar advances again," says the news. More reason for a doctor to advise his patients to cut out the sweets.

In almost every town and city in Oregon there are indications of greatly increased activity in building. There were over 29 buyers, it is said, for a carload of finished lumber arriving in Portland the other day. The local mills are swamped with orders.

SHALL WE WORK FOR A CLEAN FAIR?

The movement started last fall by the county club leaders for a clean fair that all the people of Multnomah county can support without reserve has finally made itself felt.

The fair board has entered into an agreement with the representatives of the club leaders, the Parent-Teachers associations, the granges, the churches and other organizations whereby all gambling and other questionable and demoralizing activities shall be banished from the grounds. They have appointed a committee consisting of two of their own number and three of the cooperating organizations to have full control of all the amusement and concession features.

Whether or not the fair shall be open on Sunday will depend upon the vigor and earnestness of the support given the fair board in the sale of the season tickets. The sale of 2000 will insure the closing of the fair on Saturday evening, in keeping with former policy. This is about twice the number of tickets as have been sold in former years, but with the help of all the cooperating organizations this should be an easy task.

We want the fair to succeed. We want it to get out of debt. It must be thoroughly cleaned up, so that any visitor, boy or girl, may see all of it without the least danger of contamination in any way. It must be operated in keeping with the Christian principles of the sacredness of the Sabbath day.

With the assurance that the fair will be run in keeping with the above principles we can do our part gladly and without reserve.—Rev. A. S. Hisey, in the Circuit Rider.

NEW BOOKS AT GRESHAM LIBRARY

"Lady Bountiful," G. A. Birmingham. If you are seeking a light-hearted, irresponsible, sparkling story of real people, with an ingenious plot and unusual situation, Mr. Birmingham's "Lady Bountiful" will delight you.

"The One I Knew Best," Frances H. Burnett. The many admirers of Mrs. Burnett and her stories "Head of the House of Coomb," "Robin," etc., will enjoy this story of herself.

"Gigolo," Edna Ferber. "Gigolo," "If I Should Ever Travel," "Not a Day Over Twenty-one," "Sudden Sixties," together with several other stories written in the typical Ferber fashion. Some of the best stories she has yet published.

"Wintergreen," Janet Laing. A charming love story with an absorbing plot which transpires in a seashore village of Scotland.

"Unspeaking Gentleman," J. P. Marguard. A succession of flashing, thrilling incidents—duels, midnight attacks, escapes on horseback and by sea in the dead of night, political intrigue, treachery and open fighting—develops the amazing character of the Unspeaking Gentleman, as agreeable a hero as ever lived.

"Triumph of the Scarlet Pimpernel," Baroness Orczy. Master swordsman, daring rover and gallant gentleman, the Scarlet Pimpernel has lost none of his glamor and charm of earlier stories, which made him a favorite hero of many readers.

"Story of Grenfell of the Labrador," Dillon Wallace. "Dr. Grenfell's daily life on the bleak barren coast of North America constitutes a round of stirring adventure, which the author has set forth in a way that will live in the minds of his many readers, who will be glad to admit that fact is sometimes more thrilling than fiction."

"Autobiography," Theodore Roosevelt. A book which his many friends and admirers will be eager to read.
